Facing the Colours of Roman Portraiture Amalie Skovmøller,2020-09-07 The fact that most ancient marble portraits were once intentionally polychrome has always been lurking at the corners of art historical and archaeological research Despite the fact that the colours of the sculpted forms completed enhanced and even extended the plastic shapes the topic has not been devoted much dedicated attention This book represents the first full length academic monograph which explores the original polychromy of Roman white marble portraiture It presents results from scientific analysis of portraits in statuary and bust formats dating to the first three centuries CE The book also explores the cultural and social significance of colours in their original contexts and how the immaterial affects of the polychrome three dimensional images can be integrated into the traditional research into ancient portraiture which has tended to place overwhelming emphasis on iconography typology and biography By doing so the ancient sculpted marble form as we know it will be exposed and confronted and the impact of manipulated material effects that were meant to evoke a broad range of multisensory experiences will be emphasized The book puts forth a new way of analysis to be tested and developed in the future
