Life Among the Piutes Sarah Winnemucca Hopkins,1976 Critical Perspectives on Colonialism Fiona Paisley,Kirsty Reid,2013-11-20 This collection brings much needed focus to the vibrancy and vitality of minority and marginal writing about empire and to their implications as expressions of embodied contact between imperial power and those negotiating its consequences from below The chapters explore how less powerful and less privileged actors in metropolitan and colonial societies within the British Empire have made use of the written word and of the power of speech public performance and street politics This book breaks new ground by combining work about marginalized figures from within Britain as well as counterparts in the colonies ranging from published sources such as indigenous newspapers to ordinary and everyday writings including diaries letters petitions ballads suicide notes and more Each chapter engages with the methodological implications of working with everyday scribbles and asks what these alternate modernities and histories mean for the larger critique of the imperial archive that has shaped much of the most interesting writing on empire in the past decade

A Field of Their Own John M. Rhea, 2016-04-18 One hundred and forty years before Gerda Lerner established women's history as a specialized field in 1972 a small group of women began to claim American Indian history as their own domain A Field of Their Own examines nine key figures in American Indian scholarship to reveal how women came to be identified with Indian history and why they eventually claimed it as their own field From Helen Hunt Jackson to Angie Debo the magnitude of their research the reach of their scholarship the popularity of their publications and their close identification with Indian scholarship makes their invisibility as pioneering founders of this specialized field all the more intriguing Reclaiming this lost history John M Rhea looks at the cultural processes through which women were connected to Indian history and traces the genesis of their interest to the nineteenth century push for women's rights In the early 1830s evangelical preachers and women's rights proponents linked American Indians to white women's religious and social interests Later pre professional women ethnologists would claim Indians as a special political cause Helen Hunt Jackson's 1881 publication A Century of Dishonor and Alice Fletcher's 1887 report Indian Education and Civilization foreshadowed the emerging history profession's objective methodology and established a document driven standard for later Indian histories By the twentieth century historians Emma Helen Blair Louise Phelps Kellogg and Annie Heloise Abel in a bid to boost their professional status established Indian history as a formal specialized field However enduring barriers continued to discourage American Indians from pursuing their own document driven histories Cultural and academic walls crumbled in 1919 when Cherokee scholar Rachel Caroline Eaton earned a Ph D in American history Eaton and later Indigenous historians Anna L Lewis and Muriel H Wright would each play a crucial role in shaping Angie Debo's 1940 indictment of European American settler colonialism And Still the Waters Run Rhea's wide ranging approach goes beyond existing compensatory histories to illuminate the national consequences of women's century long predominance over American Indian scholarship In the process his thoughtful study also chronicles Indigenous women's long and ultimately successful struggle to transform the way that historians portray American Indian peoples and their pasts

Fallen Forests Karen L. Kilcup, 2013-05-01 In 1844 Lydia Sigourney asserted Man's warfare on the trees is terrible Like Sigourney many American women of her day engaged with such issues as sustainability resource wars globalization voluntary simplicity Christian ecology and environmental justice Illuminating the foundations for contemporary women's environmental writing Fallen Forests shows how their nineteenth century predecessors marshaled powerful affective ethical and spiritual resources to chastise educate and motivate readers to engage in positive social change Fallen Forests contributes to scholarship in American women's writing ecofeminism ecocriticism and feminist rhetoric expanding the literary historical and theoretical grounds for some of today's most pressing environmental debates Karen L Kilcup rejects prior critical emphases on sentimentalism to show how women writers have drawn on their literary emotional intelligence to raise readers consciousness about social and environmental issues She also critiques ecocriticism s idealizing tendency which has elided women s complicity in agendas that depart from today s environmental orthodoxies Unlike previous ecocritical works Fallen Forests includes marginalized texts by African American Native American Mexican American working class and non Protestant women Kilcup also enlarges ecocriticism s genre foundations showing how Cherokee oratory travel writing slave narrative diary polemic sketches novels poetry and expos intervene in important environmental debates
