

"Through his creativeness and sensitivity Alurista has established a poetic legacy that mirrors the struggle and the hope of the Chicanos."

—Guillermo Rojas,
Chicano Literature

"... a polyphonic voice that is genuinely unique."

—Lector

A poet with a strong commitment to social problems, Alurista continues to explore racism and other forms of bigotry in Et Tú...Raza?, his newest collection of poetry. These poems are angry and full of energy; they call us to action. Like the poems of e.e. cummings, Alurista's work is at once simple and highly complex. He often begins a poem with a playful tone but then expands it to shed light on some of the most important issues of our time.

Alurista, recognized as one of the most significant Chicano poets, was born in 1947 in Mexico City and migrated to San Diego, California, when he was thirteen. He holds a Ph.D. in Spanish literature from the University of California, San Diego. Among his other collections of poetry are Floriscanto en Aztlán (1971), Spik in Glyph? (1981), Return: Poems Collected and New (1982), and Z Eros (1995). His work played a central role in the Chicano movement of the late 1960s and 1970s and continues to inspire new generations of artists and activists.
