Sex, politics and empire Richard Phillips,2018-02-01 Colonial governments institutions and companies recognised that in many ways the effective operation of the Empire depended upon sexual arrangements For example nuclear families serving agricultural colonization and prostitutes working for single men who powered armies and plantations mines and bureaucracies For this reason they devised elaborate systems of sexual governance such as attending to marriage and the family However they also devoted disproportionate energy to marking and policing the sexual margins In Sex Politics and Empire Richard Phillips investigates controversies surrounding prostitution homosexuality and the age of consent in the British Empire and revolutionises our notions about the importance of sex as a nexus of imperial power relations

'Your Secret Language' Barbara Goff,2013-02-28 This book is the first to examine the complex and contradictory history of Classics in Sierra Leone Ghana and Nigeria It investigates how Classical Studies as an integral part of colonial education enforced a notion of cultural inferiority on African subjects but conversely played an enabling role in nationalist expression The enquiry is structured around three main questions how Classics contributed to the formation of a new class of Europeanising West Africans in the late 19th century how Classics was implicated in the ideological struggles of the early twentieth century over the desirability of practical or agricultural education and how the uses of Classics changed in the years leading up to independence

The Black Mind Oscar Ronald Dathorne,1976 Tell Me Africa James Olney,2015-03-08 James Olney demonstrates that autobiography because it provides the most direct narrative enactments of the ways motives and beliefs of a culture is an excellent way to approach African literature After a general discussion of the African ethos each chapter takes up the autobiographical literature of a specific group in African society and treats it as both an expression of a
