Faith For The Nations:

Faith in Nation Anthony W. Marx, 2005-04-21 Common wisdom has long held that the ascent of the modern nation coincided with the flowering of Enlightenment democracy and the decline of religion ringing in an age of tolerant inclusive liberal states Not so demonstrates Anthony W Marx in this landmark work of revisionist political history and analysis In a startling departure from a historical consensus that has dominated views of nationalism for the past quarter century Marx argues that European nationalism emerged two centuries earlier in the early modern era as a form of mass political engagement based on religious conflict intolerance and exclusion Challenging the self congratulatory genealogy of civic Western nationalism Marx shows how state builders attempted to create a sense of national solidarity to support their burgeoning authority Key to this process was the transfer of power from local to central rulers the most suitable vehicle for effecting this transfer was religion and fanatical passions Religious intolerance specifically the exclusion of religious minorities from the nascent state provided the glue that bonded the remaining populations together Out of this often violent religious intolerance grew popular nationalist sentiment Only after a core and exclusive nationality was formed in England and France and less successfully in Spain did these countries move into the enlightened 19th century all the while continuing to export intolerance and exclusion to overseas colonies Providing an explicitly political theory of early nation building rather than an account emphasizing economic imperatives or literary imaginings Marx reveals that liberal secular Western political traditions were founded on the basis of illiberal intolerant origins His provocative account also suggests that present day exclusive and violent nation building or efforts to form solidarity through cultural or religious antagonisms are not fundamentally different from the West's own earlier experiences

Keeping Faith with the United Nations Bertie G.

Ramcharan, 2024-09-02 The Old Faith in a New Nation Paul J. Gutacker, 2023 Conventional wisdom holds that tradition and history meant little to nineteenth century American Protestants who relied on common sense and the Bible alone The Old Faith in a New Nation challenges this portrayal by recovering evangelical engagement with the Christian past Even when they appeared to be most scornful toward tradition most optimistic and forward looking and most confident in their grasp of the Bible evangelicals found themselves returning time and again to Christian history They studied religious historiography reinterpreted the history of the church and argued over its implications for the present Between the Revolution and the Civil War American Protestants were deeply interested in the meaning of the Christian past Paul J Gutacker draws from hundreds of print sources sermons books speeches legal arguments political petitions and more to show how ordinary educated Americans remembered and used Christian history While claiming to rely on the Bible alone antebellum Protestants frequently turned to the Christian past on questions of import how should the government relate to religion Could Catholic immigrants become true Americans What opportunities and rights should be available to women To African Americans Protestants across denominations answered these questions not only with the Bible but also with history By recovering the ways in which American evangelicals remembered and used Christian history The Old Faith in a New Nation shows how religious memory shaped the nation and interrogates the meaning of biblicism How the Nations Rage Jonathan Leeman,2018-04-03 How can the church move forward in unity amid such political strife and cultural contention As Christians we've felt pushed to the outskirts of national public life yet even within our congregations we are divided about how to respond Some want to strengthen the evangelical voting bloc Others focus on social justice causes and still others would abandon the public square altogether What do we do when brothers and sisters in Christ sit next to each other in the pews but feel divided and angry Is there a way forward In How the Nations Rage political theology scholar and pastor Jonathan Leeman challenges Christians from across the spectrum to hit the restart button by shifting our focus from redeeming the nation to living as a nation already redeemed rejecting the false allure of building heaven on earth while living faithfully as citizens of a heavenly kingdom letting Jesus teaching shape our public engagement as we love our neighbors and seek justice When we identify with Christ more than a political party or social grouping we can return to the church's unchanging political task to become the salt and light Jesus calls us to be and offer the hope of his kingdom to the nations

Faith-Based Reconciliation Brian Cox,2007-11-15 Written by an experienced practitioner in the field of faith based diplomacy who has worked in some of the worlds roughest neighborhoods this book begins with the premise that moral vision plays a key role in shaping individuals and communities Its primary message is that the Abrahamic moral vision shared by Jews Christians and Muslims which is embodied as faith based reconciliation is a fresh approach to intractable identity based conflict an alternative to religious extremism and an ancient paradigm needed for the twenty first century A must read for todays policymakers and for political religious and social leaders Faith and Force David L. Clough, Brian Stiltner, 2007-06-04 This book began in an argument between friends surprised to find themselves on opposite sides of the debate about whether the United States and the United Kingdom should invade Iraq in 2003 Situated on opposite sides of the Atlantic in different churches and on different sides of the just war pacifist fence we exchanged long emails that rehearsed on a small scale the great national and international debates that were taking place around us We discovered the common ground we shared as well as some predictable and some surprising points of difference When the initial hostilities ended our conversation continued and we felt the urgency of contributing to a wider Christian debate about whether and when war could be justified From the Preface So began a dynamic collaboration that developed into a civil but provocative debate over matters of war and peace that is Faith and Force From the ancient battles between Greek city states to the Crusades to the World Wars of the twentieth century to the present day wars in Afghanistan and Iraq and the Middle East aggressors and defenders alike have claimed the mantle of righteousness and termed their actions just But can the carnage of war ever be morally grounded And if so how These are the questions that David L Clough a Methodist proponent of pacifism and Brian Stiltner a Catholic theologian and just war adherent have vowed to answer together With one voice Clough and Stiltner outline and clarify issues of humanitarian intervention weapons proliferation and preventative war against rogue states Their writing is grounded in Christian tradition and provides a fresh and illuminating account of the complexities and nuances of the pacifist and just war positions In each chapter Clough and Stiltner engage in debate on the issues demonstrating a respectful exchange of ideas absent in much contemporary political discourse whether on television or in the classroom The result is a well reasoned challenging repartee that searches for common ground within the Christian tradition and on behalf of the faithful promotion of justice yet one that also recognizes genuine differences that cannot be bridged easily Intended for a broad audience Faith and Force is the perfect foil to the shrill screeching that surrounds partisan perspectives on military power and its use To help with using the book in a classroom context the authors have provided Questions for Reflection and Discussion for each chapter You can download these questions in PDF format at press.georgetown.edu Faith and Bayan Lorenzo C. Bautista, Aldrin M. Peñamora, Federico G.
