HANDBOOK FOR STUDENTS AND THEIR SUPERVISORS, 1996 The Making of Doctoral Supervisors Stan

Taylor, Margaret Kiley, Karri A. Holley, 2020-12-17 With a wide range of international contributors this book surveys how the main doctoral awarding countries across the globe define criteria for the eligibility of supervisors It compares and contrasts their approaches comments upon their robustness and identifies examples of good practice The quality of supervision has been shown to be a major factor in determining the learning experiences of doctoral scholars and their chances of success However relatively little is known about the ways in which doctoral supervisors are selected for their roles supported to perform them and recognised for their efforts This book looks at these matters in 21 major doctoral awarding countries collectively responsible for over 90% of global doctoral awards Each case study constitutes a stand alone contribution to the literature on doctoral supervision in that country and provides a brief introduction to the national context of doctoral education outlines policies and procedures for the selection of supervisors discusses the support and development available to supervisors and gives examples of good practice comments on if and how supervision is recognised and rewarded Written by a distinguished international team of authors The Making of Doctoral Supervisors will be of interest to all those engaged in doctoral education including policy makers program leaders supervisors administrators and scholars in the field

Doctoral Supervision and Research Culture Karen Clegg, Gillian Houston, Owen Gower, 2024-05-29 Drawing on original survey data reflective accounts and case studies of supervisory practice in different disciplines Doctoral Supervision and Research Culture explores the supervisor experience and demonstrates the craft compassion and consistency required of supervisors in responding to different researcher s needs Based on empirical data and using the voice of research supervisors the authors throw a spotlight on the challenges and opportunities supervisors face in supporting doctoral researchers through to successful PhD completion This book acts as an invitation to institutions funders industry and academics to review what and how they support PhD provision and to elevate the status of supervision practice It shows how research cultures disciplinary institutional and individual affect the supervisory experience and highlight the challenges that supervisors face as well as the rewards that successful supervisory relationships bring It is also a celebration of the contribution that doctoral researchers and all those who support research make to society Designed to provide opportunities for sharing of practice across disciplines and the sector Doctoral Supervision and Research Culture will be of interest to both new and experienced supervisors to staff and researcher developers in institutions and to funders policy makers and senior management in universities who seek to improve and enhance the supervisory experience for all agents

The Hidden Curriculum in Doctoral Education Dely L. Elliot, Søren S. E. Bengtsen, Kay Guccione, Sofie Kobayashi, 2020-03-27 This book explores the concept of the hidden curriculum within doctoral education It highlights the unofficial channels of genuine learning typically acquired by doctoral students independent of the physical and metaphorical walls of academia The doctorate is a huge and complex undertaking which requires a range of support beyond academic foundations The exchange between official and hidden curricula is therefore key not just for achieving the qualification but to also achieve transformative growth This book offers a framework for a doctoral learning ecology model to scaffold learning and sustain wellbeing by leveraging both formal and hidden curricula This illuminating book will be of interest and value to doctoral researchers supervisors and mentors

Supervising to Inspire Doctoral Researchers Pam Denicolo, Dawn Duke, Julie Reeves, 2019-12-02 Early careers researchers and academics receive little to no on going training for providing support to doctoral students In light of this this book addresses the needs of prospective and current supervisors of doctoral students by providing you with guidance on Engaging with the process of selecting researchers and developing reliable expectations Identifying the most effective supervisory style and your role in shaping students skills How you can contribute to your students progress and reflective practices Your role in the final assessment stages and how your support can extend beyond their studies Through a wide range of multidisciplinary case studies you will find valuable guidance on how to support your students and be empowered in the process

Training for Doctoral Research J IAN Mason, 2009-01-30 Following the rapid expansion of translation studies as an emergent inter discipline over recent decades demand for doctoral research opportunities is now growing fast in many countries At the same time doctoral training packages of a generic nature have been elaborated and refined at many universities drawing on long traditions of doctoral research in established disciplines A degree of consensus no doubt exists on such matters as the need for rigor method and the generation of new knowledge Beyond that however there are a host of issues specific to translation and interpreting studies that remain under researched and under discussed Contributors to this special issue encourage reflection on a range of issues in ways that foster further debate and collaboration on the development of doctoral studies within the field A number of concrete proposals are offered that could be adapted to local situations in different countries and academic settings While some of the contributions adopt a mainly empirical stance others adopt a broad perspective on training citing examples of widely differing projects Two contributors offer insights from personal experience of doctoral study while another describes the organization of doctoral work within the conceptual framework of a research group All consider training from the angle of student needs and offer concrete suggestions for ensuring that doctoral candidates are equipped with the guidance concepts methods and tools required for success Understanding Supervision and the PhD Moira Peelo,2011-01-20
