Life And Death Of The Salt Marsh:

Life and Death of the Salt Marsh John, Mildred Teal ,1969 MotorBoating ,1969-12 From Marsh to Farm Kimberly R. Sebold,1992 City at the Water's Edge Betsy McCully,2006-11-16 Concrete floors and concrete walls buildings that pierce the sky taxicabs and subway corridors a steady din of noise These things along with a virtually unrivaled collection of museums galleries performance venues media outlets international corporations and stock exchanges make New York City not only the cultural and financial capital of the United States but one of the largest and most impressive urban conglomerations in the world With distinctions like these is it possible to imagine the city as any more than this City at the Water s Edge invites readers to do just that Betsy McCully a long time urban dweller argues that this city of lights is much more than a human made metropolis It has a rich natural history that is every bit as fascinating as the glitzy veneer that has been built atop it Through twenty years of nature exploration McCully has come to know New York as part of the Lower Hudson Bioregion a place of salt marshes and estuaries sand dunes and barrier islands glacially sculpted ridges and kettle holes rivers and streams woodlands and outwash plains Here she tells the story of New York that began before the first humans settled in the region twelve thousand years ago and long before immigrants ever arrived at Ellis Island The timeline that she recounts is one that extends backward half a billion years it plumbs the depths of Manhattan s geological history and forecasts a possible future of global warming with rising seas lapping at the base of the Empire State Building Counter to popular views that see the city as a marvel of human ingenuity diametrically opposed to nature this unique account shows how the region has served as an evolving habitat for a diversity of species including our own The author chronicles the growth of the city at the expense of the environment but leaves the reader with a vision of a future city as a human habitat that is brought into balance with nature Remaking Wormsloe Plantation Drew A. Swanson,2012-04 Why do we preserve certain landscapes while developing others without restraint Drew A Swanson s in depth look at Wormsloe plantation located on the salt marshes outside of Savannah Georgia explores that question while revealing the broad historical forces that have shaped the lowcountry South Wormsloe is one of the most historic and ecologically significant stretches of the Georgia coast It has remained in the hands of one family from 1736 when Georgia s Trustees granted it to Noble Jones through the 1970s when much of Wormsloe was ceded to Georgia for the creation of a state historic site It has served as a guard post against aggression from Spanish Florida a node in an emerging cotton economy connected to far flung places like Lancashire and India a retreat for pleasure and leisure and a carefully maintained historic site and green space Like many lowcountry places Wormsloe is inextricably tied to regional national and global environments and is the product of transatlantic exchanges Swanson argues that while visitors to Wormsloe value what they perceive to be an authentic undisturbed place this landscape is actually the product of aggressive management over generations He also finds that Wormsloe is an ideal place to get at hidden stories such as African American environmental and agricultural knowledge

conceptions of health and disease the relationship between manual labor and views of nature and the ties between historic preservation and natural resource conservation Remaking Wormsloe Plantation connects this distinct Georgia place to the broader world adding depth and nuance to the understanding of our own conceptions of nature and history Introduction to the Biology of Marine Life James L. Sumich, John Francis Morrissey, 2004 This textbook examines selected groups of marine organisms within a framework of basic biological principles and processes With attention to taxonomic evolutionary ecological behavioral and physiological aspects of biological study the book contains chapters on habitat patterns of association phytoplankton marine plants protozoans and inv Book Catalog of the Library and Information Services Division: Subject index Environmental Science Information Center. Saving the Georgia Coast Paul Bolster, 2020-03-15 Fifty years ago Georgia chose how it would use the natural environment of its coast The General Assembly passed the Coastal Marshlands Protection Act in 1970 and surprisingly Lester Maddox a governor who had built a conservative reputation by defending segregation signed it into law With this book Paul Bolster narrates the politics of the times and brings to life the political leaders and the coalition of advocates who led Georgia to pass the most comprehensive protection of marshlands along the Atlantic seaboard Saving the Georgia Coast brings to light the intriguing and colorful characters who formed that coalition wealthy island owners hunters and fishermen people who made their home on the coast courageous political leaders garden club members clean water protectors and journalists It explores how that political coalition came together behind governmental leaders and traces the origins of environmental organizations that continue to impact policy today Saving the Georgia Coast enhances the reader s understanding of the many steps it takes for a bill to become a law Bolster s account reviews state policy toward the coast today giving the reader an opportunity to compare yesterday to the present Current demands on the coastal environment are different including spaceports and sea rise from climate change but the political pressures to generate new wealth and new jobs or to perch a home on the edge of the sea are no different than fifty years ago Saving the Georgia Coast spotlights the past and present decisions needed to balance human desires with the limits of what nature has to offer U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Library System Book Catalog Holdings as of July 1973 United States.
