Scott Eacott, 2015-01-19 Educational leadership management and administration has a rich history of epistemological and ontological dialogue and debate. However, in recent times at least since the publication of Colin Evers and Gabriele Lakowski's trilogy Knowing, Exploring and Doing Educational Administration, there has been a distinct dearth of Educational Leadership Relationally. Explicitly, it returns matters of epistemology and ontology to the centre of the discussion. Through a sustained and rigorous engagement with contemporary thought and analysis, Scott Eacott articulates and defends a relational approach to scholarship in educational leadership management and administration. Eacott belongs to a group of scholars in educational administration who could be called meta-sociologists. This group blends sociology, historical revisionism, managerial theories and general philosophy to emphasise the relevance of sociological analysis in the field of educational administration. Proposing a relational turn, Eacott outlines a methodological agenda for constructing an alternative approach to educational leadership management and administration scholarship that might be persuasive beyond the critical frontier. The relational research programme is arguably the most ambitious agenda in educational leadership management and administration coming out of Australia since Colin Evers and Gabriele Lakowski's Natural Coherentism and Richard Bates' Critical Theory of Educational Administration. As a research agenda, it engages with the centrality of administration in constructions of the social world, the legitimation of popular labels such as leadership, the inexhaustible and inseparable grounding of administrative labour in time and space, and overcomes contemporary tensions of individualism, collectivism and structure agency to provide a productive rather than merely critical space to theorise educational leadership management and administration.

Handbook of Effective Inclusive Schools James McLeskey, Fred Spooner, Bob Algozzine, Nancy, L. Waldron, 2014-05-16 Over the last decade, the educational context for students with disabilities has significantly changed primarily as a result of mandates contained in NCLB and IDEA. The purpose of this book is to summarize the research literature regarding how students might be provided classrooms and schools that are both inclusive and effective. Inclusive schools are defined as places where students with disabilities are valued and active participants in academic and social activities and are given supports that help them succeed. Effectiveness is addressed within the current movement toward multi-tiered systems of support and evidence-based practices that meet the demands of high-stakes accountability.
