Faces London Connection S:

The Engineer, 1872 Electric Railway Engineering Horace Field Parshall, Henry Metcalf Hobart, 1908 Losing Face Ilana Krausman Ben-Amos, 2022-03-03 This book is a study of shame in English society in the two centuries between c 1550 and c 1750 demonstrating the ubiquity and powerful hold it had on contemporaries over the entire era Using insights drawn from the social sciences the book investigates multiple meanings and manifestations of shame in everyday lives and across private and public domains exploring the practice and experience of shame in devotional life and family relations amid social networks and in communities or the public at large The book pays close attention to variations and distinctive forms of shame while also uncovering recurring patterns a spectrum ranging from punitive exclusionary and coercive shame through more conciliatory lenient and inclusive forms Placing these divergent forms in the context of the momentous social and cultural shifts that unfolded over the course of the era the book challenges perceptions of the waning of shame in the transition from early modern to modern times arguing instead that whereas some modes of shame diminished or disappeared others remained vital were reformulated and vastly enhanced Making Faces Adam S. Wilkins, 2017-01-02 Humans possess the most expressive faces in the animal kingdom Adam Wilkins presents evidence ranging from the fossil record to recent findings of genetics molecular biology and developmental biology to reconstruct the fascinating story of how the human face evolved Beginning with the first vertebrate faces half a billion years ago and continuing to dramatic changes among our recent human ancestors Making Faces illuminates how the unusual characteristics of the human face came about both the physical shape of facial features and the critical role facial expression plays in human society Offering more than an account of morphological changes over time and space which rely on findings from paleontology and anthropology Wilkins also draws on comparative studies of living nonhuman species He examines the genetic foundations of the remarkable diversity in human faces and also shows how the evolution of the face was intimately connected to the evolution of the brain Brain structures capable of recognizing different individuals as well as reading and reacting to their facial expressions led to complex social exchanges Furthermore the neural and muscular mechanisms that created facial expressions also allowed the development of speech which is unique to humans In demonstrating how the physical evolution of the human face has been inextricably intertwined with our species growing social complexity Wilkins argues that it was both the product and enabler of human sociality Connections: Year B, Volume 1 Joel B. Green, Thomas G. Long, Luke A. Powery, Cynthia L. Rigby, Carolyn J. Sharp, 2020-10-06 Designed to empower preachers as they lead their congregations to connect their lives to Scripture Connections features a broad set of interpretive tools that provide commentary and worship aids on the Revised Common Lectionary This nine volume series offers creative commentary on each reading through the lens of its connections to the rest of Scripture and then seeing the reading through the lenses of culture film fiction ethics and other aspects of contemporary life Commentaries on the Psalms make connections to other readings and to the congregation's experience of

worship Connections is published in partnership with Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary The Railway Magazine, 1927 United States Coast Pilot, 1998 Why Face-to-Face Still Matters Jonathan Reades, Martin Crookston, 2021-03-18 What makes a great city Why do people and businesses still value urban life and buildings over a quiet life in the suburbs or countryside Now might seem a difficult time to make the case for social contact in urban areas so why is face to face contact still considered crucial to many 21st century economies In a look back over a century s worth of thinking about cities business and office locations this accessible book explains their ongoing importance as places that thrive on face to face meetings and in negotiating uncertainty and sealing the deal Using interviews with business leaders and staff from knowledge intensive innovation rich industries it argues for the continuing value of the right location despite the information revolution the penetration of artificial intelligence AI and the COVID 19 pandemic It also explores why digital systems have transformed businesses in cities and towns but in fact have changed surprisingly little about the challenges of business life This timely book gives readers including developers investors policy makers and students of planning or geography essential tools for thinking about the future of places ranging from market towns to great World Cities The Cognitive Neuroscience of Face Processing Nancy Kanwisher, Morris Moscovitch, 2000 This special issue showcases new findings from many investigators in this field in studies that use a wide range of experimental techniques including brain imaging ERPs patient studies and single unit recording in monkeys The Teen's Guide to Face-to-Face Connections in a Screen-to-Screen World Jonathan McKee, Alyssa McKee, 2020-11-01 What if your phone truly helped you connect with people more than disconnect with those around you You CAN dare to be relationally different in a screen to screen culture But honestly I like my phone So what should I do You probably enjoy screens but don t want them hurting your relationships with the people who matter most right What if you could improve your face to face relationships develop deeper connections resolve conflict and confidently communicate with friends parents teachers roommates coworkers potential employers even the barista at your local coffee shop What if you paused to think before you posted avoiding some of the hurt and consequences that almost always lead to regret after What if you became a master of your own screen time instead of letting it master you What if you became more screen wise 40 real life realizations including Your phone doesn t have an UNSEND button Texting is a dumb way to manage conflict We all need a digital detox every once in a while Sometimes less is more Phones are a great tool for connecting with people outside of the room when they don t interfere with the people inside the room Sometimes the people we love the most are the people we ignored all day Author and youth culture expert Jonathan McKee and his daughter Alyssa McKee uncover forty random realizations they ve discovered over the last five years Screens provide fun platforms to connect with faraway friends and sometimes the people we love the most are the people we ignore all day Jonathan and Alyssa help young adults navigate face to face communication in a screen to screen world too Maybe they ll help you navigate face to face communication in a screen to screen world too Wordsworth's Poetry of Repetition

Sarah Houghton-Walker,2023 This book explores those moments of repetition placing them in the early nineteenth century context from which they emerged and teasing out through extended close attention to the poetry itself the complexities of repetition and recapitulation The Opened Letter Lindsay O'Neill,2015 By the early eighteenth century the rapid expansion of the British empire had created a technological problem communication and networking became increasingly vital yet harder to maintain As colonial possessions and populations grew and more individuals moved around the globe Britons both at home and abroad required a constant and reliable means of communication to conduct business plumb intellectual concerns discuss family matters run distant estates and exchange news As face to face communication became more intermittent men and women across the early modern British world relied on letters In The Opened Letter historian Lindsay O'Neill explores the importance and impact of networking via letter writing among the members of the elite from England Ireland and the colonies Combining extensive archival research with social network digital technology The Opened Letter captures the dynamic associations that created a vibrant expansive and elaborate web of communication The author examined more than 10 000 letters produced by such figures as Virginia planters William Byrd I and his son William Byrd II the Anglo Irish nobleman John Perceval the newly minted Duke of Chandos James Brydges and his wife Cassandra Brydges and Sir Hans Sloane the president of the Royal Society and his colleague Peter Collinson She also mined letters from the likes of Nicholas Blundell a Catholic member of the Lancashire gentry and James Eliot a London merchant and ardent Quaker The Opened Letter reassembles and presents the vital individual and interlocking epistolary webs constructed by disparate groups of letter writers These early social networks illuminate the structural social and geographic workings of the British world as the nation was becoming a dominant global power Official Gazette of the United States Patent Office United States.
