Understanding Morality Wayne Gustave Johnson, 2022-02-04 This book explains why moral systems necessarily develop and why they take the various forms that they do Johnson argues that moral systems are best understood as attempts both to seek out ways of living a fulfilling human life and also to find ways of relating to others who also seek a fulfilling life Philosophers generally agree that the moral pathway is also the fulfilling pathway However the moral pathways advocated and the kind of fulfillments envisioned depend upon beliefs about human nature as well as beliefs about the ultimate nature of things a worldview Aristotle Epicurus Saint Augustine and Friedrich Nietzsche for instance had radically varying views about what constitutes a fulfilling life Johnson argues that the moral quest involves properly arbitrating among the often competing wants needs and desires pursued by human beings Not all such wants needs and desires can be fulfilled some must necessarily go unfulfilled This implies that a vast number of human choices are moral choices For instance who eats and who does not Johnson gives no moral advice His aim is to show the reader the nature of the moral choices they necessarily make

Taking Religion Seriously Across the Curriculum Warren A. Nord, Charles C. Haynes, 1998-08-15 The authors chart a middle course in our war over religion and public education one that builds on a developing national consensus among educational and religious leaders While it is not proper for schools to practice religion or proselytize neither is it permissible to make them religion free zones Schools do not take religion seriously as the authors review of textbooks and the new national content standards makes clear In Part One they outline the civic constitutional and educational frameworks that should shape the treatment of religion in the curriculum and classroom In Part Two they

Religion in Multicultural Education Farideh Salili, Rumjahn Hoosain, 2006-05-01 The National Association for Multicultural Education in Washington D C listed a number of issues that the school curriculum should address with reference to multicultural education including racism sexism classism linguisticism ablism ageism heterosexism and religious intolerance It is noteworthy that of all these issues religion is about the only one that throughout history people are willing to die for although whether what is at issue is really religion or other things such as territory is another matter It is also interesting that all the others have isms in their names but religious issues are characterized by intolerance Perhaps we should try to understand this intolerance and look at what steps might help to alleviate it However while intolerance might seem a simple thing understanding what is behind it and how it plays such a crucial role in religion requires what we refer to in the Introduction chapter as a multifaceted approach at multiple levels It is not enough just to try to dispel stereotypes of followers of other religions or to point out commonalities in world religions We should for example try to understand and appreciate how adherents of other religions try to answer questions regarding their adaptation to the contemporary environment It is through understanding how different religions coexist side by side at various levels that we truly come to learn about religion in multicultural education
