Faces in the Water Janet Frame,1984      Faces in the Water Phyllis Reynolds Naylor,2002-02 Fifteen year old Dan Roberts continues his quest for an explanation to his family's threatening secret as well as the eerie occurrences that continue to haunt him      Faces In The Water Ranjit Lal,2010-04-12 What do you do when you discover an unspeakable truth about your parents The Diwanchand family boasted of having only sons no daughters The water from a magical well in their farmhouse was the reason behind this good fortune they said One day fifteen year old Gurmi sets out to look for the well and what he sees changes everyone's world forever The faces of three girls look up at him from the water and draw him into a world of fun games and cyber magic and Gurmi has to face up to an unnerving truth as murky as the surreal well What terrible crimes have been committed behind the walls of the rambling Diwanchand family home Will Gurmi and the ghost girls be able to avenge the evil that has taken place and prevent yet another unspeakable atrocity from occurring Funny yet sensitive and immensely powerful Faces in the Water is the story of lives lost to appease our society's insatiable hunger for male children and the price families pay for its sake      Face in the Water Charles Sheehan-Miles,2014-01-14 Jerusalem 1989 After his best friend dies of a drug overdose a Georgia Tech student walks away from his life eventually winding up in the ancient and narrow streets of Jerusalem during the first Palestinian Intifada At the crossroads of most of the world's major religions and conflicts Charles merely wants to submerge himself in work and discovery of a different culture but every step takes him back toward himself This is an early short story written by Charles Sheehan Miles author of the indie bestsellers Just Remember to Breathe and Republic      Faces in the Water Milton Stanley Livingston,1961      Questions of Power Susan J. Hubert,2002 Questions of Power The Politics of Women's Madness Narratives explores the ways in which women have used autobiographical writing in response to psychiatric symptoms and treatment By addressing health and healing from the patient's perspective the study raises questions about psychiatric practice and mental health policy The ultimate thesis is that autobiographies by women psychiatric patients can expose many of the problems in psychiatric treatment and indicate directions for change BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved      Faces in the Fire Frank W. Boreham,2013-08-01 Though Baptist preacher Frank W Boreham was born and educated in England and first rose to prominence as a religious thinker there he spent many of his later years working as a missionary in New Zealand Tasmania and Australia The essays in the collection Faces in the Fire are largely autobiographical in nature drawing on lessons Boreham learned during his travels      A Framework for Physical Education in the Early Years M. E. Carroll, Miss Hazel Manners, Hazel Manners,2003-10-04 This text examines the National Curriculum Physical Education to Key Stage 1 in the light of recent changes It identifies six basic principles which provide the foundation for the rationale curriculum content the teaching and the planning processes required in providing a balanced programme for children aged 3 to 7 years Special attention is paid to movement education for children of nursery age providing as it does a sound foundation for later work in the early years Games gymnastics dance and swimming are covered in detail and sample units of work for each group provide students in initial teacher training and teachers with valuable materials for use in schools The final chapter looks at the role of the curriculum leader or co ordinator for physical education at Key Stage 1 offering guidance on how to agree and implement a common school policy Janet Frame

Matthew Paul Pierre,2011-05-12 In Janet Frame Semiotics and Biosemiotics in Her Early Fiction Paul Matthew St Pierre exploits the linguistic discipline of semiotics and the neurobiological discipline of biosemiotics to propose an original and dynamic reading of the first four works of fiction by New Zealand writer Janet Frame 1924 2004 The Lagoon Stories 1951 Owls Do Cry 1957 Faces in the Water 1961 and The Edge of the Alphabet 1962 Opposing the prevailing reading of Frame s early fiction as autobiographical deriving from her medical history he argues her books are singular evocations of her astonishing imagination His purpose is to fix this historical record and provide an alternative model for interpreting one of the 20th century s most stylistically demanding and rewarding writers Semiotics and biosemiotics are his means for unlocking the early fiction and her later works to a polemical analysis focusing on language sign transmissions writing the body and the biosemiotic self In The Lagoon Owls Do Cry Faces in the Water and The Edge of the Alphabet Frame produced what St Pierre interprets as an original semiotic and biosemiotic modeling system that she applied throughout her oeuvre of twenty books comprising eight story collections seven novels a book of poetry a children s novel and three volumes of autobiography Using this modeling system she designed her fiction as a visual verbal field consisting of still and moving images generated in the imagination located in the brains and central nervous systems of her narrators characters and readers and primarily of the author herself The author discusses the significations of 1 Frame s image signs in water glass photographs film membranes skin and clothing 2 her primary sign repertoire of objects language and human persons in the figures of blood skin and sun 3 her body signs including those generated in the circulatory and neurological systems of all human organisms as biosemiotic living s

Faces in the Forest Michael D. Blackstock,2001-11-16 In Faces in the Forest Michael Blackstock a forester and an artist takes us into the sacred forest revealing the mysteries of carvings paintings and writings done on living trees by First Nations people Blackstock details this rare art form through oral histories related by the Elders blending spiritual and academic perspectives on Native art cultural geography and traditional ecological knowledge Faces in the Forest begins with a review of First Nations cosmology and the historical references to tree art Blackstock then takes us on a metaphorical journey along the remnants of trading and trapping trails to tree art sites in the Gitksan Nisga a Tlingit Carrier and Dene traditional territories before concluding with reflections on the function and meaning of tree art its role within First Nations cosmology and the need for greater respect for all of our natural resources This fascinating study of a haunting and little known cultural phenomenon helps us to see our forests with new eyes

Faces in the Firelight Lawrence Rubinoff,2007-02-01 From a glimpse into early man and his later descendents who establish a branch of the human family on the continent of Asia the novel moves along into the mid twentieth century to the Second World War and the 1950s Book two contains approximately two thirds of the novel chronicling the dramatic experiences of its three protagonists Dimitri Kagan from a small town south of Stalingrad Kurt Wilhelm Schmidt born on a farm outside of Hanover and Elijah Milbrook Cole a black teenager of latent artistic talent dealing with life in a Detroit ghetto After becoming participants in the War the story goes on to tell how their lives interact with profound consequences for all three of them And it ends with a meeting in a Middle Eastern venue that again touches their lives in unforgettable ways Complex subjects are explored yet the novel can be read on different levels as a straight adventure or as one possible historical perspective of humanity s march from earliest times into the present day But however the material might be viewed the force of the narrative will keep readers engrossed until the final page
