Health And Health Care In Later Life:

The Legacy of Longevity Sidney M. Stahl,1990-10 Researchers in gerontology sum up current knowledge of health and ageing Topics range from conceptual and measurement issues to social factors in health and illness to service utilization and medical consumerism amongst the elderly Health and Health Care Utilization in Later Life Jon Hendricks,2019-04-04 The debate over national health insurance has renewed attention on the health and health care utilization of the elderly Few questions have been more poignant than the health of the United States elderly As a broad ranging critical look Health and Health Care Utilization in Later Life brings the central questions facing the elderly into bold relief It spans the range of health concerns the elderly face daily The debates over health care rage often without having the relevant facts Health and Health Care Utilization in Later Life brings the facts to the fore but just as importantly it brings a sensitive feeling for the realities of health as a driving force in the daily lives of old people Health and Health Care in Later Life Christina R. Victor,1991 One of the most potent images of later life is the general association between age and ill health The stereotype of later life is that it is characterized by universal and inevitable ill health The ageing of the population is therefore regarded as problematic because of the high consumption of health and social care by older people These two issues the health status of older people and the provision of health and social care are addressed in this volume The first section of the book presents an overview of the physical and mental health in later life It also addresses the health beliefs and behaviour of older people The second section of the book describes current patterns of health and social care utilization by older people and concludes with a discussion of how these may be affected by recent policy changes in Britain Desexualisation in Later Life Paul Simpson,Paul Reynolds,Trish Hafford-Letchfield,2021-07-19 Despite evidence of a more sexually active third age ageing and later life 50 are still commonly represented as a process of desexualisation Challenging this assumption and ageist stereotypes this interdisciplinary volume investigates the experiential and theoretical landscapes of older people s sexual intimacies practices and pleasures Contributors explore the impact of desexualisation in various contexts and across different identities orientations relationships and practices This enlightening text reflecting international scholarship considers how we can distinguish the real challenges faced by older people from the prejudices imposed on them Researching Later Life and Ageing Miranda Leontowitsch,2016-11-09 This collection on researching later life and ageing critically reflects upon the qualitative methods used in gaining knowledge of under researched groups of older people and sets out future research agendas Learning in Later Life Trish Hafford-Letchfield,2016-06-17 Within the UK and Europe government legislation and policies concerned with demography have asserted a paradigmatic shift towards the increased engagement of older people with public services The philosophy of user involvement and co production within these contexts has become integral to finding ways in which to improve the wellbeing of older people and their experiences of ageing well Whilst this area has been steadily emerging within the educational field in relation to the lifelong learning of older people there has been a relative under theorization and a lack of empirical research however into the lifelong learning needs opportunities and experiences of those older people using social care who are typically marginalized from these debates and developments This book address this gap by paying specific attention to examining what opportunities might be present within care services and public services in general for older people using social care to capitalize on the skills and knowledge they might need to achieve more person centred support Through developing a debate and argument for the convergence of the lifelong learning agenda with social policy and social care its core argument focusses on the challenge of sustainability of the care and support of older people The author explores how social care could engage more meaningfully with concepts such as social capital and the challenges associated with achieving a genuine co productive approach towards the quality of experience of older people using social care This book will be an essential read for professionals working with older people in health and social care as well as those engaged with gerontology and ageing studies in education and practice

The Patient as Agent of Health and Health Care Mark Sullivan, MD, PhD, 2016-12-15 Patient centered care for chronic illness is founded upon the informed and activated patient but we are not clear what this means We must understand patients as subjects who know things and as agents who do things Bioethics has urged us to respect patient autonomy but it has understood this autonomy narrowly in terms of informed consent for treatment choice In chronic illness care the ethical and clinical challenge is to not just respect but to promote patient autonomy understood broadly as the patients overall agency or capacity for action The primary barrier to patient action in chronic illness is not clinicians dictating treatment choice but clinicians dictating the nature of the clinical problem The patient s perspective on clinical problems is now often added to the objective disease perspective of clinicians as health related quality of life HRQL But HRQL is merely a hybrid transitional concept between disease focused and health focused goals for clinical care Truly patient centered care requires a sense of patient centered health that is perceived by the patient and defined in terms of the patient s vital goals Patient action is an essential means to this patient centered health as well as an essential component of this health This action is not extrinsically motivated adherence but intrinsically motivated striving for vital goals Modern pathophysiological medicine has trouble understanding both patient action and health The self moving and self healing capacities of patients can be understood only if we understand their roots in the biological autonomy of organisms Taking the patient as the primary perceiver and producer of health has the following policy implications 1 Care will become patient centered only when the patient is the primary customer of care 2 Professional health services are not the principal source of population health and may lead to clinical social and cultural iatrogenic injury 3 Social justice demands equity in health capability more than equal access to health services

The Sociology of Healthcare Alan Clarke, 2013-09-13 The Sociology of Healthcare Second Edition explores the impact of current social changes on health illness and healthcare and provides an overview of the fundamental concerns in these areas This new edition features a brand new chapter entitled End of Life which will help health and social care workers to respond with confidence to one of the most difficult and challenging areas of care The End of Life chapter includes information on changing attitudes to death theories of death and dying and palliative care All chapters have been thoroughly updated to address diversity issues such as gender ethnicity and disability In addition expanded and updated chapters include Childhood and Adolescence and Health Inequalities The text is further enhanced through the use of case studies that relate theory to professional practice and discussion questions to aid understanding Links to websites direct the reader to further information on health social wellbeing and government policies This book is essential reading for all students of healthcare including nursing medicine midwifery and health studies and for those studying healthcare as part of sociology social care and social policy degrees In an age when health policy follows an individualist model of personal responsibility this book by Alan Clarke demonstrates with a vast array of evidence just how much there is such a thing as society An excellent overall book Dr Stephen Cowden Senior Lecturer in Social Work Coventry University      Ageing Resource Communities Mark Skinner, Neil Hanlon, 2015-09-16 Throughout the world's hinterland regions people are growing old in resource dependent communities that were neither originally designed nor presently equipped to support an ageing population This book provides cutting edge theoretical and empirical insights into the new phenomenon resource frontier ageing to understand the diverse experiences of and responses to rural population ageing in the early 21st century The book explores the resource hinterland as a new frontier of rural ageing and examines three central themes of rural population change community development and voluntarism that characterize ageing resource communities By investigating the links among these three themes the book provides the conceptual and empirical foundations for the future agenda of rural ageing research This timely contribution contains 15 original chapters by leading international experts from Australia New Zealand USA Canada UK Ireland and Norway      Age as an Equality Issue Sandra Fredman, Sarah Spencer, 2003-07 Until recently age discrimination attracted little social opprobrium However ageism has now been thrust onto the equality agenda by the spectre of an ageing population This has led to a range of policies on active ageing Most importantly legally binding legislation prohibiting age discrimination in employment will need to be in place by 2006 Remarkably little attention has been paid to the key issues To what extent is age inevitably linked with declining capacity What are the central aims of a policy on age equality and how can these be realised in law How should law and policy address age discrimination in health education and employment What lessons can be learned from the US and Europe And should young people be dealt with in the same way as older people This book answers these questions in a series of chapters by experts from a wide range of disciplines It begins by examining the nature of the ageing process and then turns to a detailed analysis of the concept of age equality In the light of this analysis the following three chapters critically assess employment education and health A separate chapter is devoted to discrimination against children The last two chapters consider the experience in the US and other European countries

Ageing in a Consumer Society Ian Rees Jones, Martin Hyde, 2008-09 This book provides a unique critical perspective on the changing nature of later life by examining the engagement of older people with consumer society in Britain since the 1960s The Individual and the Welfare State Axel Börsch-Supan, Martina Brandt, Karsten Hank, Mathis Schröder, 2011-04-13 Our health our income and our social networks at older ages are the consequence of what has happened to us over the course of our lives The situation at age 50 reflects our own decisions as well as many environmental factors especially interventions by the welfare state This book explores the richness of 28 000 life histories in thirteen European countries collected as part of the Survey of Health Ageing and Retirement in Europe SHARE Combining these data with a comprehensive account of European welfare state interventions provides a unique opportunity to answer the important public policy questions of our time how the welfare state affects people s incomes housing families retirement volunteering and health The overarching theme of the welfare state creates a book of genuinely interdisciplinary analyses a valuable resource for economists gerontologists historians political scientists public health analysts and sociologists alike

Loving Later Life Frits de Lange, 2015-04-27 Is loving later life possible In our youth obsessed culture nobody enjoys growing old We normally fear our own aging and generally do not love old people they remind us that death is inescapable the body frail and social status transitory In Loving Later Life Frits de Lange shows how an ethics of love can acknowledge and overcome this fear of aging and change our attitude toward the elderly De Lange reframes the biblical love command this way We must care for the aging other as we care for our own aging selves We can encourage positive self love by embracing life as we age taking good care of our own aging bodies staying good friends with ourselves and valuing the last season of life When we cultivate this kind of self love we are released from our aversion to growing old and set free to care about others who are aging our parents our relatives and others in their final season of life

Migration, Illness and Healthcare Jenny Altschuler, 2016-06-30 Forces such as political conflict globalisation and the growth of the internet offering news of life elsewhere mean levels of migration are higher now than at any other time in history Despite the signing of a number of legally binding international treaties that seek to guarantee health care for migrants there is still a considerable gap between government commitments and the reality of everyday life As levels of migration continue to increase it is essential for health care professionals to consider the differing needs of migrants in order to provide them with quality care Informed by systemic theory and drawing on the author's extensive clinical as well as personal experience this timely book explores the limited existing information about migrants health care experiences Providing a comprehensive insight into a worldwide issue this is an essential guide for health care students professionals and policy makers

Longevity and Quality of Life Robert N. Butler, Claude Jasmin, 2012-12-06 Nations around the world are experiencing a spectacular increase in longevity Society as a whole is being challenged by issues arising from this revolution in longevity Although the specter of the loneliness and existential suffering of older citizens is such that some people under the age of 65 find it difficult to conceive of a long term future persons over 85 have proven that aging does not necessarily preclude a healthy and productive life Extraordinary progress in both curative and preventive medicine justifies optimism about the quality of life and state of well being that can be enjoyed even in great old age We should look to professionals in diverse fields to develop creative solutions to the inevitable issues that will arise with aging Governments must prepare for the future health of their citizens by making long term investments to educate all sectors of society in the value of good nutrition exercise and lifestyles that enhance well being throughout life Also governments should realize that the main cause of health care expenditure is serious illness which occurs in persons of all ages and not predominantly in older people Early detection can help save lives as well Health and longevity of life will ultimately end as a political issue What is needed is long term government investments necessary for a viable health policy The question arises will world leaders be able to commit to such a policy Two major socioeconomic phenomena may have a regulating effect on this issue The first is the emergence of pressure groups that have come into being in response to a particular health issue such as AIDS The second is the emergence of ethics committees in developed nations that deal solely with health issues The SAGE Handbook of Social Gerontology Dale Dannefer, Chris Phillipson, 2010-08-13 This SAGE Handbook integrates basic research on social dimensions of aging It presents programmatic applications of research in areas not often seen in Handbooks including imprisonment technology and aging urban society aged and elderly migration The authors constitute a Who's Who of international gerontology and the focus on globalization and aging is unique among Handbooks today This Handbook should be in the library of every social gerontologist Vern L Bengtson Professor of Gerontology University of Southern California This volume reflects the emergence of ageing as a global concern including chapters by international scholars from Asia Australasia Europe and North America It provides a comprehensive overview of key trends and issues in the field drawing upon the full range of social science disciplines The Handbook is organized into five parts each exploring different aspects of research into social aspects of ageing Disciplinary overviews summaries of findings from key disciplinary areas within social gerontology Social relationships and social differences explores area like social inequality gender religion inter generational ties social networks and friendships Individual characteristics and change in later life examines different aspects of individual aging including self and identity cognitive processes and bio social interactions and their impact on physical and psychological aging Comparative perspectives and cultural innovations topics include ageing and development ageing in a global context migration and cross cultural perspectives on grandparenthood Policy issues covering policy concerns such as long term care technology and older people end of life issues work and retirement and the politics of old age This will be essential reading for all students researchers and policy makers concerned with the major issues influencing the lives of older people across the globe
