The Ancient Rime of Jonah recounts the experiences of the prophet Jonah after he has returned home from his epic journey. The narrator recognizes the prophet as he enters the city gates and is anxious to hear his tale. Soon his audience is captivated by the emotional account of his interactions with sailors, a great fish, the people of Nineveh, and the almighty God. There lay the sea, the spacious sea. O how its vats do teem. With living things both great and small, abundant and pristine. His adventure dramatizes the truth that the same mercy and forgiveness available from God to Jonah is also available to his enemies when they repent and believe.

San Francisco in Fiction David M. Fine, Paul Skenazy, 1995. In the beginning there was the bay, the land, the forty-three hills, the coastline down to Monterey, the strip of mountains, the quiet valley behind the vast ocean, the hidden faults. And with the landscape came the stories, as Paul Skenazy and David Fine note in their introduction to this new anthology of essays. San Francisco is as much a place in the mind as on the map; if the terrain set the stage for the stories, the stories have helped remake our perceptions of the space. These twelve essays explore the relationship between place and prose between San Francisco the city and San Francisco the territory of fiction. From the Gold Rush times of Mark Twain and Bret Harte through the Prohibition Era of Dashiell Hammett to the Beat days of Jack Kerouac and the present works of writers like Maxine Hong Kingston, Amy Tan, and Arturo Islas, San Francisco has been blessed with great writers who have given life to the land in their fiction. These essays engage the history and geography, ethnic, gender, and class conflicts, and stylistic range of the fiction. They demonstrate how authors as various as Jack London, Gertrude Atherton, Frank Norris, William Saroyan, James D. Houston, Joan Didion, and Wallace Stegner have re-created and revised our understanding of this region.
