The Woman Who Walked into the Sea Alice Wexler, 2008-09-30 A groundbreaking medical and social history of a devastating hereditary neurological disorder once demonized as the witchcraft disease When Phebe Hedges a woman in East Hampton New York walked into the sea in 1806 she made visible the historical experience of a family affected by the dreaded disorder of movement mind and mood her neighbors called St Vitus's dance Doctors later spoke of Huntington's chorea and today it is known as Huntington's disease This book is the first history of Huntington's in America Starting with the life of Phebe Hedges Alice Wexler uses Huntington's as a lens to explore the changing meanings of heredity disability stigma and medical knowledge among ordinary people as well as scientists and physicians She addresses these themes through three overlapping stories the lives of a nineteenth century family once said to belong to the disease the emergence of Huntington's chorea as a clinical entity and the early twentieth century transformation of this disorder into a cautionary eugenics tale In our own era of expanding genetic technologies this history offers insights into the social contexts of medical and scientific knowledge as well as the legacy of eugenics in shaping both the knowledge and the lived experience of this disease     The Cambridge Handbook of Human Affective Neuroscience Jorge Armony, Patrik Vuilleumier, 2013-01-21 This handbook is the only single volume to capture the current range of neuroscience approaches to human emotion The contributions written by the world's leading scientists in the field address a wide variety of topics from face and voice perception to pain and music as well as social behaviors decision making and individual differences     Understanding Emotions ,2006-11-13 Emotions shape all aspects of our thinking and behavior particularly when we communicate with others How does our brain respond to emotions conveyed by picture media human faces voices and written language How do we integrate this information in social interaction What goes wrong in the brains of people suffering from emotional disorders This book reviews modern neuroscientific and psychological research providing answers to these questions In this volume leading researchers give comprehensive overviews of the current knowledge on different aspects of emotional perception and the underlying brain mechanisms and highlight outstanding research questions for the future This book provides essential information for other researchers in the fields of affective and cognitive neuroscience as well as for advanced students     Pictures from an Expedition Diane Smith, 2004-03-30 Diane Smith's acclaimed novels feature strong heroines memorable characters surprising revelations from the natural sciences and an original perspective on the American West Set in 1876 right after the Battle of Little Big Horn her new novel tells of Eleanor Peterson a scientific illustrator in her late thirties and her friend and mentor Augustus Starwood an aging portrait painter with a passion for Shakespeare who join a diverse band of adventurers heading west to Montana to work on a dinosaur fossil dig Told through Eleanor's remembrances years later the story recounts the experiences of this ambitious and at times contentious field crew as they argue over prevailing theories of evolution contend with rival scientists and worry about Indians moving north after their defeat of Custer A vivid portrait of both the natural environment and the issues and ideas of the time Smith's novel is ultimately a story of personal discovery revealing the redemptive power of the land and its rivers     Neuropsychological Assessment of Neuropsychiatric and Neuromedical Disorders Igor Grant, Kenneth M. Adams, 2009-03-10 This is a major revision of a standard reference work for neuropsychologists psychiatrists and neurologists About one half of the book contains entirely new work by new contributors New topics not covered in the previous editions include consideration of common sources of neurocognitive morbidity such as multiple sclerosis diabetes and exposure to heavy metals psychiatric and behavioral disorders associated with traumatic brain injury neuropsychology in relation to everyday functioning the effects of cognitive impairment on driving skills and adherence to medical treatments The Third Edition aims to reflect the enormous developments in neuropsychology in terms of research clinical applications and growth of new talent during the past decade At one time focused on mapping the cognitive and related consequences of brain injuries research in neuropsychology has now expanded to much broader considerations of the effects of systemic disease infection medications and inflammatory processes on neurocognition and emotion The Third Edition attempts to capture these developments while continuing to adhere to the objective of presenting them in a concise manner in a single volume

Face Perception Andy Young, Vicki Bruce, 2013-01-11 Human faces are unique biological structures that convey a complex variety of important social messages Even strangers can tell things from our faces our feelings our locus of attention something of what we are saying our age sex and ethnic group whether they find us attractive In recent years there has been genuine progress in understanding how our brains derive all these different messages from faces and what can happen when one or other of the structures involved is damaged Face Perception provides an up to date integrative summary by two authors who have helped develop and shape the field over the past 30 years It encompasses topics as diverse as the visual information our brains can exploit when we look at faces whether prejudicial attitudes can affect how we see faces and how people with neurodevelopmental disorders see faces The material is digested and summarised in a way that is accessible to students within a structure that focuses on the different things we can do with faces It offers a compelling synthesis of behavioural neuropsychological and cognitive neuroscience approaches to develop a distinctive point of view of the area The book concludes by reviewing what is known about the development of face processing and re examines the question of what makes faces special Written in a clear and accessible style this is invaluable reading for all students and researchers interested in studying face perception and social cognition
