

Minor Chord Material

For this section, the student must select a line to master, practice it in the given key with the accompanying play along CD and then use the CD track that modulates upwards to master the line in all twelve keys. By combining minor chord lines with dominant seventh chord material, musicians will be able to mix and match common combinations of these lines to play over the ii-V-I progression. Because the major and minor ii-V-I are the most common chord progressions in jazz, it is crucial that students of jazz improvisation are fluent in writing over this progression in all twelve keys. Because horn players frequently play in Dotted Keys, the material presented in this section of the book is in the key of Bb.
