Women in the New Taiwan Catherine Farris, Lee Anru, Murray A. Rubinstein, An East Gate Book, 2020-08-26 Taiwan's rapid socio-economic and political transformation has given rise to a gender-conscious middle class that is attempting to redefine the roles of women in society to restructure relationship patterns and to organize in groups outside the family unit. This book examines internal psychological processes and external societal processes as the feminist movement in Taiwan expands and new gender roles are explored. The contributors represent a cross-section of different disciplines: history, anthropology, and sociology, and different generations of China/Taiwan scholars. They place the issues facing Taiwan's women's movement in social, political, and economic contexts. The book examines gender relations, the role of women in Chinese society, and issues related to women in China throughout history. Feminism and gender relations are also viewed from the context of film and literature. The authors look at the contemporary roles that women play in Taiwan's work force today, how the sexes perceive each other in the workplace, and more.

Women's Movements in Twentieth-Century Taiwan Doris Chang, 2010-10-01 This book is the first in English to consider women's movements and feminist discourses in twentieth-century Taiwan. Doris T. Chang examines the way in which Taiwanese women in the twentieth century selectively appropriated Western feminist theories to meet their needs in a modernizing Confucian culture. She illustrates the rise and fall of women's movements against the historical backdrop of the island's contested national identities: first vis-à-vis imperial Japan (1895-1945) and later with postwar China (1945-2000). In particular, during periods of soft authoritarianism in the Japanese colonial era and late twentieth-century autonomous women's movements emerged and operated within the political parameters set by the authoritarian regimes. Women strove to replace the Good Wife Wise Mother ideal with an individualist feminism that meshed social, political, and economic gender equity with the prevailing Confucian family ideology. However, during periods of hard authoritarianism from the 1930s to the 1960s, the autonomous movements collapsed. The particular brand of Taiwanese feminism developed from numerous outside influences, including interactions among an East Asian sociopolitical milieu, various strands of Western feminism, and even Marxist-Leninist women's liberation programs in Soviet Russia. Chinese communism appears not to have played a significant role due to the Chinese Nationalists' restriction of communication with the mainland during their rule on post-World War II Taiwan. Notably, this study compares the perspectives of Madame Chiang Kai-shek, whose husband led as the president of the Republic of China on Taiwan from 1949 to 1975, and Hsiu-lin Annette Lu, Taiwan's vice president from 2000 to 2008 Delving into period sources such as the highly influential feminist monthly magazine Awakening as well as interviews with feminist leaders Chang provides a comprehensive historical and cross cultural analysis of the struggle for gender equality in Taiwan The Indigenous Dynamic in Taiwan's Postwar Development: Religious and Historical Roots of Entrepreneurship Ian Skoggard, 2016-09-16 Using Taiwan's third largest export industry shoe manufacturing as a case study this work contends that economic development can be tied to Taiwan's own cultural history as well as to the influx of foreign capital or the initiatives of the state government Factory Work, Women and the Family in Taiwan Lydia Kung, 1978
