Henry Vaughan Selected Writing:

Selected Writings of Thomas Traherne Thomas Traherne, 1980 Thomas Traherne's poems were discovered in London in 1896 and originally assigned in error to Henry Vaughan. Later scholarship has established their true authorship. Traherne 1637-1674 was a remarkable religious writer. The son of a Hereford shoe maker, he was well educated, took religious orders, and pursued a varied career. Prior to the discovery of his poems, he was best known for his Centuries of Meditations, of which passages from the third are most widely anthologised. The visionary precision of his prose characterises his verse as well; he is not altogether orthodox mystic and in his best work a fine writer altogether. Dick Davis himself, a notable young poet, presents a selection from the full range of Traherne's poetry and prose and provides a critical and biographical introduction.

Henry Vaughan Henry Vaughan, 2004 Henry Vaughan 1621-1695 was a cavalier poet who sided with the king during the civil war. His influences included George Herbert, and this volume is the fifth in a series on seventeenth-century spiritual writing.

Poetry and Selected Prose, by Henry Vaughan Henry Vaughan, L. C. (editor) Martin, 1963 The Oxford Handbook of Early Modern English Literature and Religion Andrew Hiscock, Helen Wilcox, 2017-07-03 This pioneering Handbook offers a comprehensive consideration of the dynamic relationship between English literature and religion in the early modern period. The sixteenth and seventeenth centuries were the most turbulent times in the history of the British church, and perhaps as a result produced some of the greatest devotional poetry, sermons, polemics, and epics of literature in English. The early modern interaction of rhetoric and faith is addressed in thirty-nine chapters of original research, divided into five sections. The first analyses the changes within the church from the Reformation to the establishment of the Church of England, the phenomenon of puritanism, and the rise of non-conformity. The second section discusses ten genres in which faith was explored, including poetry, prophecy, drama, sermons, satire, and autobiographical writings. The middle section focuses on selected individual authors, among them Thomas More, Christopher Marlowe, John Donne, Lucy Hutchinson, and John Milton. Since authors never write in isolation, the fourth section examines a range of communities in which writers interpreted their faith: lay and religious households, sectarian groups including the Quakers, clusters of religious exiles, Jewish and Islamic communities, and those who settled in the new world. Finally, the fifth section considers some key topics and debates in early modern religious literature, ranging from ideas of authority and the relationship of body and soul to death, judgment, and eternity. The Handbook is framed by a succinct introduction, a chronology of religious and literary landmarks, a guide for new researchers in this field, and a full bibliography of primary and secondary texts relating to early modern English literature and religion.

A Selection of Metaphysical Poets Virginia Graham, 1996 The books in this A Level poetry series contain a glossary and notes on each page. The approach encourages students to develop their responses to the poems, and an A Level Chief Examiner offers exam tips. This text contains a selection of works by metaphysical poets, including Donne and Marvell.

Poetry and Selected Prose. Edited with an Introduction by L.C. Martin Henry Vaughan, Leonard Cyril MARTIN, 1963 Graffiti and the Writing Arts of Early Modern England Juliet Fleming, 2011-12-15 Tattoos and graffiti immediately bring to mind contemporary urban life and its inhabitants But in fact both practices date back much further than is generally thought even by scholars Drawing on a previously unavailable archive Juliet Fleming reveals the unknown and disregarded literary arts of sixteenth century England In Graffiti and the Writing Arts of Early Modern England Fleming argues that our modern assumptions of what constitutes written expression have limited our access to and understanding of early modern history and writing Fleming combines detailed historical scholarship with intellectual daring in a work that describes how writing practices have not been limited to the boundaries of the page instead they have included body surfaces ceramics ceilings walls and windows Moving beyond what has been preserved in print and manuscript this book claims the whitewashed wall as the primary textual canvas of the early modern English explores the tattooing practices of sixteenth century Europeans and uncovers the poetics of ceramic cookware Graffiti and the Writing Arts of Early Modern England will provide a startling new perspective for scholars of early modern literature and cultural history The Cambridge History of English Poetry Michael O'Neill, 2010-04-29 Poetry written in English is uniquely powerful and suggestive in its capacity to surprise unsettle shock console and move The Cambridge History of English Poetry offers sparkingly fresh and dynamic readings of an extraordinary range of poets and poems from Beowulf to Alice Oswald An international team of experts explores how poets in England Scotland Wales and Ireland use language and to what effect examining questions of form tone and voice they comment too on how formal choices are inflected by the poet s time and place The Cambridge History of English Poetry is the most comprehensive and authoritative history of the field from early medieval times to the present It traces patterns of continuity transformation transition and development Covering a remarkable array of poets and poems and featuring an extensive bibliography the scope and depth of this major work of reference make it required reading for anyone interested in poetry Spirituality and the Occult Brian Gibbons,2013-07-04 Spirituality and the Occult argues against the widely held view that occult spiritualities are marginal to Western culture Showing that the esoteric tradition is unfairly neglected in Western culture and that much of what we take to be modern derives at least in part from this tradition it casts a fresh intriguing and persuasive perspective on intellectual and cultural history in the West Brian Gibbons identifies the influence and continued presence of esoteric mystical movements in disciplines such as medicine science philosophy Freudian and Jungian psychology radical political movements imaginative literature Time, Consciousness and Writing ,2018-11-26

Time Consciousness and Writing brings together a collection of critical reflections on Peter Malekin s model of the mind which he saw as a crucial yet often neglected aspect of critical theory in relation to theatre literature and the arts The volume begins with a selection of Peter Malekin s own writings that lay out his critique of western culture its overstated claims to universal competence and validity and lays out an alternative view of consciousness that draws partly on Asian traditions and partly on underground traditions from the west The essays that follow commissioned for this volume critically examine Malekin s ideas drawing out their implications in a variety of contexts including theatre liturgical performance poetry and literature The book ends with an assessment of future prospects opened by this work The Bookman's

Journal and Print Collector Wilfred Partington,1922 The British Review Richard Johnson Walker,1915

Seventeenth-century Lyrics Alexander Corbin Judson,1927 The Metaphysical Poets David Reid,2014-06-11 The Metaphysical Poets provides an introduction to the work of six strikingly various and original poets Donne Herbert Crashaw Vaughan Marvell and Traherne By closely examining how the poems work the book aims to help readers at all stages of proficiency and knowledge to enjoy and critically appreciate the ways in which fantastic and elaborate styles may express private intensities The emphasis is on the differences covered by the term Metaphysical and on the rich and strange diversity of the poets inner lives The book examines the expressive forms of interiority the characteristic inward turn of Metaphysical wit and compares the wit of its six poets with the non introspective wit of poets such as Cowley the Cavaliers and the Augustans The discussion of each poet is preceded by a Life in which the biographical facts personal cultural and political are treated with a view to illuminating the concerns of the poems English Lyric Poetry Jonathan F. S. Post,2002 A comprehensive reassessment of lyric poetry of the early 17th century directed at beginning and more advanced students of literature It seeks to assimilate many of the theoretical concerns with readings of the authors of the period Writing and Religion in England, 1558-1689 Anthony W. Johnson, 2016-02-17 The fruit of intensive collaboration among leading international specialists on the literature religion and culture of early modern England this volume examines the relationship between writing and religion in England from 1558 the year of the Elizabethan Settlement up until the Act of Toleration of 1689 Throughout these studies religious writing is broadly taken as being communicational in the etymological sense that is as a medium which played a significant role in the creation or consolidation of communities Some texts shaped or reinforced one particular kind of religious identity whereas others fostered communities which cut across the religious borderlines which prevailed in other areas of social interaction For a number of the scholars writing here such communal differences correlate with different ways of drawing on the resources of cultural memory The denominational spectrum covered ranges from several varieties of Dissent through via media Anglicanism to Laudianism and Roman Catholicism and there are also glances towards heresy and the mid seventeenth century s new atheism With respect to the range of different genres examined the volume spans the gamut from poetry fictional prose drama court masque sermons devotional works theological treatises confessions of faith church constitutions tracts and letters to history writing and translation Arranged in roughly chronological order Writing and Religion in England 1558 1689 presents chapters which explore religious writing within the wider contexts of culture ideas attitudes and law as well as studies which concentrate more on the texts and readerships of particular writers Several contributors embrace an inter arts orientation relating writing to liturgical ceremony painting music and architecture while others opt for a stronger sociological slant explicitly emphasizing the role of women writers and of writers from different sub cultural backgrounds
