What Children Can Teach Adults About Mathematics Robert P Hunting, 2013-10-29 Ways adults think about mathematics and the ways children think about mathematics are not necessarily the same Listening observing and talking with children is necessary so that teachers parents and carers can figure out where they are coming from mathematically If children s mathematics encompasses their own meanings and understandings and those meanings and understandings may be different to mine then to provide effective assistance and support I must make every effort to see mathematics from their perspective In this book I highlight important aspects of children s beginning understandings of mathematics illustrated with examples taken from observations of children In Chapter 1 I discuss the origins of mathematics in infants with illustrations provided from three major strands of mathematics number space and measurement In Chapter 2 I give examples of different ways young children use fingers in their efforts to solve simple mathematical problems looking in detail at one child s behavior Chapter 3 focuses on a 4 year old s views about numbers There is a commonly held belief that before children start school they have not really thought about numbers that young children s mathematical minds are a blank slate Nothing could be further from the case In Chapter 4 I discuss the topic of counting focusing firstly on the spontaneous counting behavior of a 4 year old followed by interviews that further reveal how his knowledge of numbers and counting are related Chapter 5 further discusses how children learn about numbers in particular the various conceptions children have of the number 10 I explain the significance of part whole knowledge in children s numerical thinking in Chapter 6 with examples taken from preschool the 2nd grade and 5th grade Chapter 7 is about sharing its origins contexts when sharing arises types of sharing and the relationship between sharing and counting sharing and division and sharing as a platform for learning fractions In Chapter 8 I begin by discussing early geometric ideas including basic operations for moving items in two dimensions followed by three dimensional activities I discuss the key notion of conservation of quantity and conclude with comments about scale and distance Chapter 9 begins with the question What is measurement I discuss the issue of measurement error then sketch out a general development of measurement thinking Types of conservation are described as are unit systems Finally children s thinking in area situations including common misconceptions are discussed In Chapter 10 after a story showing how fractions can be introduced naturally I focus on the fraction knowledge of an 11 year old who responded to a range of tasks designed to tease out this child s conceptual understanding of fractions
