Hallo Holland:

Netherlands Sarah E. De Capua, 2003 History Hallo Holland, 2002 From New Haven to Nineveh and Beyond Benjamin Foster, 2023-09-01 Over the course of three centuries Yale has been actively and seriously engaged in Near Eastern learning in both senses of the term training students in the knowledge and skills needed to understand the languages and civilizations of the region and supporting generations of scholars renowned for their erudition and pathbreaking research This book traces the history of these endeavors through extensive use of unpublished archival materials including letters diaries and records of institutional decisions Developments at Yale are set against the wider background of changing American attitudes toward the Near East as well as evolving ideas about the role of the academy and its curriculum in educating undergraduate and graduate students In the case of the Near East this also involves considering how several of its disciplines made the transition from biblically motivated enterprises to secular fields of study Yale has notable firsts to her credit the first American professional program in Arabic and Sanskrit the first American learned society and periodical devoted to Oriental subjects the first American research institutes in Jerusalem and Baghdad the first American university to have endowed funds to establish and curate one of the world s largest collections of cuneiform tablets and cylinder seals Yet at the same time especially over the past half century Yale has found it challenging to deal administratively with a small humanities department whose standards and philosophy of teaching and learning seemed increasingly at odds with trends in the university as a whole This book places these tensions in the context of Yale s responses to post World War 2 interest in the modern Middle East the rise of government supported area studies and the consequences of American military actions in Iraq and Afghanistan Numerous illustrations many of them previously unpublished and drawn from a wide range of source material round out the portrait of three centuries of Near Eastern learning at Yale Netherlands Tamara L. construction to home air conditioning optical technologies from photography to fingerprinting clothing and fashion and the introduction of radio and radio stations The text clusters around a group of fascinating recurring characters representing colonialism nationalism and the awkward inevitable presence of the European cultural intellectual and political avant garde Tillema the pharmacist author of Kromoblanda the explorer engineer IJzerman the Javanese princess Kartina the Indonesia nationalist journalist Mas Marco the Dutch novelist Couperus the Indonesian novelist Pramoedya Ananta Toer and Dutch left wing liberal Wim Wertheim and his wife In colonial Indies as elsewhere people employed what Proust called remembering and what Heidegger called thinging to sense and make sense of the world In using this observation to approach Indonesian society Mr zek captures that society off balance allowing us to see it in unfamiliar positions The result is a singular work with surprises for readers throughout the social sciences not least those interested in Southeast Asia or colonialism more broadly
