Gifts Unto Others The Gift Givers Reference:

Sociology of Giving Helmuth Berking, 1999-03-30 This book decodes the ambivalence of gift giving It examines its socio ethical and integrative potential Following a short recollection of contemporary gift giving its motives occasions and its rules the reader is invited to travel back in time and space examining sacrifice food sharing and gift giving as those basic institutions upon which symbolic orders of traditional society rely The historical invention of hospitality is considered and paves the way to an analysis of the anthropology of giving Berking goes on to explore the transition from traditional society to the market self interest form He questions the view that our societies are dominated by individualism and explores the contemporary interplay between self interest and the common good

The Cultural Lives of Domestic Objects in Late Antiquity Jo Stoner, 2019-03-19 In this study Jo Stoner investigates the role of domestic material culture in Late Antiquity

Using archaeological visual and textual evidence from across the Roman Empire the personal meanings of late antique possessions are revealed through reference to theoretical approaches including object biography Heirlooms souvenirs and gift objects are discussed in terms of sentimental value before the book culminates in a case study reassessing baskets as an artefact type This volume succeeds in demonstrating personal scales of value for artefacts moving away from the focus on economic and social status that dominate studies in this field It thus represents a new interpretation of domestic material culture from Late Antiquity revealing how objects transformed houses into homes during this period

The Gift Aafke E. Komter, 1996 What moves us to give gifts to other people The Gift brings together perspectives on gift exchange and reciprocity from different social scientific disciplines The first part of this book contains anthropological and sociological classics on gift giving and reciprocity In the second part the focus is on social psychological theories and on empirical research on gift giving in Western society Finally the main concepts underlying gift exchange reciprocity self interest and altruism are discussed Here the focus is on fundamental assumptions about human nature Altruism and self interest turn out to be much more interwoven than we are inclined to think sets exacting standards and norms for what constitutes an ideal child. The tough realities of life often create children and child bearing and rearing circumstances that are outside the ideal. How do women whose experiences don't match the norm cope and adapt? How do they make sense of it to themselves and to the world? In a rich series of ethnographic case studies, Transformative Motherhood intimately conveys the experiences of women in the United States who in each case have reproductive encounters that do not match up to these cultural standards. From women who choose to become surrogate foster or adoptive mothers to others who give birth to children with disabilities or who have had a pregnancy loss, all creatively meet the challenges posed by their particular mothering experiences. It is often the language of giving and getting so prominent in a consumer culture that these women use to make sense of their situation. In the process, Transformative Motherhood redefines conventional understandings of motherhood, the mother-child relationship, and the role of biology and the law in determining what constitutes a family. The contributors include Rayna Rapp, Helena Ragone, Judith A. Modell, Danielle Wozniak, Gail Landsman, and Linda L. Layne. This text opens up multiple possibilities for reading contemporary women as responsive speaking subjects involved in reconstructing and transferring meanings without consolidating or totalizing their outcomes. Resources for Feminist Research, Winter/Spring 2001, Vol. 28, No. 3/4.

Gifts, Romance, and Consumer Culture Yuko Minowa, Russell W. Belk, 2018-09-05. How do people communicate their romantic feelings? Gift giving is one way. Giving and receiving of gifts is a characteristic of intimate relationships. Gifts are a message, a form of communication with a tangible material object about love, affection, or concern for the recipient. The romantic gift evokes a multitude of intertwined meanings: passion, intimacy, affection, persuasion, care, celebration, altruism, and nostalgia. They can also connote the negative images of obligation and reciprocity. Romantic gift giving may be practiced at rituals during rites of passage or for casual occasions to affirm the continued importance of the romantic relationship. We may even romanticize the giving of gifts to the self, to nonhuman companions, and to others we do not know personally. If loving and giving are a practice, then romantic gift giving is a practice of loving with intimate or would-be intimate others. This book addresses gift giving among consumers attempting to express and construct romantic love. It lies at the intersection of consumption, markets, and culture. In societies shaped by the globalizing neo-liberal economic order, increasing wealth disparity, and a partially digitized social environment that they help to co-construct, it may be time to rethink romantic love. Gift giving is a key arena to do so, as gifts make love tangible and act as carriers of meaning as well as cultural symbols. In gift giving, the meanings of romance are renewed, renegotiated, and reconstructed. Gifts, Romance, and Consumer Culture demonstrates a wide variety of scholarly work bearing on romantic gift giving using an interpretive consumer research perspective. The book introduces critical studies by scholars in this unfolding and new interdisciplinary field.

The Athenian Woman Sian Lewis, 2013-09-05. Here Sian Lewis considers the full range of female existence in classical Greece: childhood and old age, unfree and foreign status, and the ageless woman characteristic of Athenian red-figure painting. Ceramics are an unparalleled resource for women's lives in ancient Greece since they show a huge number of female types and activities. Yet it can be difficult to interpret the meanings of these images especially when they seem to conflict with literary sources. This much needed study shows that it is vital to see the vases as archaeology as well as art since context is the key to understanding which images can stand as evidence for the real lives of women and which should be reassessed. The Epworth Herald, 1907

Treasury of David Charles Haddon Spurgeon, 2016-02-16 C. H. Spurgeon the Prince of Preachers first published in weekly installments over a twenty year period in the periodical The Sword and the Trowel. Originally published in seven volumes all of which are included here.

The Literary Representation of World War II Childhood Mary Honan, 2017-08-21 Focusing on twenty one primary texts about childhood under Nazism this book examines how childhood in literature has changed over the years from the Romantic writers to child slave labour in the Victorian era the child soldier and the impact of deportation on both the child victim and their families post wartime. The genres covered here range from diaries letters comics allegories time travel novels fairy tales and novels about the Hitler Youth. Because of its broad focus the work will be of interest to a broad readership from survivors of World War II and their families to historians teachers and librarians. It will also benefit those practitioners working in the areas of deportation trauma child soldiering and human rights and tolerance studies.

E. T. A. Hoffmann Christopher R. Clason, 2018-05-31 The essays in this volume address a very broad range of E. T. A. Hoffmann's most significant works examining them through the lens of transgression. His writings perhaps more than those of any other German Romantic portrayed the dark side of existence which the following essays investigate for an Anglophone audience.
