How To Save Your Own Life A Novel:

How to Save Your Own Life Michael Gates Gill, 2009-12-29 Michael Gill's lemons to lemonade memoir chronicled his transformative years working at Starbucks after losing his high powered job his marriage and his health he developed a brain tumor In response to overwhelming requests from readers who wanted to know how they too could weather downturns he has distilled his lessons into fifteen meaningful lessons including Leap With Faith Sometimes it pays to leap without looking and say yes without thinking Gill accepted the Starbucks job immediately on a whim Let Yourself Be Helped Pride is even more paralyzing than fear Look with Respect at Every Individual You See Gill was raised to avoid eye contact with those who were different cloistered in a privileged world Now he realizes the potential in all who cross his daily path Lose Your Watch and Cell Phone and PDA Our obsession with productivity produces madness not gladness Offering living proof that extraordinary happiness is found in ordinary moments How to Save Your Own Life provides empowering words and hope for anyone facing a reversal of fortune True fortune Gill discovered lies not in fate but in discovering the innate capacity we all possess to rescue ourselves Watch a Video Changing the Story Gayle Greene, 1992-01-22 Changing the Story gives an excellent and well informed account of the differences between the American Canadian British and French attitudes towards feminism and feminist fiction and literary theory a very readable book which reminds us that literature can change us and that through it we can change ourselves Margaret Drabble A distinctive contribution clear elegant precise and well read to the feminist discussion of narrative of Anglo Canadian white North American novelists and to contemporary fiction Greene tracks how feminist novelists draw upon and negotiate with traditional narrative patterns and how their critical approach implicates and provokes social change The book brings us to an intelligent post humanism which does not scant the social meanings of metafictional critique And in addition this book remembers hope Rachel Blau DuPlessis Changing the Story is an invaluable guide to the feminist classics of the last three decades This is cultural criticism at its best engaged re visionary and politically astute Nancy K Miller Greene tells a very good tale about how feminist fiction emerged developed made changes in the world and now threatens to wane The Women's Review of Books Her probing analysis should captivate general readers as well as academics WLW Journal Changing the Story is an important work of feminist criticism certain to spark controversy within the feminist community American Literature The feminist fiction movement of the 1960s 1980s was and is as significant a movement as Modernism Gayle Greene focuses on the works of Doris Lessing Margaret Drabble Margaret Atwood and Margaret Laurence to trace the roots of this feminist literary explosion She also speculates on the future of feminist fiction in the current regressive period of post feminism How to Save Your Life Steve Carey, Susannah Bowen, 2009-10-31 Inspirational advice to help you decide whether setting up your own business is right for you and how to get started on the path to becoming an entrepreneur Conversations with Erica Jong Erica Jong, 2002 In Conversations with Erica Jong one of the most popular and controversial of contemporary writers has her say She was already an established poet when she published Fear of Flying 1973 but the novel's sensational reception came to overshadow all her work. In interviews from 1973 to 2001 Jong relates the extraordinary experience she gained as a pioneer of sexual writing from a female point of view. With equal attention to the art of fiction and poetry she yields her views on the literary scene and on the place of poetry in American society. Among the highlights of the book is Jong's account of the publication of Fear of Flying and its remarkable best seller rise. Cast into the role of spokesperson for feminism in the seventies she has continued to represent her generation of women. In several conversations she talks about the tensions within feminism over the decades. Jong's fame has been deeply branded by the notoriety associated with sex. She speaks for all women writers who have addressed sexual topics and who have suffered retaliation. She tells the story of the struggle to keep writing honestly when the public's perception of one's work has made one a target. She describes the difficulty of escaping categories created by the media and the critical community and the frustration of living in the shadow of one notorious best seller. In Jong's writing humor is a constant and one of the pleasures of reading these conversations is her abundant wit. Conversations with Erica Jong reveals the writer to be funny, articulate and passionately committed to her art. Charlotte Templin is the author of Feminism and the Politics of Literary Reputation: The Example of Erica Jong. Her work has appeared in American Studies, The Missouri Review and Centennial Review. Margaret Atwood and the Female Bildungsroman Ellen McWilliams, 2017-03-02. Examining Margaret Atwood's work in the context of the complex history of the Bildungsroman. Ellen McWilliams explores how the genre has been appropriated by women writers in the second half of the twentieth century. She demonstrates that Atwood's early work, her own coming-of-age fiction including unpublished works as well as The Edible Woman, Surfacing and Lady Oracle, both engages with and works against the paradigms of identity which are traditionally associated with the genre. Making extensive use of unpublished manuscripts in the Atwood Collection at the University of Toronto, McWilliams uncovers influences that shaped Atwood's fashioning of identity in her early novels, paying particular attention to Atwood's preoccupation with survival as a key symbol of Canadian literature, culture and identity. She also considers the genre's afterlife on display in Cat's Eye, The Robber Bride, Alias Grace, The Blind Assassin and Moral Disorder, in which the formulations of selfhood and identity in Atwood's early fiction are revisited and developed. Atwood emerges as a writer who self-consciously invokes and then undercuts the traditions of the Bildungsroman, a turn that may be read as a means of at once interrogating and perpetuating the form. McWilliams's book furthers our understanding of subjectivity in Atwood's fiction and contributes to ongoing conversations about the role gender and cultural contexts play in reframing generic boundaries. Bestsellers (Routledge Revivals) John Sutherland, 2010-10-04. First published in 1981, this book offers a study of British and American popular fiction in the 1970s, a decade in which the quest for the superseller came to dominate the lives of publishers on both sides of the Atlantic. Illustrated by examples of the lurid incidents that catapulted so many books into the bestseller charts, this comprehensive study covers the work of Robbins, Hailey and Maclean, the bodice rippers, the disaster craze horror war stories and media tie ins such as The Godfather Jaws and Star Wars      Imagining Los Angeles David Fine, 2016-06-01 The literary image of Los Angeles has evolved since the 1880s from promotional literature that hyped the region as a New Eden to contemporary visions of the city as a perplexing sometimes corrupt even apocalyptic place that reflects all that is wrong with America In Imagining Los Angeles the first literary history of the city in more than fifty years critic David Fine traces the history and mood of the place through the work of writers as diverse as Helen Hunt Jackson Mary Austin Norman Mailer Raymond Chandler Joan Didion Carolyn See and many others His lively and engaging text focuses on the way these writers saw Los Angeles and used the image of the city as an element in their work and on how that image has changed as the city itself became ever larger more complex and more socially and ethnically diverse This is essential reading for anyone interested in the literature and changing image of Southern California      Settlements in the Americas Ralph Francis Bennett, University of Maryland, College Park.
