Literature In The Marketplace:

Literature in the Marketplace Per I. Gedin, 1982 Literature and the Marketplace William G. Rowland, 1996-01-01 Literature and the Marketplace addresses one of the great ironies of nineteenth century British and American literature the fact that authors of that era in voicing their alienation from middle class readers paradoxically gave expression to feelings of alienation felt by those same readers As William G Rowland Jr points out romantic writers thought of the market as conspiring against imagination Blake or telling the truth Melville and consequently felt frustrated with literary institutions Yet their frustrations writes Rowland helped to energize romantic work and explain its subsequent and continuing appeal The book opens with a survey of reading publics in Great Britain and the United States in the early years of the nineteenth century Rowland then presents individual writers including Wordsworth Shelley Hawthorne Poe and Emerson and their relations to their readers Finally Rowland shows how the idea of genius was developed by writers as different as Coleridge Blake Whitman and Dickinson and how that idea evolved as an antidote to the commercial literary marketplace of the nineteenth century A wide ranging and provocative book Literature and the Marketplace describes the relations between important British and American authors and the audiences and publishing industries of their era relations that were troubled uncertain and remarkably productive of literature William G Rowland Jr is the Director of Studies at Hereford Residential College University of Virginia This is his first book American Authors and the Literary Marketplace since 1900 James L. Benedict, 2021-09-14 A fascinating history of Jorge Luis Borges's efforts to revolutionize and revitalize literature in Latin America Jorge Luis Borges 1899-1986 stands out as one of the most widely regarded and inventive authors in world literature Yet the details of his employment history throughout the early part of the twentieth century which foreground his efforts to develop a worldly reading public have received scant critical attention From librarian and cataloguer to editor and publisher this writer emerges as entrenched in the physical minutiae and social implications of the international book world Drawing on years of archival research coupled with bibliographical analysis this book explains how Borges's more general involvement in the publishing industry influenced not only his formation as a writer but also global book markets and reading practices in world literature In this way it tells the story of Borges's profound efforts to revolutionize and revitalize literature in Latin America through his varying jobs in the publishing industry Postcolonial Literatures in the Local Literary Marketplace Jenni Ramone, 2020-08-06 This book asks what reading means in India Nigeria the UK and Cuba through close readings of literary texts from postcolonial spatial architectural cartographic materialist trauma and gender perspectives It contextualises these close readings through new interpretations of local literary marketplaces to assert the significance of local not global meanings The book offers longer case studies on novels that stage important reading moments Alejo Carpentier's The Lost Steps 1953 Leonardo Padura's Adios Hemingway 2001 Tabish Khair's Filming 2007 Chibundu Onuzo's Welcome to Lagos 2017 and Zadie Smith's Swing Time 2016 Chapters argue that while India's literary market was disrupted by Partition literature offers a means of moving beyond trauma in post-Revolutionary Cuba the Special Period led to exploitation of Cuban literary culture resulting in texts that foreground reading spaces in Nigeria the market hosts meeting negotiation reflection and trade including the writer's trade while Black consciousness bookshops and writing in Britain operated to challenge the UK literary market a project still underway This book is a vindication of reading and of the resistant power and creative potential of local literary marketplaces It insists on located reading enabling close reading of world literatures sited in their local materialities James Hogg and the Literary Marketplace Holly Faith Nelson, 2016-12-14 Responding to the resurgence of interest in the Scottish working class writer James Hogg Sharon Alker and Holly Faith Nelson offer the first edited collection devoted to an examination of the critical implications of his writings and their position in the Edinburgh and London literary marketplaces Writing during a particularly complex time in Scottish literary history Hogg a working shepherd for much of his life is seen to challenge many of the aesthetic conventions adopted by his contemporaries and to anticipate many of the concerns voiced in discussions of literature in recent years While the essays privilege Hogg s primary texts and read them closely in their immediate cultural context the volume s contributors also introduce relevant research on oral culture nationalism transnationalism intertextuality class colonialism empire psychology and aesthetics where they serve to illuminate Hogg s literary ingenuity as a working class writer in Romantic Scotland

Fiction and the American Literary Marketplace Charles Johanningsmeier,2002-07-04 Conventional literary history has virtually ignored the role of newspaper syndicates in publishing some of the most famous nineteenth century writers Stephen Crane Henry James Rudyard Kipling Robert Louis Stevenson and Mark Twain were among those who offered their early fiction to Syndicates firms which subsequently sold the work to newspapers across America for simultaneous first time publication This newly decentralised process profoundly affected not only the economics of publishing but also the relationship between authors texts and readers In the first full length study of this publishing phenomenon Charles Johanningsmeier evaluates the unique site of interaction syndicates held between readers and texts

American Romanticism and the Marketplace Michael T. Gilmore,2010-02-15 This book can take its place on the shelf beside Henry Nash Smith s Virgin Land and Leo Marx s The Machine in the Garden Choice Gilmore demonstrates the profound sustained engagement with society embodied in the works of Emerson Hawthorne Thoreau and Melville In effect he relocates the American Renaissance where it properly belongs at the centre of a broad social economic and ideological movement from the Jacksonian era to the Civil War Basically Gilmore s argument concerns the writers participation in what Thoreau called the curse of trade He details their mixed resistance to and complicity in the burgeoning literary marketplace and by extension the entire economic revolution which between 1830 and 1860 transformed the United States into a market society The result is a model of literary historical revisionism Gilmore s opening chapters on Emerson and Thoreau show that transcendental thought and language can come fully alive when understood within the material processes and ideological constraints of their time The remaining five chapters on Hawthorne and Melville contain some of the most penetrating recent commentaries on the aesthetic strategies of American Romantic fiction presented within and through some of the most astute thoughtful considerations I know of commodification and the democratic public in mid nineteenth century America Practically and methodologically American Romanticism and the Marketplace has a significant place in the movement towards a new American literary history It places Gilmore at the forefront of a new generation of critics who are not just reinterpreting familiar texts or discovering new texts to interpret but reshaping our ways of thinking about literature and culture Sacvan Bercovitch Times Literary Supplement Gilmore writes with energy clarity and wit The reader is enriched by this book William H Shurr American Literature Literature in the marketplace Per Gedin,1977 World Literature Klaudia Hiu Yen Lee,Eli Park Sorensen,2025-07-22 World Literature Approaches Practices and Pedagogy combines theoretical explorations and pedagogy to explore approaches to teaching some of the key concepts issues and topics in world literary studies Recognising the evolving and at times contested meanings of world literature this book treats world literature as a mode of reading and one that provides opportunities to create a space for critical discussions and reflections on understanding unpacking and at times challenging some of the assumptions and practices in world literary studies Contributors discuss a wide array of topics including the role of translation and literary marketplace in global circulation of texts the function and problematics of paratexts questions of co authorship in transnational contexts debates on major minor in world literature cosmopolitanism and the impact of English as a lingua franca on the development of the field Accompanied by reading questions individual and group exercises as well as suggested further readings this collection offers a practical resource for instructors and an accessible guide to advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students taking world literature courses in different parts of the world American Literature and the Culture of Reprinting, 1834-1853 Meredith L. McGill,2013-10-11 The antebellum period has long been identified with the belated emergence of a truly national literature And yet as Meredith L McGill argues a mass market for books in this period was built and sustained through what we would call rampant literary piracy a national literature developed not despite but because of the systematic copying of foreign works Restoring a political dimension to accounts of the economic grounds of antebellum literature McGill unfolds the legal arguments and political struggles that produced an American culture of reprinting and held it in place for two crucial decades In this culture of reprinting the circulation of print outstripped authorial and editorial control McGill examines the workings of literary culture within this market shifting her gaze from first and authorized editions to reprints and piracies from the form of the book to the intersection of book and periodical publishing and from a national literature to an internally divided and transatlantic literary marketplace Through readings of the work of Dickens Poe and Hawthorne McGill seeks both to analyze how changes in the conditions of publication influenced literary form and to measure what was lost as literary markets became centralized and literary culture became stratified in the early 1850s American Literature and the Culture of Reprinting 1834 1853 delineates a distinctive literary culture that was regional in articulation and transnational in scope while questioning the grounds of the startlingly recent but nonetheless powerful equation of the national interest with the extension of authors rights
