Handbook of Entrepreneurial Dynamics reports on the Panel Study of Entrepreneurial Dynamics PSED the most comprehensive scientifically representative study to date of nascent entrepreneurs The book is unique because the study identified individuals in the process of creating new businesses to understand how at its very source people move from considering the option of starting a new business to its actual founding This has never been done before in the history of entrepreneurship research I cannot recommend this book more strongly to entrepreneurship scholars and those interested in where entrepreneurs come from and how they move from their initial idea to new venture founding Claudia Bird Schoonhoven University of California Irvine This Handbook makes a terrific contribution to understanding entrepreneurship and new business creation Its 38 chapters report major findings from the Panel Study of Entrepreneurial Dynamics PSED an unprecedented research program involving more than a hundred researchers from 10 countries This Handbook is must reading for anyone interested in entrepreneurship research Andrew H Van de Ven Carlson School of Management University of Minnesota Entrepreneurial activity provides profound positive benefits across an important set of measures of social and economic well being much of it concentrated in new economic sectors such as information technology Yet even though entrepreneurship has been shown to provide many benefits it is surprising that there has not been a systematic study of the entrepreneurial process The Handbook of Entrepreneurial Dynamics The Process of Business Creation fills this gap by offering theories ideas and measures that can be used to explore and understand the factors that encompass and influence the creation of new businesses The chapters in the handbook provide the rationale for questionnaires used in the Panel Study of Entrepreneurial Dynamics PSED The PSED is a research program that was initiated to provide systematic reliable and generalizable data on important features of the new business creation process The PSED includes information on the proportion and characteristics of the adult population involved in efforts to start businesses the activities and characteristics that comprise the nature of the business start up process and the proportion and characteristics of those business start up efforts that actually become new businesses The handbook also describes the PSED data collection process provides documentation of the interview schedules codebooks data preparation and weighting scheme as well as offers examples of how analyses of PSED data might be conducted The authors identify specific measures that can be used to operationalize theory as well as provide evidence from the PSED data sets on these measures reliability and validity The Handbook of Entrepreneurial Dynamics is ideal for a sizeable audience including graduate students academics and librarians in schools of business and management who need a comprehensive reference on business creation In addition researchers and policy makers at the federal state and local level will find this an invaluable reference covering all of the factors involved in new venture formation Key Features Considers categories of data not available prior to the PSED Includes a comprehensive overview of theories about new business formation Provides demographics of nascent entrepreneurs Analyzes the cognitive characteristics of nascent entrepreneurs Explores all of the processes of new business formation The Wiley Handbook of Entrepreneurship Gorkan Ahmetoglu,Tomas Chamorro-Premuzic,Bailey Klinger,Tessa Karcisky,2017-07-13 Written by leading scholars The Wiley Handbook of Entrepreneurship provides a distinctive overview of methodological theoretical and paradigm changes in the area of entrepreneurship research It is divided into four parts covering history and theory individual differences and creativity organizational aspects of innovation including intrapreneurship and macroeconomic aspects such as social entrepreneurship and entrepreneurship in developing countries The result is a must have resource for seasoned researchers and newcomers alike as well as practitioners and advanced students of business entrepreneurship and social and organizational psychology Understanding the Entrepreneurial Mind Alan L. Carsrud,Malin Brännback,2009-07-30

Interest in the functioning of the human mind can certainly be traced to Plato and Aristotle who often dealt with issues of perceptions and motivations While the Greeks may have contemplated the human condition the modern study of the human mind can be traced back to Sigmund Freud 1900 and the psychoanalytic movement He began the exploration of both conscious and unconscious factors that propelled humans to engage in a variety of behaviors While Freud's focus may have been on repressed sexuality our focus in this volume lies elsewhere We are concerned herein with the expression of the cognitions motivations passions intentions perceptions and emotions associated with entrepreneurial behaviors We are attempting in this volume to expand on the work of why entrepreneurs think differently from other people Baron 1998 2004 During the decade of the 1990s the field of entrepreneurship research seemingly abandoned the study of the entrepreneur This was the result of earlier research not being able to demonstrate some unique entrepreneurial personality trait or characteristic Brockhaus and Horwitz 1986 It was both a naive and simplistic search for the holy grail of what made entrepreneurs the way they are However many of the researchers in this volume have never gave up the belief that a better understanding of the mind of the entrepreneur would give us a better understanding of the processes that lead to the creation of new ventures

New Business Creation Paul D Reynolds,Richard T. Curtin,2010-11-03 Understanding the origins of new businesses the firm creation process has been dramatically affected by the development of longitudinal studies of business start ups Several projects have been implemented to track the development of new firms from the emergence of a business idea and organization of a start up team through the birth of an operational business The U S projects the first and second Panel Studies of Entrepreneurial Dynamics known as PSED I and II have counterparts in a number of other countries Australia Canada China Latvia Netherlands two projects Norway and Sweden These eleven projects in nine countries implemented over the past decade are at different stages of development and have been utilized for a wide range of assessments of entrepreneurial and business creation phenomena This volume presents the state of the art of these international research projects providing the first in depth comparison of the firm creation data across a wide range of national contexts The work will be of great interest to the research community particularly those developing such projects in their own countries as well as policy makers and scholars interested in the effect of national context on the business creation process New Firm Creation in the United States Paul D. Reynolds, Richard T. Curtin, 2009-06-13 This research program began in 1993. The idea of developing representative samples of those active in the business creation process, now called nascent entrepreneurs, developed from the success of using regional characteristics to predict variations in new firm birth rates in six countries. The initial purpose was to determine those external factors that encouraged individuals to initiate the business creation process and become as they are now called nascent entrepreneurs. The research procedures, mainly the critical aspects of the screening procedures, were developed with the Survey Research Laboratory at the University of Wisconsin in Madison to complete the Wisconsin Entrepreneurial Climate Study. Support for an initial test with a national sample was provided by the Institute for Social Research at the University of Michigan. Richard Curtin became involved with the incorporation of the screening module as part 3 of the Survey of Consumers in October and November in 1993. The success of these efforts in providing a detailed description of the entrepreneurial process based on representative samples led to substantial interest among entrepreneurial scholars. A founding team of Nancy Carter, William Gartner, and Paul Reynolds was able to organize the Entrepreneurial Research Consortium (ERC), a collaborative network of 34 research units that shared the financial cost and sweat equity required to implement the first national project. 4. Revisiting the Entrepreneurial Mind Malin Brännback, Alan L. Carsrud, 2017-02-08 The book explores various aspects of cognitive and motivational psychology as they impact entrepreneurial behavior. Building upon the 2009 volume Understanding the Entrepreneurial Mind, the editors and contributors explore the cognitions, motivations, passions, intentions, perceptions, and emotions associated with entrepreneurial behaviors in each case, preserving their original chapters and enhancing them with thoughtful and targeted updates reflecting on the most recent developments in theory and practice, telling the story of what has transpired in the last decade in the field of entrepreneurial psychology. The volume addresses such questions as: Why do some people start business and others do not? Is entrepreneurship a natural quality or can it be taught? Do entrepreneurs think differently from others? While there is a great deal of literature exploring the dynamics of new firm creation, policies to promote innovation and technology transfer, and the psychology of creativity, research on entrepreneurial mindset or cognition is relatively new and draws largely from such related fields as organizational behavior, cognitive and social psychology, career development, and consumer research. In this book, editors Brännback and Carsrud have reassembled the contributors to Understanding the Entrepreneurial Mind to discuss new research paradigms given their vantage point years after the original volume was published. Featuring the most current literature references, Revisiting the Entrepreneurial Mind continues to challenge conventional approaches to entrepreneurship and articulate an agenda for future research. The Routledge Companion to Entrepreneurship Ted Baker, Friederike Welter, 2014-09-15 Research in entrepreneurship has been booming with perspectives from a range of disciplines and numerous developing schools of thought.
