Failed Federations Robin W. Winks, 1970 Defunct Federalisms Emilian Kavalski, Magdalena Zolkos, 2016-05-13
Since the end of the Cold War the global arena has become a place for dynamic change in particular for federal political units. The focus on defunct federalisms draws attention not only to the difference between state making and nation building; it also points to the fact that state making does not necessarily lead to the creation of a national identity. This comparative volume looks at the track record of several defunct federalisms to identify options that have been overlooked and decisions that precipitated the collapse. Bringing together insights from the study of state failure and federal collapse, it examines the ways in which parallel assessment is crucial for suggesting the complex structures of identity accommodation in federal entities. The volume is ideal for advanced undergraduates and graduate students as well as university lecturers and researchers working on the issues related to contemporary federalism, history of federal units and the questions of national identity.

Decolonisation, Identity and Nation in Rhodesia, 1964-1979 David Kenrick, 2019-11-02. This book explores concepts of decolonisation, identity and nation in the white settler society of Rhodesia, now Zimbabwe, between 1964 and 1979. It considers how white settlers used the past to make claims of authority in the present. It investigates the white Rhodesian state's attempts to assert its independence from Britain and develop a Rhodesian national identity by changing Rhodesia's old colonial symbols and examines how the meaning of these national symbols changed over time. Finally, the book offers insights into the role of race in Rhodesian national identity, showing how portrayals of a timeless black population were highly dependent upon circumstance and reflective of white settler anxieties. Using a comparative approach, the book shows parallels between Rhodesia and other settler societies as well as other post-colonial nation states and even metropolises as themes and narratives of decolonisation travelled around the world.

The Politics and Economics of Decolonization in Africa Andrew Cohen, 2017-05-26. The slow collapse of the European colonial empires after 1945 provides one of the great turning points of twentieth-century history. With the loss of India, however, the British under Harold Macmillan attempted to enforce a second colonial occupation, supporting the efforts of Sir Andrew Cohen of the Colonial Office to create a Central African Federation. Drawing on newly released archival material, The Politics and Economics of Decolonization offers a fresh examination of Britain's central African territories in the late colonial period and provides a detailed assessment of how events in Britain, Africa and the UN shaped the process of decolonization. The author situates the Central African Federation, which consisted of modern-day Zambia, Zimbabwe and Malawi, in its wider international context, shedding light on the Federation's complex relationships with South Africa, with US Presidents Dwight Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy and with the expanding United Nations. The result is an important history of the last days of the British Empire and the beginnings of a more independent African continent.

Empires and Colonies Jonathan Hart, 2014-02-06. Empires and Colonies provides a thoroughgoing and lively exploration of the expansion of the seaborne empires of western Europe from the fifteenth century and how that process of expansion affected the world including its successor the United States Whilst providing special attention to Europe the book is careful to highlight the ambivalence and contradiction of that expansion The book also illuminates connections between empires and colonies as a theme in history concentrating on culture while also discussing the rich social economic and political dimensions of the story Furthermore Empires and Colonies recognizes that whilst a study of the expansion of Europe is an important part of world history it is not a history of the world per se The focus on culture is used to assert that areas and peoples that lack great economic power at any given time also deserve attention These alternative voices of slaves indigenous peoples and critics of empire and colonization are an important and compelling element of the book Empires and Colonies will be essential reading not only for students of imperial history but also for anyone interested in the makings of our modern world

The Decolonisation of Zimbabwe Kate Law, 2020-05-21 Rhodesia's illegal Unilateral Declaration of Independence UDI in 1965 is an act that not only shaped regional politics but also had a profound effect on Britain's attempt to retreat from its empire This edited collection brings together leading voices in the field whose contributions on the role of finance big business and the regional and international actors involved in the country's negotiated independence update long held historiographical wisdoms signalling a revival in economic and diplomatic explanations for the country's decolonisation In particular they shed fresh light on the roles played in the decolonisation of Zimbabwe by economic private business and political liberation movements Western and Southern African governments actors that until now have been studied with very limited access to primary sources As scholarship on Zimbabwe is currently dominated by studies that seek to understand the crisis in which the country has recently found itself this collection acts as a clarion call that reinforces the importance of studies of earlier historical processes In doing so the book provides a more nuanced understanding of the continuities and discontinuities between Zimbabwe's colonial and postcolonial history and examines the roles played by external governments and individuals in the decolonisation of Zimbabwe This book was originally published as a special issue of The Journal of Imperial and Commonwealth History

Federalism and Ethnic Conflict Regulation in India and Pakistan K. Adeney, 2016-01-12 Katharine Adeney demonstrates that institutional design is the most important explanatory variable in understanding the different intensity and types of conflict in the two countries rather than the role of religion Adeney examines the extent to which previous constitutional choices explain current day conflicts

Beyond Federation Emma Hunter, Daniel Branch, Ismay Milford, Gerard McCann, 2025-08-18 In the period of mid twentieth century decolonization when nationalism and globalism were hotly contested East Africans nurtured regionalism in their intellectual and creative work This book looks beyond political projects of federation to recover ideas and practices of regionalism their remarkable longevity and their significance for understanding possibilities of radical change In doing so it tells a different story about the fate of the category of East

Africa building on a body of scholarship about the imagined political communities of decolonizing Africa and rejecting narratives that explain the failure of regional integration as the immediate consequence of postcolonial authoritarianism or global economic crisis

Survival in the 'Dumping Grounds' Laura Evans, 2019-05-27 Survival in the Dumping Grounds examines a defining aspect of South Africa's recent past the history of apartheid era relocation While scholars and activists have long recognised the suffering caused by apartheid removals to the so called homelands the experiences of those who lived through this process have been more often obscured Drawing on extensive archival and oral history research this book examines the makings and the multiple meanings of relocation into two of the most notorious apartheid dumping grounds established in the Ciskei bantustan during the mid 1960s Sada and Ilinge Evans examines the local and global dynamics of the project of bantustan relocation and develops a multi layered analysis of the complex histories and ramifications of displacement and resettlement in the Ciskei

Labour and Economic Change in Southern Africa c.1900-2000 Rory Pilosof, Andrew Cohen, 2021-06-03 This book explores the social and economic development of Zimbabwe Zambia and Malawi over the course of the twentieth century These three countries have long shared and interconnected pasts All three were drawn into the British Empire at a similar time and the formation of the ill fated Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland formally linked these countries together for a decade in the mid twentieth century This formal political relationship created dynamics that resulted in yet closer economic and social links After Federation the economic realities of industry transport and labour supplies meant that these three countries continued to be intricately interconnected Yet despite these connected pasts comparative work on the economic histories of Malawi Zambia and Zimbabwe and how these change over time is rare This book addresses the gap by providing the first comprehensive collection of labour and census data across the twentieth century for these three countries The different economic models and performances of these states offer good comparison allowing researchers to look at different models of development and how these played out over the long term The book provides data on population growth and change industrial and occupational structure and the various shifts in what the economically active population did It will be useful for historians economists development studies scholars and non governmental organisations working on twentieth century and contemporary southern Africa

Taxing Colonial Africa Leigh A. Gardner, 2012-10-04 How much did the British Empire cost and how did Britain pay for it Taxing Colonial Africa explores a source of funds much neglected in research on the financial structure of the Empire namely revenue raised in the colonies themselves Requiring colonies to be financially self sufficient was one of a range of strategies the British government used to lower the cost of imperial expansion to its own Treasury Focusing on British colonies in Africa Leigh Gardner examines how their efforts to balance their budgets influenced their relationships with local political stakeholders as well as the imperial government She finds that efforts to balance the budget shaped colonial public policy at every level and that compromises made in the face of financial constraints shaped the political and economic institutions that were established by colonial administrations and inherited by the former colonies at independence Using both quantitative data on public revenue and expenditure as well as archival records from archives in both the UK and the former colonies Gardner follows the development of fiscal policies in British Africa from the beginning of colonial rule through the first years of independence During the formative years of colonial administration both the structure of taxation and the allocation of public spending reflected the two central goals of colonial rule maintaining order as cheaply as possible and encouraging export production Taxing Colonial Africa examines how the fiscal systems established before 1914 coped with the upheavals of subsequent decades including the two World Wars the Great Depression and finally the transfer of power

Decolonizing the History Curriculum in Malaysia and Singapore Kevin Blackburn, ZongLun Wu, 2019-05-09 Decolonizing the History Curriculum in Malaysia and Singapore is a unique study in the history of education because it examines decolonization in terms of how it changed the subject of history in the school curriculum of two colonized countries Malaysia and Singapore Blackburn and Wu's book analyzes the transition of the subject of history from colonial education to postcolonial education from the history syllabus upholding the colonial order to the period after independence when the history syllabus became a tool for nation building Malaysia and Singapore are excellent case studies of this process because they once shared a common imperial curriculum in the English language schools that was gradually decolonized to form the basis of the early history syllabuses of the new nation states they were briefly one nation state in the early to mid 1960s The colonial English language history syllabus was decolonized into a national curriculum that was translated for the Chinese Malay and Tamil schools of Malaysia and Singapore By analyzing the causes and consequences of the dramatic changes made to the teaching of history in the schools of Malaya and Singapore as Britain ended her empire in Southeast Asia Blackburn and Wu offer fascinating insights into educational reform the effects of decolonization on curricula and the history of Malaysian and Singaporean education
