Fact On Aging:

The Facts on Aging Quiz Erdman Ballagh Palmore, 1988 Fact Book on Aging Elizabeth Vierck, 1990 This book contains facts and statistics on every aspect of aging in America Vascular Aging: Facts and Factors Elisabet Vila, Francesc Jiménez-Altayó, Paula Dantas, The increasing mean age of the population in developed countries has turned out to be an economic and social problem Cardiovascular disease has long been considered to be age related in terms of their onset and progression As such we can say that the increase in life expectancy goes in parallel with increased incidence of cardiovascular disease With age a number of changes occur in the vasculature altering the homeostasis of the irrigated organs promoting target organ damage While different adaptive mechanisms to protect vessels against mild stress have been described the aging process induces a progressive failure of protective mechanisms leading to vascular changes and higher susceptibility to cardiovascular diseases Indeed vascular aging is exacerbated by coexisting cardiovascular risk factors such as hypertension metabolic syndrome and diabetes Compelling evidence indicates that diminished endothelial relaxation and increase decrease or no change in contractile responses to several agonists is associated with aging There is an increase of vasoconstrictor factors expression and a decrease of vasodilators Morphologic changes include lumen diameter enlargement wall thickening and alterations of matrix substances as increased collagen or decreased elastin deposition ultimately leading to greater arterial stiffening reduced compliance Importantly arterial stiffness is an independent predictor of cardiovascular morbidity and mortality Cellular and molecular mechanisms have also been documented Senescence at the cellular level involves alterations in Ca²⁺ signaling and down regulation of anti aging proteins Both endothelial and smooth muscle cells change their number morphology function and their regenerative ability Aging is also associated with a gradual loss of antioxidant defense mechanisms a proinflammatory shift in the cytokine expression profile and a production of reactive oxygen species such as superoxide O₂⁻ that promotes the breakdown of nitric oxide Nitric oxide and O₂⁻ interact to form peroxynitrite known to nitrosylate proteins affecting their physiological function However vascular wall proteins may also suffer from other potentially deleterious modifications as glycation Maillard reaction and glyco oxidative reactions with increasing age which could be linked to the age associated changes in vascular function Various strategies have shown benefit in preventing delaying or attenuating vascular aging For instance a healthy lifestyle including low fat diet and or exercise have a favorable effect Nevertheless it yet remains to be fully demonstrated whether vascular aging can be pharmacologically prevented This Research Topic is intended to bring together research efforts to understand the causes and consequences of vascular aging and propose new therapeutic strategies for the management of vascular senescence

NCADI Publications Catalog National Clearinghouse for Alcohol and Drug Information (U.S.), 1991 Handbook of Communication and Aging Research Jon F. Nussbaum, Justine Coupland, 2004-04-12 This second edition of the Handbook of Communication and Aging Research captures the ever changing and expanding domain of aging research Since it was first recognized that there is more to social aging than demography gerontology has needed a communication perspective Like the first edition this handbook sets out to demonstrate that aging is not only an individual process but an interactive one The study of communication can lead to an understanding of what it means to grow old We may age physiologically and chronologically but our social aging how we behave as social actors toward others and even how we align ourselves with or come to understand the signs of difference or change as we age are phenomena achieved primarily through communication experiences Synthesizing the vast amount of research that has been published on communication and aging in numerous international outlets over the last three decades the book s contributors include scholars from North America and the United Kingdom who are active researchers in the perspectives covered in their particular chapter Many of the chapters work to deny earlier images of aging as involving normative decrement to provide a picture of aging as a process of development involving positive choices and providing new opportunities A recurring theme in many chapters is that of the heterogeneity of the group of people who are variously categorized as older aged elderly or over 65 The contributors review the literature analytically in a way that reveals not only current theoretical and methodological approaches to communication and aging research but also sets the future agenda This handbook will be of great interest to scholars and researchers in gerontology developmental psychology and communication and in this updated edition will continue to play a key role in the study of communication and aging Anthropological Perspectives on Aging Britteny M. Howell, Ryan P. Harrod, 2023-02-21 An in depth and wide ranging approach to the study of older adults in society Taking a holistic approach to the study of aging this volume uses biological archaeological medical and cultural perspectives to explore how older adults have functioned in societies around the globe and throughout human history As the world s population over 65 years of age continues to increase this wide ranging approach fills a growing need for both academics and service professionals in gerontology geriatrics and related fields Case studies from the United States Tibet Turkey China Nigeria and Mexico provide examples of the ways age related changes are influenced by environmental genetic sociocultural and political economic variables Taken together they help explain how the experience of aging varies across time and space These contributions from noted anthropological scholars examine evolutionary and biological understandings of human aging the roles of elders in various societies issues of gender and ageism and the role of chronic illness and successful aging among older adults This volume highlights how an anthropology of aging can illustrate how older adults adapt to shifting life circumstances and environments including changes to the ways in which individuals and families care for them The research in Anthropological Perspectives on Aging can also help researchers students and practitioners reach across disciplines to address age discrimination and help improve health outcomes throughout the life course

Age as Disease David-Jack Fletcher, 2021-03-21 Age as Disease explores the foundations of gerontology as a discipline to examine the ways contemporary society constructs old age as a disease state Framed throughout as gerontological hygiene this book examines contemporary regimes strategies and treatment protocols deployed throughout Australia the United States and the United Kingdom The book deploys critical cultural theories such as biopolitics somatechnics ethics and governmentality to examine how anti aging technologies operate to problematise the aging body as always already diseased and how these come to constitute a movement of abolition named here as gerontological hygiene The Living Age ,1920 Process of Aging David Popenoe,Richard H. Williams,2018-10-26 Processes of Aging Social and Psychological Perspectives is based on a monumental series of studies on the psychological and social aspects of aging in relation to mental health This effort gives scientists from North America and Europe an opportunity to explore the concepts methodological problems and conclusions of their researches in the rapidly growing field of gerontology Much work has been done in an attempt to present this material in sequential and systematic fashion Original work of sixty six research workers from twelve countries is represented in this two volume set They offer an inventory of principal fields of gerontological research in advanced countries Human aging in its many ramifications is becoming one of the major areas of research interest among an increasing number of students in the biological behavioral and social sciences Although the phenomena of aging were largely overlooked as subject matter for research during the early stages in the development of all basic sciences it was inevitable that students would eventually become curious about the final processes of maturation Events of recent years have hastened the need for social action on behalf of older people and consequently the need for scientific knowledge about their characteristics circumstances and requirements Processes of Aging Social and Psychological Perspectives will be of interest to research workers teachers and advanced students concerned with the psychological psychiatric psychosocial and socioeconomic aspects of aging Many of the theoretical and analytical discussions and the specific studies offer guidance for top level planners and policy administrators in public agencies and voluntary organizations This volume is highly sensitive to older people as such how they feel about themselves and the world and in the way they behave in relation to others It is must reading in the health and welfare of aging

California Women ,1986 The Elixir Of Longevity RD king, Those panic attacks a person suffers after seeing a single grey hair on their head the stiffness and cracking sounds of the body or suddenly waking up at night are just some ethereal signs of aging Aging can also be regarded as a life saving process and not as failure of body organs or your system It is not something to be afraid of rather it is something to take pride in With this ebook you will learn how to shorten the duration to get the desired beauty results without endangering your health Older Americans Act United States. Congress. Senate. Special Committee on Aging,1982 Facts on Aging United States. Welfare Administration. Office of Aging,1963 The Texas court reporter ,1906 Handbook on Immunosenescence Tamas Fulop,Claudio Franceschi,Katsuiki Hirokawa,Graham Pawelec,2009-02-27 Immunosenescence is an imprecise term used to describe deleterious age associated changes to immune parameters observed in all mammals studied so far It represents a rapidly progressing science in the aging field with a vertiginous volume of new data knowledge and concepts concerning these changes We are poised to be in a position to translate these accumulated data into the clinical setting via better understanding of the contribution of immunosenescence to age associated pathologies and their prevention by appropriate interventions This authoritative handbook seeks to encompass the current state of our knowledge on the multitude of those changes to immunity related to aging with contributions from experts in the research and clinical areas This book therefore considers methods and models for studying immunosenescence cellular immunosenescence of T cells B cells neutrophils antigen presenting cells NK NKT and stem cells genetics mechanisms including receptors and signal transduction mitochondria proteasome cytokines neuro endocrine immune networks inflammation thymus clinical relevance in disease states including infections autoimmunity cancer metabolic syndrome neurodegenerative diseases frailty and osteoporosis modulation by nutrition lipids vaccination and the question can interventions to influence immunosenescence be realistically proposed based on our current state of knowledge
