Campbell,Sarah Nagle,2025-08-07 This book is designed to empower librarians to develop their research skills and embrace their identities as scholars Many librarians particularly those in academic libraries are expected to engage in research and scholarly output However unlike disciplinary faculty most librarians have not completed a PhD program and many have never designed or participated in original research upon embarking on their career This edited volume provides inspiration and support for academic librarians looking to develop or refresh their research skills and develop their scholarly identities The focus of this book is toward empowering librarians as researchers rather than librarians supporting student or faculty research This book provides a venue for librarians to share their knowledge on different aspects of research as well as build community for other librarians to actualize their own identities as researchers The existing literature and research in the realm of librarian identity development often touches on librarian identities in the face of emerging technologies and new library types or how librarians can support research at their institutions However there is a gap in the literature around librarians developing their own identities as researchers Librarians have a unique role in the scholarly community we often sacrifice our own research interests so that we can provide support and instruction to others whether it be faculty students or the public But the library world holds immense opportunity for developing and executing original research Additionally conducting research is beneficial to librarians individual practice as well as the library community as a whole This edited volume will provide guidance as well as actionable methods for librarians to develop foundational research philosophies create communities of practice and hone practical skills in a wide range of research areas Proceedings of the Annual Federal Interagency Field Librarians Workshop ,1972 Journal of Education for Librarianship ,1970 Vols for 1971 1984 include an unnumbered directory issue of the association under its various names which is cataloged separately Library Research in Progress ,1959 Leadership in the Library and Information Science Professions Mark Winston,2013-12-19 Safely guide your library into the new millennium Like so much else in the information professions leadership styles are being forced to change to meet the demands of technological innovation Leadership in the Library and Information Science Professions is among the first books to focus on this increasingly important job qualification It offers practical advice for developing strong flexible and creative leadership skills in yourself and your staff This fascinating volume stresses the leadership needed to manage change The essential skills taught here will help you update library services at a reasonable pace while preserving valuable low tech alternatives As one chapter recommends Every librarian at every level should have ready an answer multiple answers to the ubiquitous questions Why do we still need libraries when everything is on the Web How can you justify an expanding budget in the Internet Age Leadership in the Library and Information Science Professions offers fresh ideas for developing and using leadership skills including recruiting tips for identifying potential leaders staff training and development restructuring the organization to encourage full staff participation budget strategies for successful leaders issues of gender and ethnic diversity evaluating and assessing leadershipLeadership in the Library and Information Science Professions is an essential resource for library administrators and staff By developing your leadership skills and those of your staff you can confidently face the hectic pace of change in the information sciences
