How to Make Big Profits from Land in Transition Joseph A. Conover,1975-01-01 Prentice-Hall Real Estate Service ... Prentice-Hall, Inc,1946 Transitional Justice and Socio-Economic Harm Huma Saeed,2022-09-19

Maintaining the importance of socio economic issues in devising transitional justice mechanisms this book examines the widespread practice of land grabbing in Afghanistan On 3 September 2003 100 armed police officers bulldozed around 30 homes in the Sherpur neighborhood of Kabul Afghanistan evicting over 250 people Historically the land was part of the property of the Ministry of Defense of which a zone was allocated to the ministry s employees who had built homes and had lived there for nearly 30 years After the demolition however the land was distributed among 300 high ranking government officials including ministers deputy ministers governors and other powerful warlords Land grabbing in Afghanistan has become a widespread practice across the country Based on over 50 semi structured interviews with key informants and group discussions with war victims and local experts in Kabul the current book examines the relevance of transitional justice discourse and practice in response to this situation Following a critical criminological concern with social harm the book maintains that it is not enough to consider a country s political history of violent conflict and the violation of civil and political rights alone Rather to decide on appropriate transitional justice mechanisms it is crucial to consider a country s socio economic background and above all the socio economic harm inflicted on people during periods of violent conflict This original and detailed account of the socio economic challenges faced by transitional justice mechanisms will be of interest to those studying and working in this area in law politics development studies and criminology Catalog of Copyright

Economics of Rural Land-Use Change Kevin J. Boyle,2017-03-02 Public concern over land management has never been greater This book provides a broad overview of the economics of rural land use change drawing attention to the meaningful role economic analysis can play in resolving public concern and supporting future pro active land management strategies in rural areas The book s breadth distinguishes it from other recent texts as it jointly offers rigorous treatments of theoretical and empirical models of rural land use change and practical discussions of applications and relevant methods Chapters are specifically designed to demonstrate the types of land use questions economic analysis can answer the types of methods that might be employed to answer these questions and the types of public policy decisions that may be supported by such analysis The book makes a significant contribution to contemporary land use research highlighting the key methodological and public policy issues that will be central to future research on the economics of rural land use change

Large-Scale Land Acquisitions Christophe Gironde,Christophe Golay,Peter Messerli,2015-09-29 Large scale land acquisitions or land grabbing has become a key research topic among scholars interested in agrarian change development and the environment The term land acquisitions refers to a highly contested process in terms of governance and impacts on livelihoods and human rights This book focuses on South East Asia A series of thematic and in depth case studies put land grabbing into specific historical and institutional contexts The volume also offers a human rights analysis of the phenomenon examining the potential and limits of human rights mechanisms aimed at preventing and mitigating land grabs negative consequences Contributors include Maria Lisa Alano Ioana Cismas Olivier De Schutter Michael Dwyer Christophe Gironde Christophe Golay Andreas Heinimann Martin Keulertz Marcel Mazoyer Peter Messerli Hafiz Mirza Vong Nanhthavong Gerben Nooteboom Patricia Paramita Amaury Peeters Emily Polack Laurence Roudart Oliver Schoenweger Gilda Senties Sokbunthoeun So Mohamad Shohibuddin William Speller Eckart Woertz and James Zhan African Land Questions, Agrarian Transitions and the State Sam Moyo,2008 This empirically grounded study provides a critical reflection on the land question in Africa research on which tends to be tangential conceptually loose and generally inadequate It argues that the most pressing research concern must be to understand the precise nature of the African land question its land reforms and their effects on development To unravel the roots of land conflicts in Africa requires thorough understanding of the complex social and political contradictions which have ensued from colonial and post colonial land policies as well as from Africa s development and capital accumulation trajectories especially with regard to the land rights of the continent s poor The study thus questions the capacity of emerging neo liberal economic and political regimes in Africa to deliver land reforms which address growing inequality and poverty It equally questions the understanding of the nature of popular demands for land reforms by African states and their ability to address these demands under the current global political and economic structures dictated by neo liberalism and its narrow regime of ownership The study invites scholars and policy makers to creatively draw on the specific historical trajectories and contemporary expression of the land and agrarian questions in Africa to enrich both theory and practice on land in Africa Be A Successful Green Land Developer R. Transitional China Tiyen Shen,Xin Lao,Hengyu Gu,2022-07-21 This book investigates domestic migration and migration intentions in China from the individual city and provincial levels Since the 1990s accompanying the rapid urbanization an important feature of China s social transition is its large scale interregional migration which has reshaped China s economic geography and population distribution and greatly affected the socio economic development The floating population migrants working and living in the destination cities without local hukou have aroused wide public concern in the past decades. Based on China's national population census data and China Migrants Dynamic Survey data, this book comprehensively employs statistical analysis, spatial analysis, network analysis, econometric and spatial econometric methods to analyze the spatial pattern and influencing mechanism of internal migration and migration intentions of floating population from different levels and different perspectives. The research results of this book have significant policy implications for the urban governance on the floating population. The novelty of this book is that it comprehensively investigates domestic migration and migration intentions from the individual city and provincial levels, combining their spatial patterns and network structures. It not only provides a wealth of case studies for domestic migration research in China but also broadens the research scope of spatial demography by employing new methods of spatial econometrics such as MGWR and ESF. This book is suitable for undergraduates and graduates majoring in Human Geography, Regional Economics, Urban Planning and Urban Governance, as well as related researchers and practitioners.

Routledge Handbook of Community Forestry Janette Bulkan, John Palmer, Anne M. Larson, Mary Hobley, 2022-06-30. This handbook provides a comprehensive overview and cutting edge assessment of community forestry. Containing contributions from academics, practitioners and professionals, the Routledge Handbook of Community Forestry presents a truly global overview with case studies drawn from across Africa, Asia, Europe and the Americas. The Handbook begins with an overview of the chapters and a discussion of the concept of community forestry and the key issues. Topics as wide ranging as Indigenous forestry, conservation and ecosystem management, relationships with industrial forestry, trade and supply systems, land tenure and land grabbing and climate change are addressed. The Handbook also focuses on governance, looking at the range of approaches employed, including multi-level governance and rights-based approaches and the principal actors involved, from local communities and Indigenous Peoples to governments and national and international non-governmental organisations. The Handbook reveals the importance of the historical context to community forestry and the effects of power and politics. Importantly, the Handbook not only focuses on successful examples of community forestry but also addresses failures in order to highlight the key challenges we are still facing and potential solutions. The Routledge Handbook of Community Forestry is essential reading for academics, professionals and practitioners interested in forestry, natural resource management, conservation and sustainable development.

The Saturday Evening Post, 1925. Transitions towards sustainable agriculture and food chains in peri-urban areas Krijn J. Poppe, Katrien Termeer, Maja Slingerland, 2023-09-04. Agriculture is changing rapidly. The greatest current challenge to the agricultural sector is for it to become sustainable in all three of the dimensions: profit, people and planet. This is certainly the case in highly urbanized countries like the Netherlands, where agriculture is confronted with high land prices, rising consumer concerns for issues like animal welfare and negative environmental effects, but also with new demands from the city for recreation, health care and local food products. These are some of the developments in our society.

that are forcing agriculture to change The government farmers the agri food industry and the retail sector struggle to meet this challenge and find new forms of governance In the Netherlands the government has called for a transition towards sustainable agriculture and it is investing in this programme with its research and education policy Similar trends have been observed in other countries This book presents the expertise that has been accrued from at least five years of Dutch research in this area The aim is to collate the results of the experiments to learn from them to confront them with existing theory and to share them with a larger audience in order to foster learning about transition Given the leading position of the Netherlands in global agriculture in a highly urbanized setting and its leading position in the study of transition theory this should be of significant interest to students and researchers of the transitions in agriculture
