Gwynedo Railways:

Disturnell's New and Complete Railway and Steamship Guide, 1857      The Coming of the Railway David Gwyn, 2023-05-23 The first global history of the epic early days of the iron railway Railways in simple wooden or stone form have existed since prehistory But from the 1750s onward the introduction of iron rails led to a dramatic technological evolution one that would truly change the world In this rich new history David Gwyn tells the neglected story of the early iron railway from a global perspective Driven by a combination of ruthless enterprise brilliant experimenters and international cooperation railway construction began to expand across the world with astonishing rapidity From Britain to Australia Russia to America railways would bind together cities nations and entire continents Rail was a tool of industry and empire as well as eventually passenger transport and developments in technology occurred at breakneck speed even if the first locomotive in America could muster only 6 mph The Coming of the Railway explores these fascinating developments documenting the early railway's outsized social political and economic impact carving out the shape of the global economy as we know it today

Northern Rail Heritage Ken Powell, Geoffrey Body, 1983      Rebuilding the Welsh Highland Railway Peter Johnson, 2018-08-30 THE REVIVAL AND RESTORATION of the Welsh Highland Railway is one of the greatest heritage railway achievements of the 21st Century yet its success followed more than one hundred years of failure Supported by public loans its first incarnation combined the moribund North Wales Narrow Gauge Railways some of the abandoned works of the Portmadoc Beddgelert South Snowdon Railway and part of the horse worked Croesor Tramway Opened in 1923 it was closed in 1937 and the track was lifted in 1941 Serious talk of revival started in the 1960s but restoration did not start until 1997 with the neighbouring Ffestiniog Railway at the helm supported by generous donors and benefactors the Millennium Commission the Welsh Government and teams of enthusiastic volunteers Author Peter Johnson steers a course through the railways complicated pre history before describing the events including a court hearing three public inquiries and a great deal of controversy leading to the start of services between Caernarfon and Porthmadog in 2011 A postscript describes post completion developments      British Isles Railway Atlas Michael G. Ball, 1992      The Archaeology of an Early Railway System Stephen Hughes, 1990 The structures discovered on the Brecon Forest Tramroads illustrate the beginnings of modern railway practice This first detailed archaeological study of a railway illuminates parallels located elsewhere in Britain Developments that were to be of world importance Did iron railway bridges exist before George Stephenson This book shows that such bridges were built in south Wales thirty years before the construction of Stephenson's Gaunless Viaduct on the Stockton and Darlington Railway and explains where to see these bridges today Numerous stone viaducts bridges and causeways were built over gorges Monumental building detail existed years before the Euston Arch Even the foundations of American Industrial might were laid here Preface Introduction The Planning and Construction of the Railways The Use and Local Impact of the Railways The Engineering of the Lines Rolling Stock Buildings and Equipment The Railway Route

Bibliography and Abbreviations Appendices Early Railway Sites in Wales Index British railway enthusiasm Ian Carter, 2017-10-03 Now available in paperback this is the first academic book to study railway enthusiasts in Britain Far from a trivial topic the post war train spotting craze swept most boys and some girls into a passion for railways and for many ignited a lifetime's interest British railway enthusiasm traces this post war cohort and those which followed as they invigorated different sectors in the world of railway enthusiasm train spotting railway modelling collecting railway relics and then in response to the demise of main line steam traction Britain's now huge preserved railway industry Today this industry finds itself riven by tensions between preserving a loved past which ever fewer people can remember and earning money from tourist visitors The widespread and enduring significance of railway enthusiasm will ensure that this groundbreaking text remains a key work in transport studies and will appeal to enthusiasts as much as to students and scholars of transport and cultural history

Gwynedd's Lost Railways Alun Turner, 2003 The Lost Railways series expands into Wales with this comprehensive account of Gwynedd's railway and tramway networks It is hard to credit that there was a time when a train passenger could expect to travel from Porthmadog to Llandudno within an hour today the journey by road takes more than twice as long Apart from North Devon there is possibly nowhere else in Great Britain where you can travel so far without seeing a modern working railway line They may be gone except for some preserved lines such as the Welsh Highland Railway but fortunately much of the county's railways and engines were captured in their prime by many local and enthusiast photographers Fifty two of these rare period photographs are collected here with valuable statistics and historical accounts of each line Locations featured include the Aberglaslyn Pass Trawsfynydd Beddgelert Ynys Menai Bridge Treborth Port Dinorwic Dinas Junction Groeslon Penygroes Pant Glas Llangybi Chwilog Nantlle Cwm y Glo Llanberis Bala Junction Bala Arenig Cwm Prysor Trawsfynydd Lake Ffestiniog Blaenau Ffestiniog Felin Hen Bethesda Garneddwen Drws y Nant Penmaenpool Dolgellau Barmouth Dinas Mawddwy Cemaes Road Waenfawr Bettws Garmon Bryngwyn South Snowdon Nantmor Porthmadog Corris Machynlleth Aberllefenni Pontrhythallt and Pwllheli

Operation, 1921-2014 Peter Johnson,2017-10-30 Opened in 1836 as a horse tramway using gravity to carry slate from Blaenau Ffestiniog to Porthmadog by the 1920s the Festiniog Railway had left its years of technical innovation and high profits long behind After the First World War the railways path led inexorably to closure to passengers in 1939 and goods in 1946 After years of abandonment visionary enthusiasts found a way to take control of the railway and starting its restoration in 1955 Not only did they have to fight the undergrowth they also had to fight a state owned utility which had appropriated a part of the route All problems were eventually overcome and a 2 mile deviation saw services restored to Blaenau Ffestiniog in 1982 Along the way the railway found its old entrepreneurial magic building new steam locomotives and carriages and rebuilding the Welsh highland Railway to become a leading 21st century tourist attraction Historian Peter Johnson well known for his books on Welsh railways has delved into the archives and previously untapped sources to produce this new history a must read for enthusiasts and visitors alike The Festiniog Railways pre 1921 history is covered in Peter Johnsons book Festiniog Railway the Spooner era and after 1830 1920 also published by Pen Sword Transport     Special Event

Jane's World Railways ,1981     Friends' Weekly Intelligencer ,1899     Narrow Gauge in the Arras Sector Joan S. Farebrother,Martin J. B. Farebrother,2015-11-30 The Arras sector of the Western Front in World War I WW1 was held partly by the British and Dominions 1st Army from September 1915 and almost wholly by the 1st and 3rd Armies from March 1916 No less than in the Ypres sector to the north and the Somme sector to the south the struggles of the French and then British troops in this sector were pivotal to the outcome of the War The sector included countryside in the south but in the north a major part of the industrial and coal mining area of northern France around Lens and Bthune In this book the contribution of metre and 60 cm gauge railways to the Allied war effort in this sector is examined in the context of the history of the metre gauge lines already established The build up of light 60 cm gauge lines from 1916 is examined in detail area by area and the contribution of the related metre gauge lines is reassessed from British and French sources After the War the role of these railways in the reconstruction and recovery of this devastated region of France is described Later the surviving part of the 60 cm gauge network served the sugar beet industry east of Arras The history is followed through another World War to the closure of the last of these railways in 1957 The book refers to previous works on British War Department light railways in WW1 but contains sufficient general information for readers new to the subject It also describes how to find key locations now and how and where rolling stock can be seen Six walks and an urban tour are included for those who wish to explore the territory in greater depth Festiniog Railway: The Spooner Era and After, 1830-1920 Peter Johnson, 2017-04-30

Festiniog Railway 1836 2014 describes the history of the worlds first steam operated narrow gauge railway to carry passengers It covers the history of the railway from its beginnings as a horse worked tramroad in 1836 through its technical developments with the introduction of steam locomotives Fairlie articulated locomotives and bogie carriages through its twentieth century decline to closure in 1946 and then to the preservation era and its development as a major twenty first century tourist attraction Built to serve the extensive slate industry in the Ffestiniog area of North Wales by carrying slate from the quarries to the port at Porthmadog from 1865 the railway also operated a passenger service to serve the local community which also attracted tourists Closed in 1946 the railway was revived in stages from 1955 when a prolonged compensation claim was mounted against a major state owned company for land taken to build a power station Volunteers from all over the world came together to restore and operate this important piece of world industrial heritage including the construction of the 2 mile deviation needed to bypass the power station Services were resumed between Porthmadog and Blaenau Ffestiniog in 1982 The Festiniog Railway runs through some of the most beautiful countryside in North Wales with spectacular views of mountains and lakes The railway also has a very impressive collection of modern and historic motive power and rolling stock It is one of the most successful tourist attractions in Wales and is one of the most important industrial history sites in the world
