Value, Beauty, and Nature Brian G. Henning, 2023-12-01 Much of early environmental ethics was born out of the belief that the ecological crisis can only truly be solved by overcoming a pernicious worldview that limits all intrinsic value to human beings Returning to this originating impulse Value Beauty and Nature contends that to make progress within environmental ethics philosophers must explicitly engage in environmental metaphysics Grounded in an organicist process worldview Brian G Henning shows that it is possible to make progress in key debates within environmental philosophy including those concerning the nature of intrinsic value anthropocentrism hierarchy the moral significance of beauty the nature of individuality teleology and the naturalistic fallacy and worldview reconstruction A Whiteheadian fallibilistic naturalistic event ontology allows for the recovery of systematic speculative metaphysical thought without a revanchist movement toward a necessitarian philosophia perennis Thus in contrast to the claims of environmental pragmatists Value Beauty and Nature demonstrates that environmental ethics would greatly benefit from an adequate metaphysical foundation and of the candidate metaphysical systems Alfred North Whitehead's philosophy of organism is the most adequate

The Ethics of Environmental Concern Robin Attfield,2011-03-15 First published in 1983 The Ethics of Environmental Concern has become a classic in the relatively new field of environmental ethics Examining traditional attitudes toward nature and the degree to which these attitudes enable us to cope with modern ecological problems Robin Attfield looks particularly at the Judeo Christian heritage of belief in humankind s dominion the tradition of stewardship and the more recent belief in progress to determine the extent to which these attitudes underlie ecological problems and how far they embody resources adequate for combating such problems He then examines concerns of applied ethics and considers our obligations to future generations the value of life and the moral standing and significance of nonhumans Simultaneously he offers and defends a theory of moral principles appropriate for dealing with such concerns as pollution scarce natural resources population growth and the conservation and preservation of the environment The second edition includes a new preface and introduction as well as a bibliographic essay and an updated list of references incorporating relevant scholarship since the publication of the first edition Teaching Environmental Ethics Clare Palmer,2006-04-01 This collection explores a variety of questions both of a theoretical and practical nature raised by teaching environmental ethics Questions considered move from asking whether teaching environmental ethics should include environmental advocacy to practical issues about texts syllabi and teaching techniques Reimagining Ethics Matteo Andreozzi,2025-08-24 Several environmental problems are currently seriously undermining the traditional belief that the moral community should be restricted to human beings only New scientific theories especially in the fields of biology ethology and ecology together with recent scientific discoveries demonstrating how human activities are jeopardizing ecosystem services urge for a paradigmatic change in our moral convictions Environmental ethics has taken up the challenge and opened an extremely urgent and inspiring call for philosophical research This is the call for extending the moral community to non human and non paradigmatic entities regarding them as moral patients The main aim of this book is to analyze the possibility and the legitimacy of a non anthropocentric environmental ethic In pursuing this aim I primarily demonstrate the possibility and need to extend the status of moral patient beyond the ideal paradigmatic human being I also provide an original categorization of several theoretical projects that have been proposed in the last few decades Secondly this book comprises a constructive critique of the most significant moral theories debated in the field and outlines a personal theoretical proposal for a new environmental ethic My claim is that the refusal of ethical and ontological supremacy of human beings is not only necessary but also sufficient to set the foundation for a formally and materially valid ethical system Even without abandoning the most accepted forms of moral epistemology it is nonetheless possible to admit the need to respect different kinds of non human and non paradigmatic moral patients
