Nurses Healthcare Professionals first came from the realization that there were few resources that provided practical information about computer applications and information systems in healthcare. From its inception this book served as a guide for nurses and other healthcare professionals who needed to learn how to adapt and use computer applications and informatics in the workplace. Over time this text became a reliable resource for students in a variety of healthcare professions who needed to develop and deepen informatics competencies. This book serves undergraduates, graduates, and post graduates who need a historical to current view of healthcare informatics and constantly changing paradigm of value generated through healthcare informatics. It has also served as a review resource for the American Nurses Credentialing Center nursing informatics certification exam.

Handbook of Informatics for Nurses & Health Care Professionals Toni Hebda, Patricia Czar, 2009. This useful handbook introduces nurses and other health care professionals to the most current application of computer related technology in the health care environment. Included are the various forms of electronic communication and ways to use it more effectively. New coverage of web based technology search tools and evaluation criteria for online material are presented along with regulatory and accreditation requirements such as HIPAA. Completely updated, the fourth edition offers a clearly written overview of informatics as well as practical applications of computer based education for day to day use.

The Nursing Informatics Implementation Guide Eleanor Callahan Hunt, Sara Breckenridge Sproat, Rebecca Rutherford Kitzmiller, 2013-03-09. Health institutions are investing in and fielding information technology solutions at an unprecedented pace. With the recommendations from the Institute of Medicine around information technology solutions for patient safety, mandates from industry groups such as Leapfrog about using information systems to improve health care, and the move toward evidence based practice, health institutions cannot afford to retain manual practices. The installation of multi million dollar computerized health systems represents the very life blood of contemporary clinical operations and a crucial link to the financial viability of institutions. Yet the implementation of health information systems is exceptionally complex, expensive, and often just plain messy. The need for improvement in the art and science of systems implementation is clear. Up to 70-80% of information technology installations fail. The reasons are multifaceted, ranging from the complexity of the diverse workflows being computerized, the intricate nature of health organizations, the knowledge and skills of users, to other reasons such as strategies for obtaining key executive support, weaving through the politics peculiar to the institution, and technical facets including the usability of systems. Thus the art and science of successfully implementing systems remains deeply layered in elusiveness. Still, given the pervasiveness of system implementa tions and the importance of the outcomes this is a critical topic especially for nurses and informatics nurse specialists
