Faith In Human Rights:

Faith in Human Rights Robert Traer, 1991-01-01 In this first comprehensive study of the problem of a universal definition of human rights Robert Traer argues that contemporary theological discourse contains an affirmation of faith that unites members of world religious traditions with secular humanists in a common struggle to establish human rights as the basis for human dignity Scholars of religion law and comparative religious ethics as well as human rights advocates will find it an invaluable guide

Religion and Human Rights John Witte Jr., M. Christian Green, 2011-11-25 The relationship between religion and human rights is both complex and inextricable While most of the world's religions have supported violence repression and prejudice each has also played a crucial role in the modern struggle for universal human rights Most importantly religions provide the essential sources and scales of dignity and responsibility shame and respect restraint and regret restitution and reconciliation that a human rights regime needs to survive and flourish in any culture With contributions by a score of leading experts Religion and Human Rights provides authoritative and accessible assessments of the contributions of Judaism Christianity Islam Hinduism Confucianism Buddhism and Indigenous religions to the development of the ideas and institutions of human rights It also probes the major human rights issues that confront religious individuals and communities around the world today and the main challenges that the world's religions will pose to the human rights regime in the future

Religion and Human Rights Wilhelm Gräb, Lars Charbonnier, 2015-05-19 Current processes of globalization are challenging Human Rights and the attempts to institutionalize them in many ways The question of the connection between religion and human rights is a crucial point here The genealogy of the Human Rights is still a point of controversies in the academic discussion Nevertheless there is consensus that the Christian tradition especially the doctrine that each human being is an image of God played an important role within the emergence of the codification of the Human Rights in the period of enlightenment It is also obvious that the struggle against the politics of apartheid in South Africa was strongly supported by initiatives of churchy and other religious groups referring to the Human Rights Christian churches and other religious groups do still play an important role in the post apartheid South Africa They have a public voice concerning all the challenges with which the multiethnic and economically still deeply divided South African society is faced with The reflections on these questions in the collected lectures and essays of this volume derive from an academic discourse between German and South African scholars that took place within the German South African Year of Science 2012

Does Human Rights Need God? Elizabeth M. Bucar, Barbra Barnett, 2005-08-31 When the Universal Declaration of Human Rights was drafted in 1945 French Catholic philosopher Jacques Maritain observed We agree on these rights providing we are not asked why With the why the dispute begins The world since then has continued to agree to disagree fearing that an open discussion of the divergent rationales for human rights would undermine the consensus of the Declaration Is it possible however that current failures to protect human rights may stem from this tacit agreement to avoid addressing the underpinnings of human rights This consequential volume presents leading scholars activists and officials from four continents who dare to discuss the why behind human rights Appraising the current situation from diverse religious perspectives Jewish Protestant Orthodox Muslim Confucian and secular humanist the contributors openly address the question whether God is a necessary part of human rights Despite their widely varying commitments and approaches the authors affirm that an investigation into the why of human rights need not devolve into irreconcilable conflict Contributors Khaled Abou El Fadl Barbra Barnett Elizabeth M Bucar Jean Bethke Elshtain Robert P George Vigen Guroian Louis Henkin Courtney W Howland David Novak Sari Nusseibeh Martin Palou Robert A Seiple Max L Stackhouse Charles Villa Vicencio Anthony C Yu *Only Rape! The Universality of Human Rights , 2023-09-25 The human rights project is one that brings together ideas policies and laws as well as national civil society and international cooperation Yet despite progress human rights are still being grossly violated in vast numbers in many parts of the world and the challenge remains to keep expanding the circles of achievements and opportunities for a universal culture of human rights This handbook brings together a broad collection of documents from different parts of the world from global and regional institutions attesting to the fact that the universality of human rights resides in the spirit and aspirations of the peoples of the world Divided into thematic sections the volume brings together primary sources on topics such as philosophical and religious perspectives international human rights policy sustainable development economic social and cultural rights among many more complete with a thorough introduction to each theme The result is a remarkable collection of documents and teaching materials in support of the universality of human rights Islam and the Challenge of Human Rights Abdulaziz Sachedina, 2009-11-05 In 1948 the General Assembly of the United Nations adopted and proclaimed the International Declaration of Human Rights a document designed to hold both individuals and nations accountable for their treatment of fellow human beings regardless of religious or cultural affiliations Since then the compatibility of Islam and human rights has emerged as a particularly thorny issue of international concern and has been addressed by Muslim rulers conservatives and extremists as well as Western analysts and policymakers all have commonly agreed that Islamic theology and human rights cannot coexist Abdulaziz Sachedina rejects this informal consensus arguing instead for the essential compatibility of Islam and human rights He offers a balanced and incisive critique of Western experts who have ignored or underplayed the importance of religion to the development of human rights contending that any theory of universal rights necessarily emerges out of particular cultural contexts At the same time he re examines the juridical and theological traditions that form the basis of conservative Muslim objections to human rights arguing that Islam like any culture is open to development and change Finally and most importantly Sachedina articulates a fresh position that argues for a correspondence between Islam and secular notions of human rights Khera ,1995
