

Fort Steendorp

Herbert Charles O'Neill

Fort Steendorp:

Breaking the Fortress Line, 1914 Clayton Donnell, 2013-10-17 Breaking the Fortress Line 1914 offers a fascinating new perspective on the German offensive against France and Belgium in 1914. In graphic detail it describes the intense fighting that took place around the forts and fortified cities that stood in the path of the German invasion. The ordeal began with the German assault on the mighty fortress of Lige. They took twelve days to batter their way through the Gateway to Belgium, losing thousands of men in repeated frontal assaults and they had to bring up the heaviest siege artillery ever used to destroy the defences. This is the epic struggle that Clayton Donnell depicts in this compelling account of a neglected aspect of the battles that followed the outbreak of the Great War. Not only does he reconstruct the German attack on the strongpoints they encountered along the entire invasion line but he traces the history and design of these fixed defences and analyses the massive military building programmes undertaken by the French, the Germans and the Belgians between 1871 and 1914. Thousands of huge forts, infantry strongpoints, bunkers, casemates and shelters were dug out along the French and German borders. The German Moselstellung and Steinbruch Stellung were born. These massive concrete fortress systems with steel gun turrets and diesel motors to generate electricity were a completely new concept of fortress design. As war approached, France and Germany devised plans to overcome each other's powerful armies and these border defences. The French plan avoided contact with the German fortress system. But the Kaiser's army faced twelve forts at Lige, nine more at Namur and then the strongpoints of the first and second Sr de Rivieres lines. Clayton Donnell provides a gripping narrative of the violent confrontation that followed. Army Review, 1914

The Forts & Fortifications of Europe 1815- 1945: The Neutral States J. E. Kaufmann, H. W. Kaufmann, 2014-10-30 After the Napoleonic Wars the borders of Europe were redrawn and relative peace endured across the region but the volatile politics of the late nineteenth century generated an atmosphere of fear and distrust and it gave rise to a new era of fortress building. In the neutral states situated between France and Germany, The Netherlands, Belgium and Switzerland, the need for extensive fixed defences was particularly urgent and this is the subject of this highly illustrated new study. The strategic thinking that gave rise to these defensive schemes is described in detail as is the planning, design and construction of the lines themselves. Their operational history in wartime, in particular during the Second World War, is a key element of this expert account.

Modern European Military Fortifications, 1870-1950 J.E Kaufmann, Clayton Donnell, 2004-10-30 This selected bibliography on modern European fortifications from 1850 to 1950 provides a selection of the most important books and articles written on this topic. The work covers regions and countries and includes many sources on such popular topics such as the Maginot Line along with lesser known fortifications such as the Salpa Line and the Swiss National Redoubt. References for the fortifications that appear cover everything from the Iberian Peninsula to the Soviet Union and from Scandinavia to the Mediterranean countries.
