The World Environment 1972-1992 O. El-Kholy,2012-12-06 Our planet is under siege Assaults on the atmosphere the greenhouse effect the depletion of the ozone layer and increasing air pollution pose a still unquantified threat to human life The dumping of hazardous wastes and land based sources of pollution present a similar threat to the oceans On land we are destroying a tropical forest the size of Austria every year and more than a hundred species of wild plants and animals are lost forever each day When the General Assembly of the United Nations established UNEP it charged us with reporting on the changing state of the world s environment tracking the underlying causes of change and working with governments to develop responses to those changes Every year since 1974 UNEP has produced a State of the Environment report focusing on one or more emerging environmental issues and always stressing the human factor the impact of environmental quality on people and society Three times since its inception 1982 1987 and 1992 UNEP has undertaken a more wide ranging study The results of the present study are the most disturbing of the three However not all the signs are negative Throughout the 1970s and into the 1980s UNEP was able to report progress in some important areas Environmental monitoring capacity was being rapidly improved in many parts of the world and Ministries of the Environment were being set up in an attempt to deal with environmental threats in a more coherent way the volume of trade between them The Heckscher Ohlin HO factor proportions theory derives the determinants of comparative advantage in a world of two goods two factors two countries It predicts that each country will export that good which uses the country's abundant factor relatively most intensively The literature on trade offers an impressive number of studies based on the HO theory The main methodological problems encountered in the literature are first the appropriate formulation of the HO theorem in a multi factor multi good and multi country framework second proper tests of the HO theory and proper links of the theory to empirical analysis The relevance of the HO theory began to be questioned when important facts of modern international trade proved to be inconsistent with its theoretical framework Leontief 1953 tested the factor proportions theory using the US data for 1947 and found that the US had more labor intensive exports than imports which is opposed to both perceptions and estimations of factor endowments The Leontief paradox created doubt as to whether or not actual trade patterns and factor endowments are related as predicted by theory and caused many controversial discussions with regard to the proper empirical implementation of the factor proportions theory Australian National Bibliography: 1992 National Library of Australia, 1988 Monthly Catalogue, United States Public Documents, 1993-02 Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications United States.
