Foundation Maturation Adversity:

The Perversity of Things Hugo Gernsback, 2016-11-21 In 1905 a young Jewish immigrant from Luxembourg founded an electrical supply shop in New York This inventor writer and publisher Hugo Gernsback would later become famous for launching the first science fiction magazine Amazing Stories in 1926 But while science fiction's annual Hugo Awards were named in his honor there has been surprisingly little understanding of how the genre began among a community of tinkerers all drawn to Gernsback's vision of comprehending the future of media through making In The Perversity of Things Grant Wythoff makes available texts by Hugo Gernsback that were foundational both for science fiction and the emergence of media studies Wythoff argues that Gernsback developed a means of describing and assessing the cultural impact of emerging media long before media studies became an academic discipline From editorials and blueprints to media histories critical essays and short fiction Wythoff has collected a wide range of Gernsback's writings that have been out of print since their magazine debut in the early 1900s These articles cover such topics as television the regulation of wireless radio war and technology speculative futures media archaeological curiosities like the dynamophone and hypnobioscope and more All together this collection shows how Gernsback's publications evolved from an electrical parts catalog to a full fledged literary genre The Perversity of Things aims to reverse the widespread misunderstanding of Gernsback within the history of science fiction criticism Through painstaking research and extensive annotations and commentary Wythoff reintroduces us to Gernsback and the origins of science fiction

Fatherland Burkhard Bilger, 2024-06-04 A New Yorker staff writer investigates his grandfather a Nazi Party Chief in a finely etched memoir with the powerful sweep of history David Grann 1 bestselling author of Killers of the Flower Moon Fatherland maintains the momentum of the best mysteries and a commendable balance The New York Times Unflinching and illuminating Bilger's haunting memoir reminds us the past is prologue to who we are as well as who we choose to be The Wall Street Journal A BEST BOOK OF THE YEAR The New Yorker The Washington Post Kirkus Reviews One spring day in northeastern France Burkhard Bilger's mother went to the town of Bartenheim where her father was posted during the Second World War As a historian she had spent years studying the German occupation of France yet she had never dared to investigate her own family's role in it She knew only that her father was a schoolteacher who was sent to Bartenheim in 1940 and ordered to reeducate its children to turn them into proper Germans as Hitler demanded Two years later he became the town's Nazi Party chief There was little left from her father's era by the time she visited But on her way back to her car she noticed an old man walking nearby He looked about the same age her father would have been if he was still alive She hurried over to introduce herself and told him her father's name Karl G nner Do you happen to remember him she said The man stared at her dumbstruck Well of course he said I saved his life didn't I Fatherland is the story behind that story the riveting account of Bilger's nearly ten year quest to uncover the truth about his grandfather Was he guilty or innocent a war criminal or a man who risked his life to shield the villagers Long admired for his profiles in The New Yorker Bilger brings the same open hearted curiosity to his family history and the questions it raises What do we owe the past How can we make peace with it without perpetuating its wrongs

The Politics of Literature in Nazi Germany Jan-Pieter Barbian, 2013-08-29 This is the most comprehensive account to date of literary politics in Nazi Germany and of the institutions organizations and people who controlled German literature during the Third Reich Barbian details a media dictatorship involving the persecution and control of writers publishers and libraries but also voluntary assimilation and preemptive self censorship that began almost immediately under the National Socialists leading to authors forced declarations of loyalty literary propaganda censorship and book burnings Special attention is given to Nazi regulation of the publishing industry and command over all forms of publication and dissemination from the most prestigious publishing houses to the smallest municipal and school libraries Barbian also shows that although the Nazis censored books not in line with Party aims many publishers and writers took advantage of loopholes in their system of control Supporting his work with exhaustive research of original sources Barbian describes a society in which everybody who was not openly opposed to it participated in the system whether as a writer an editor or even as an ordinary visitor to a library
