Accomplishing Permanency: Reunification

Pathways and Outcomes for Foster Children Elizabeth Fernandez, 2012-09-13 Reunification is a primary goal of foster care systems and the most common permanency planning decision. It is defined as the return of children placed in protective care to the home of their birth family and used to describe the act of restoring a child in out of home care back to the biological family. Yet reunification decision making and the process of reintegrating children into birth families remains under researched. This Brief takes a look at family reunification knowledge and research in Australia where there is evidence that most children placed in protective care are eventually reunited with their birth parents. It explores how a knowledge of reunification decision making and outcomes can contribute to strengthening practice and informing policy formulation and program planning in Child Welfare.

Social Work and Foster Care Helen Cosis Brown, 2014-02-17 Working with children in foster care is a demanding and rigorous aspect of social work practice. Difficult decisions in fast moving and often complex situations have to be made and for students and practitioners alike there is a vast array of legislation, law and social policy to understand. This book is written to help social workers and social work students get to grips with the complexity of foster care. The child is placed at the heart of the text and there are substantial chapters on law, policy frameworks and the overreaching theoretical and research evidence to support good practice. There is also a strong focus on practical skills such as empathy and relationship based practice. This is an essential text for experienced social workers or those currently in training.

Helping Foster Children In School John DeGarmo, 2015-07-21 Helping Foster Children In School explores the challenges that foster children face in schools and offers positive and practical guidance tailored to help the parents, teachers and social workers supporting them. Children in care often perform poorly at school both in terms of their behavior and their academic performance, with many failing to complete their education. They will have often experienced trauma or neglect which can result in a number of developmental delays. By looking at why children in foster care do not perform as well as their counterparts, John DeGarmo, who has fostered more than 40 children, provides easy to use strategies to target the problems commonly faced. He emphasizes the importance of an open dialogue between teacher, parent and social worker to ensure that everyone is working jointly to achieve the best outcome for the child. An invaluable resource for foster parents, social workers and educators alike, this book encourages a unified response to ensure foster children are given the best chance to succeed at school.

Children and Their Families Vicky R. Bowden, Cindy Smith Greenberg, 2010 Children and Their Families: The Continuum of Care provides a unique interdisciplinary perspective that underscores the nurse's role in planning, coordinating and working with all members of a pediatric health care team. It shows students how to make critical judgments and assessments to manage the care of children in a variety of community settings including homes, schools and medical centers. From infancy through adolescence, this text thoroughly covers the health promotion, surveillance and maintenance needs of children. In this edition, threaded case studies follow a community of pediatric clients and continue throughout the chapter to show the interrelated dynamics of pediatric nursing care A companion Website includes journal articles NCLEX style chapter review questions a Spanish English audio glossary Watch and Learn videos a fluids and electrolytes tutorial and much more

Handbook on Parent Education Marvin J. Fine,2014-05-10 Handbook on Parent Education presents a contemporary picture of the state of the parent education movement It tackles a number of critical issues such as the programs that are available or when parent education should begin Different models of parent education are described along with parenting programs for youth The application of parenting programs for specific groups including foster parents parents of preschoolers abusive parents and parents of handicapped children is also discussed Comprised of 14 chapters this book begins with an overview of the parent education movement as well as several prototype programs and some ethical issues. The distinction between education and therapy is explained and parent education with special interest groups is described. In addition, problems of research and evaluation and a projection for the future are presented. Subsequent chapters focus on the state of the nuclear family in American society during the 1970s, Rudolf Dreikurs' impact on childrearing practices and his contribution to individual psychology together with the social context of child behavior, Haim Ginott's approach to parent education and the effects of parent effectiveness training on families, Transactional analysis approaches to parent education and parent education as a strategy for the prevention of child abuse are also examined. This monograph will appeal to educators, parents, sociologists and educational psychologists.
