Essington Lewis I Am Work:

Essington Lewis, 1987 Essington Lewis, 1987 Performed at the Playhouse in 1987 starring Geoff Gibbs and directed by Aarne Neeme Essington Lewis John O'Donoghue, 1987 State Theatre Company Programs John O'Donoghue's

Essington Lewis, I Am Work John O'Donoghue, 1992 Men at Play Jonathan Bollen, Adrian Kiernander, Bruce Parr, 2008-01-01 How are masculinities enacted in Australian theatre How do Australian playwrights depict masculinities in the present and the past in the bush and on the beach in the city and in the suburbs How do Australian plays dramatise gender issues like father son relations romance and intimacy violence and bullying mateship and homosexuality race relations between men and men s experiences of war and migration Men at Play explores theatre s role in presenting and contesting images of masculinity in Australia It ranges from often produced plays of the 1950s to successful contemporary plays from Dick Diamond s Reedy River Ray Lawler s Summer of the Seventeenth Doll Richard Beynon s The Shifting Heart and Alan Seymour s The One Day of the Year to David Williamson s Sons of Cain Richard Barrett s The Heartbreak Kid Gordon Graham s The Boys and Nick Enright s Blackrock The book looks at plays as they are produced in the theatre and masculinity as it is enacted on the stage It is written in an accessible style for students and teachers in drama at university and senior high school The book s contribution to contemporary debates about masculinity will also interest scholars in gender race and sexuality studies literary studies and Australian history University Unlimited Graeme Davison, Kate

Murphy, 2012-05-01 From its beginnings Monash has been a university in a hurry Born on the suburban fringe of Melbourne it reached outwards rather than gazing inwards Over its five decades it embraced the challenges of the age of Sputnik became a hotbed of student radicalism then took an equally radical turn towards market capitalism to become Australia s largest and most international university with branches in Italy Malaysia and South Africa Its movers and shakers included visionary vice chancellor Louis Matheson biologist and stirrer Jock Marshall Australia s third woman professor Maureen Brunt historian Ian Turner student politicians Albert Langer and Peter Costello writers Don Watson and David Williamson IVF pioneer Carl Wood philosopher Peter Singer broadcaster Jon Faine buccaneering vice chancellor Mal Logan and his ill fated successor David Robinson The Monash story shows how universities have transformed Australia since the 1960s Based on extensive interviews with staff and students and heavily illustrated this is an engaging and candid portrait of a great Australian institution Feeling is the Thing that Happens in 1000th of a Second Christian Ryan, 2017-09-07

LONGLISTED FOR THE WILLIAM HILL SPORTS BOOK OF THE YEAR 2017 Exquisite Gideon Haigh Magical a head rush a marvel Rahul Bhattacharya Startlingly original Matthew Engel In 1975 Patrick Eagar took some photographs which were unlike any cricket photographs anyone had seen before It was the summer of an Ashes and a World Cup cricket s first a near last gasp summer before revolution when cricket was still a sport of helmetless faces and green fields with no advertising paint on them A clamour of rare glamour descended on England Thommo and D K baby cheeked Viv Richards careworn

David Steele lithe supercat Clive Lloyd the Chappell brothers Andy Roberts Tony Greig Doug Walters trails of cigarette smoke gusting in his wake From this raw material a thirty one year old with an expired Sports Illustrated subscription and a love of long lenses found something almost magical Eagar s pictures reveal that feeling is the thing that happens in 1000th of a second So this is a cricket book about photography and what it can do tell the future and show human beings in ways not available to our eyes It is part detective story and reconstruction of one of cricket s greatest summers part biography part wild roaming conversation part essay on the power of the image myth and reality It shows Christian Ryan as one of the most elegant and perceptive writers on sport today With seventy black and white and colour photographs by Patrick Eagar and other seminal photographers it is essential reading and looking for ardent fans and will exhilarate those who know nothing about cricket

The Gospel According to Paul Jonathan Biggins,2022-02-23 My fellow irrelevant Australians Never in the history of our democracy has Australian political life been in such a parlous state There are people living in this country who have never seen true political leadership having been governed in recent times by the dullest most sanctimonious hypocritical choir of patsies This book will give them a woefully overdue idea of what a real leader looks like Leadership is not like a can of Popeye s spinach you have to earn it And earn it I did And I am going to tell you how In The Gospel According to Paul writer and satirist Jonathan Biggins draws on his award winning play to harness the eviscerating wit wisdom and confidence of Keating showing us the evolution of Paul John Keating from Bankstown to the Lodge and beyond Almost the autobiography Keating said he would never write it is a timely reminder of the political leadership we are sorely missing

Australian Theatre after the New Wave Julian Meyrick,2017-09-25 In Australian Theatre after the New Wave Julian Meyrick charts the history of three ground breaking Australian theatre companies the Paris Theatre 1978 the Hunter Valley Theatre 1976 94 and Anthill Theatre 1980 94 In the years following the controversial dismissal of Gough Whitlam s Labor government in 1975 these alternative theatres struggled to survive in an increasingly adverse economic environment Drawing on interviews and archival sources including Australia Council files and correspondence the book examines the funding structures in which the companies operated and the impact of the cultural policies of the period It analyses the changing relationship between the artist and the State the rise of a managerial ethos of accountability and the growing dominance of government in the fate of the nation's theatre. In doing so it shows the historical roots of many of the problems facing Australian theatre today. This is an exceptionally timely book. In giving a history of Australian independent theatre it not only charts the amazing rise and strange disappearance of an energetic radical and dynamically democratic artistic movement but also tries to explain that rise and fall and how we should relate to it now. Prof Justin O'Connor, Monash University. This study makes a significant contribution to scholarship on Australian theatre and more broadly to the global discussion about the vexed relationship between artists' creativity, government funding for the arts and cultural policy. Dr Gillian Arrighi, The University of Newcastle, Australia. Theatre Australia (Un)limited Geoffrey Milne, 2021-12-28. Theatre Australia Unlimited tells a truly national story of the structures of post-war Australian theatre: its artists, companies, financial and policy underpinnings. It gives an inclusive analysis of three waves of Australian theatrical activity after 1953 and the types of organisations which grew up to support and maintain them. Subsidy, repertoire, patterns, finances and administration: theatre buildings, companies, festivals and notable productions of the commercial mainstream and alternative Australian theatre are examined state by state and changes to governmental policy analysed. Theatrical forms comprise not only spoken word drama but also music theatre, comedy theatre, restaurant, circus, puppetry, community theatre in several forms and new mixed media genres: physical theatre, circus, visual theatre and contemporary performance. Theatre Australia Unlimited is the first comprehensive overview of the fortunes of Australian theatre as a national enterprise, providing the industrial analysis of the three waves essential for the understanding of the New Wave and of contemporary drama. Fuss That Never Ended Deborah Gare, Geoffrey Bolton, Stuart Macintyre, Tom Stannage, 2013-04-18. It is time to reassess the work of Geoffrey Blainey and consider his role in Australian history, politics and public life. Geoffrey Blainey has steered Australian history into the nation's conversation. No one would dispute that he is a courageous public intellectual, a writer of rare grace and a master storyteller. And he has indeed provoked a rare fuss, both public and professional, with some of his comments on Asian immigration and Aboriginal land rights. Blainey has challenged the academic history profession not only with his ideas but also by his practice. A brilliant student, he looked set for Oxford but chose instead the austere west coast of Tasmania for his postgraduate research. For the next decade he earned a living with his pen. And instead of political history in the traditional academic mould, he wrote corporate histories that dispensed with footnotes. Always probing and speculative, Blainey has dislodged many of the keystones in our understandings of Australia's past. He was one of the first to write about the expansive social history of this land. Before 1788 he questioned whether Botany Bay was founded primarily as a convict colony; he argued that the Eureka uprising had economic rather than political causes; and he identified sport as a neglected key to the Australian character. His controversial views earned such newspaper headlines as 'Brave Man Set Upon by Thugs for Telling Truth'. In The Fuss That Never Ended, a lively and distinguished assembly of fellow historians of various ages, interests and political stances take a fresh look at Blainey's remarkable and sometimes controversial career. Class
