Foundations For A Practical Theology Of Ministry:

Foundations for a Practical Theology of Ministry James Newton Poling, Donald Eugene Miller, 1985 The pastoral ministry is in danger of losing its focus say the authors of this perceptive and timely study Specialization in preaching counseling evangelism administration and education has diffused the impact of practical theology And because of competing ideas as to what now is central the very image of ministry may be breaking down Foundations for a Practical Theology of Ministry responds to the problem by introducing a specific method for doing practical theology which will be welcomed by concerned church leaders everywhere Presenting a realistic workable answer to those who call for a revival of this vital discipline Drs James N Poling and Donald E Miller propose that the unifying image for ministry becomes the formation of the community of faith After developing this as the most appropriate base for the practice of theology they carefully outline their method and show how it will work by demonstrating its success in the actual experiences of typical congregations For Christian leaders who seek to renew the integrity of ministry and restore the character of pastoral leadership this significant book will provide a solid foundation And for individuals interested or involved in education for the future of the church this important resource will prove invaluable

Taking on Practical Theology Courtney Goto, 2018-08-20 In Taking on Practical Theology Courtney T Goto explores the regnant paradigm that shapes knowledge production and that preserves power privilege and historic communal injury even as scholars intend to enlighten and transform communities Approaching context as a case study Goto illumines how this commonly used taken for granted concept is idolized Though practical theologians are sensitive to context researchers often fail to consider how their own assumptive world dictates and influences their practices of research teaching and engaging in scholarly conversations These practices unwittingly validate scholars who enjoy the most social capital while inflicting harm on both communities they research and on colleagues and students who do not fit or fit less well the norms of the majority

Preaching to Korean Immigrants Rebecca Seungyoun Jeong, 2022-09-14. In terms of practical theology's critical reflection on marginalized people's wounds in a wider society, this book investigates the question: How to proclaim the good news in response to first-generation Korean immigrants' contextual suffering in the United States? To answer the question, the book starts with investigating Korean immigrant hearers' contextual predicaments in a new land to point out emerging practical theological issues in relation to the practice of preaching. In this book, the primary subjects are first-generation Korean immigrants, especially those who have relatively low socio-economic status and struggle with the purpose of their lives as immigrants, particularly those whose material dreams have been shattered. In order to proclaim the good news, this book proposes a more appropriate immigrant theology for the practice of preaching by reclaiming the priorities of God's future in our lives and confirming God's active identification with Korean immigrant congregations in the depths of their predicament. Such reconstructive work for immigrant theology arises in response to their existential hardships, marginality, ethnic discrimination, and relative powerlessness in life. While acknowledging both the possibilities and limits of the diverse forms of current Korean immigrant preaching, the book then offers a strategic proposal for a new homiletic theory, namely, a psalmic theological homiletic. This proposed homiletic is deeply rooted in the theology of the Psalms and their rhetorical movement. This re-envisioned mode of eschatological and prophetic preaching in times of difficulty recovers ancient Israel's psalmic rhetorical tradition that aims toward faith. Its theological rhetorical strategy intends to both transform hearers' habitus of living in faith and enhance their hope-filled life through communal anticipation of God's coming future on the margins. Specifically, this proposed homiletic critically adopts key features from psalms of lament and their typical fourfold theological rhetorical movement: i.e., lament, retelling a story, confessional doxology, and obedient vow as now core elements of a revised Korean immigrant preaching practice      Practicing Discipleship Nicole L. Johnson, 2009-06-01 Despite a plurality of doctrinal statements on war peace and nonviolence some United Methodists sustain a commitment to nonviolence Through qualitative research Practicing Discipleship draws out lived theologies of nonviolence in order to understand how nonviolent United Methodists define ground and practice nonviolence and to give that voice opportunity to challenge church doctrine and thereby the wider church An analysis of statements from the Book of Disciplines and the Book of Resolutions reveals the plurality of Methodist teachings on moral issues related to war and peace While such plurality is indicative of the inclusive tradition of United Methodism Johnson shows that it also causes confusion thus hindering the vitality and authority of the church's witness This study's qualitative analysis of in depth interviews with twelve nonviolent United Methodists reveals a lived theology rooted in Scripture and theological reflection it points particularly to a christocentrism that posits nonviolence as central to Christ's teachings and example While study participants affirm the tradition of openness in the United Methodist Church they also call for more tangible and extensive support for and education about nonviolence as a faithful option for Christians Through amicable and constructive practical theological dialogue doctrinal plurality and ecclesial openness are affirmed as appropriate and possible only within the context of the church's profound commitment to serious discipleship which includes transformation toward nonviolence Implications of this interaction include developing and adopting a more truthful conception of a nonviolent ethics moving toward broadly conceived Christian formation in nonviolence and fostering ongoing ecclesial dialogue about difficult moral issues of war peace and nonviolence      Faithful Companioning Chris R. Schlauch, By engaging the reader in a process which parallels the pastoral counseling method extending a conversation of revising and refining questions Schlauch illustrates the content of his thinking through his carefully crafted presentation maintaining that pastoral counseling is at its heart healing through faithful companioning to God So this key event directs and empowers the church in its service to the world In the light of Pentecost we learn that we can come to know God only in praxis truth discovered through action In the process of elucidating this praxis Anderson seeks to construct a theology that not only truly respects and aids ministers on the firelines but will also heal the breach between Pentecostal and mainline church theology T&T Clark Handbook of Thomas F. Practical Theology in Church and Society Joseph E.
