

Descartes claims that his certainty in the proposition I exist is due to the fact that it is a clear and distinct idea. Having a clear and distinct idea is not simply a feeling of certainty though- it is a recognition that its impossible for the proposition to be false. So Descartes says that I exist is true because you can think it

Arguments for the existence of God

The trademark argument

1. I have a concept of God
2. My concept of God is the concept of something infinite and perfect
3. But I am a finite and imperfect being
4. The cause and effect must have at least as reality as the effect
5. So the cause of my concept of God must have as much reality as what the concept is about
6. So the cause of my idea of God must be an infinite and perfect being

To summarise this the trademark argument is called as such because DESCARTES ARGUES THAT THE CONCEPT OF GOD IS LIKE AN INNATE TRADEMARK PLACED IN OUR MINDS. DESCARTES POINT IS ESSENTIALLY THAT ITS IMPOSSIBLE THIS TRADEMARK- OF AN INFINITE AND PERFECT BEING-IS SOMETHING HE COULD HAVE CREATED HIMSELF. Whatever caused descartes idea of God must be an infinite and perfect being because of premise 4 above.

Descartes then continues his process of intuition and deduction to argue that because god exists, his perception can be trusted . these perceptions are of an external world of physical objects and, because Descartes can trust his perceptions, he can trust that the external world exists

The key points are as follows

1. I have perceptions of an external world with physical objects
2. My perceptions cannot be caused by my own mind because they are involuntary (Descartes argument for this is like Locke's argument)
3. So, the cause of my perceptions must be something external to my mind
4. God exists (trademark argument)
5. If the cause of my perceptions is God and not the physical objects themselves, then God has created me with a tendency to form false beliefs (because premise 1)
6. But god is a perfect being by definition( ontological argument) and so would not create me with a tendency to form false beliefs from my perceptions
7. So I can trust my perceptions
8. So given 1-7 above , I can know the external world of physical objects can exist

Reason's Inquisition Christopher A. Colmo, 2023-08-29 Reasons Inquisition On Doubtful Ground is an exploration in the literature of political philosophy before and after Alfarabi and ranging from Thucydides to Leo Strauss and Eric Voegelin. These studies most of them previously unpublished open inquiries into theory and practice reason and revelation and the relation between thinkers ancient and modern. Readers may be surprised to see the Platonist Alfarabi presented as a critic of Plato's theory in the name of practice while Alfarabi and Hobbes are shown to have a common interest in a theory commensurate with action. Strauss, Voegelin and Lucien Febvre all explore the problem of reason and revelation in relation to the limits of human knowledge. An ambitious study of Shakespeare's Macbeth explores the ambiguity of both nature and knowledge in relation to male and female good and evil present and future. The contrast between ancients and moderns is explicit in questions of the modern aspects of Marlowe's Doctor Faustus and of Rousseau's reversal of Plato. Kierkegaard and Heidegger bring radical modernity into focus against a Platonic background in the closing essay. These diverse essays attempt to follow the thinkers and themes explored in turning a critical gaze upon reason itself. The question of toleration together with its cultural, social, religious and philosophical implications are addressed by leading authorities who offer insights from an interdisciplinary perspective. The book begins with essays by three distinguished scholars: Robert Cummings, Neville J. B. Schneewind and John McCumber. They assess the origins of intolerance, the genesis of our concept of toleration and the outlook for the practice of tolerance in contemporary society. Beyond the opening essays the collection is divided into three sections. The first concentrates on the relationship of religious faith and practice to toleration and inquires how religion might either impede or promote toleration. The second section deals primarily with questions regarding tolerance in the face of modern political realities. The final section discusses ethics namely the philosophical analysis and definition of toleration as a virtue      The Intellectual repository for the New Church. (July/Sept. 1817). [Continued as] The Intellectual repository and New Jerusalem magazine. Enlarged ser., vol.1-28
