The Headless Horseman. Pierre Lombart's Engraving. Charles Or Cromwell? Etc. F.P. George Somes LAYARD, Pierre Lombart, 1922 The Headless Horseman George Somes Layard, 1922 Headless Horseman George LAYARD, 1911
The Bookman , 1921 Fake? Mark Jones, Paul T. Craddock, Nicolas Barker, 1990-01-01 Describes the methods used to make artistic literary documentary and political forgeries and the recent scientific advances in their detection Includes over 600 objects from the British Museum and many other major collections from ancient Babylonia to the present day The Bodleian Quarterly Record , 1923 The Studio , 1922 The Material Culture of the Jacobites Neil Guthrie, 2013-12-12
The Jacobites adherents of the exiled King James II of England and VII of Scotland and his descendants continue to command attention long after the end of realistic Jacobite hopes down to the present Extraordinarily the promotion of the Jacobite cause and adherence to it were recorded in a rich and highly miscellaneous store of objects including medals portraits pin cushions glassware and dice boxes Interdisciplinary and highly illustrated this book combines legal and art history to survey the extensive material culture associated with Jacobites and Jacobitism Neil Guthrie considers the attractions and the risks of making distributing and possessing things of danger their imagery and inscriptions and their place in a variety of contexts in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries Finally he explores the many complex reasons underlying the long lasting fascination with the Jacobites The Printed Image in Early Modern London Joseph Monteyne, 2017-07-05 Presenting an inventive body of research that explores the connections between urban movements space and visual representation this study offers the first sustained analysis of the vital interrelationship between printed images and urban life in early modern London The study differs from all other books on early modern British print culture in that it seeks out printed forms that were active in shaping and negotiating the urban milieu prints that troubled categories of high and low culture images that emerged when the political became infused with the creative as well as prints that bear traces of the roles they performed and the ways they were used in the city It is distinguished by its close and sustained readings of individual prints from the likes of such artists as Wenceslaus Hollar Francis Barlow and William Faithorne and this visual analysis is complemented with a thorough examination of the dynamics of print production as a commercial exchange that takes place within a wider set of exchanges of goods people ideas and money across the city and the nation This study challenges scholars to re imagine the function of popular prints as a highly responsive form of cultural production capable not only of recording events spaces and social actions but profoundly shaping the way these entities are conceived in the moment and also recast within cultural memory It offers historians of print culture and British art a sophisticated and innovative model of how to mobilize rigorous archival research in the service of a thoroughly historicized and theorized analysis of visual representation and its relationship to space and social identity Dorothy Garrod and the Progress of the Palaeolithic William Davies, Ruth Charles, 2017-03-20 Dorothy Garrod opened many doors not only was she the first female professor at Cambridge University but she illuminated and in some cases initiated some of prehistoric archaeology's most central issues. The quiet yet self-possessed woman was best known as a fieldworker often venturing into dangerous regions such as Kurdistan. Her first and highly successful excavation revealed fragments of Neanderthal fossils in Gibraltar. This volume reviews modern research on this site as well as exploring other issues which interested the Disney Professor of Archaeology: hominid remains from Mount Carmel, Palaeolithic sites in the Zagros Mountains, Bulgaria and Britain and the cultural evidence for the beginning of Near Eastern food production which Garrod called Natufian. Also included are papers concerned with her life background and published work. The topics span and continuing relevance are testament to Dorothy Garrod's remarkable character and great achievements.

The Bookman's Journal and Print Collector Wilfred Partington, 1921 Picturing the Book of Nature Sachiko Kusukawa, 2012-05-21 Because of their spectacular naturalistic pictures of plants and the human body Leonhart Fuchs's De historia stirpium and Andreas Vesalius's De humani corporis fabrica are landmark publications in the history of the printed book. But as Picturing the Book of Nature makes clear they do more than bear witness to the development of book publishing during the Renaissance and to the prominence attained by the fields of medical botany and anatomy in European medicine. Sachiko Kusukawa examines these texts as well as Conrad Gessner's unpublished Historia plantarum and demonstrates how their illustrations were integral to the emergence of a new type of argument during this period: a visual argument for the scientific study of nature. To set the stage Kusukawa begins with a survey of the technical, financial, artistic and political conditions that governed the production of printed books during the Renaissance. It was during the first half of the sixteenth century that learned authors began using images in their research and writing but because the technology was so new there was a great deal of variety of thought and often disagreement about exactly what images could do, how they should be used, what degree of authority should be attributed to them, which graphic elements were bearers of that authority and what sorts of truths images could and did encode. Kusukawa investigates the works of Fuchs, Gessner and Vesalius in light of these debates, scrutinizing the scientists' treatment of illustrations and tracing their motivation for including them in their works. What results is a fascinating and original study of the visual dimension of scientific knowledge in the sixteenth century.

The Nation and the Athenæum, 1922 Monthly Bulletin of the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh, 1924 Portrait Prints from the Hope Collection Richard Sharp, Ashmolean Museum, 1997 This is a guide to the Hope Collection which contains more than 80 000 portraits ranging from the 16th to the 20th centuries. Poetry and Sovereignty in the English Revolution Niall Allsopp, 2020-05-06 Poetry and Sovereignty in the English Revolution presents a new interpretation of the poetry of the English revolution It focuses on royalist poets who left their cause behind following the abolition of the monarchy exploring how they re imagined the traditional language of allegiance in newly secular artificial and absolutist ways Following the execution of Charles I in 1649 royalists who had sided with the King were left with a significant vacuum to fill Poetry and Sovereignty in the English Revolution charts the poetry of Andrew Marvell Edmund Waller John Dryden William Davenant Abraham Cowley and Margaret Cavendish amongst others in this period It examines the poets close acquaintance with Thomas Hobbes offering new readings of the reception and adaptation of Hobbes s ideas in contemporary poetry A final chapter traces how the poets survived the restoration of the Stuart monarchy showing how they continued to apply their ideas in the heroic drama of the 1660s Poetry and Sovereignty in the English Revolution builds on recent work in both literary criticism and the history of political thought to contextualize royalist poets within a distinctive strain of absolutism inflected by reason of state neostoicism scepticism and anticlericalism It demonstrates a vivid poetic effort to imagine the expanded state delivered by the English Revolution
