Western modernism reflect not a cultural shift but a cognitive one Behind modernism is the same cognitive phenomenon that led to the scientific revolution of the seventeenth century the brain coming up against its natural limitations Keyser argues that the transformation in poetry music and painting the so called sister arts is the result of the abandonment of a natural aesthetic based on a set of rules shared between artist and audience and that this is virtually the same cognitive shift that occurred when scientists abandoned the mechanical philosophy of the Galilean revolution The cultural explanations for Modernism may still be relevant but they are epiphenomenal rather than causal Artists felt that traditional forms of art had been exhausted and they began to resort to private formats Easter eggs with hidden and often inaccessible meaning Keyser proposes that when artists discarded their natural rule governed aesthetic it marked a cognitive shift general intelligence took over from hardwired proclivity Artists used a different part of the brain to create and audiences were forced to play catch up
