Green, 2012-11-12 This book differs from other introductions to pragmatics in approaching the problems of interpreting language use in terms of interpersonal modelling of beliefs and intentions It is intended to make issues involved in language understanding such as speech text and discourse accessible to the widest group possible not just specialists in linguistics or communication theorists but all scholars and researchers whose enterprises depend on having a useful model of how communicative agents understand utterances and expect their own utterances to be understood Based on feedback from readers over the past seven years explanations in every chapter have been improved and updated in this thoroughly revised version of the original text published in 1989 The most extensive revisions concern the relevance of technical notions of mutual and normal belief and the futility of using the notion null context to describe meaning In addition the discussion of implicature now includes an extended explication of Grice's Cooperative Principle which attempts to put it in the context of his theory of meaning and rationality and to preclude misinterpretations which it has suffered over the past 20 years The revised chapter exploits the notion of normal belief to improve the account of conversational implicature and intercultural studies      The Categorical Impulse Roy Ellen, 2008-03-01 Classification as an object of recent anthropological scrutiny came to prominence during the 1960s exemplified in the British constructionist tradition by the writings of Mary Douglas and in the American ethno semantics cognitive tradition by the likes of Harold Conklin and Brent Berlin At the time these approaches seemed by turns to contradict each other or even to exist in parallel universes However over the last 30 years we have witnessed both a renewed interest in classification studies as well as a cross fertilization of these once antagonistic approaches These essays by one of leading scholars in this field bring together a body of influential and inter linked work which attempts to bridge the divide between cultural and cognitive studies of classification and which develops a more embedded and processual approach In particular the essays focus on people s categorization of natural kinds as a means through which to obtain an understanding of how classifying behavior in general works engaging with the ideas of both anthropologists and psychologists The theoretical background is set out in an entirely new and substantial introduction which also provides a comprehensive and systematic review of developments in cognitive and social anthropology since 1960 as these have impacted on classification studies In short it constitutes a useful and approachable introduction to its subject      Living with Nature, Cherishing Language Justyna Olko, Cynthia Radding, 2023-12-07 This open access book explores the deep connections between environment language and cultural integrity with a focus on Indigenous peoples from early modern times to the present It illustrates the close integration of nature and culture through historical processes of environmental change in North Central and South America and the nurturing of local knowledge through ancestral languages and oral traditions This volume fills a unique space by bringing together the issues of environment language and cultural integrity in Latin American historical and cultural spheres It explores the reciprocal and necessary relations between language culture and environment how they can lead to sustainable practices how environmental knowledge and sustainable practices toward the environment are reflected in local languages local sources and local socio cultural practices The book combines interdisciplinary methods and initiates a dialogue among scientifically trained scholars and local communities to compare their perspectives on well being in remote and recent historical periods and it will be of interest to students and scholars in fields including sociolinguistics ethno history linguistic anthropology cultural studies and cultural anthropology environmental studies and Indigenous minority studies      Nature Across Cultures Helaine Selin, 2013-04-17 Nature Across Cultures Views of Nature and the Environment in Non Western Cultures consists of about 25 essays dealing with the environmental knowledge and beliefs of cultures outside of the United States and Europe In addition to articles surveying Islamic Chinese Native American Aboriginal Australian Indian Thai and Andean views of nature and the environment among others the book includes essays on Environmentalism and Images of the Other Traditional Ecological Knowledge Worldviews and Ecology Rethinking the Western non Western Divide and Landscape Nature and Culture The essays address the connections between nature and culture and relate the environmental practices to the

and Johns proposes that such plants can be eaten without harm owing to human genetic modification and cultural manipulation Drawing on additional fieldwork in Africa he considers the evolution of the human use of plants the ways in which humans obtain foods from among the myriad poisonous and unpalatable plants in the environment and the consequences of this history for understanding the basis of the human diet A natural corollary to his investigation is the origin of medicine since the properties of plants that make them unpalatable and toxic are the same properties that make them useful pharmacologically As our species has adapted to the use of plants plants have become an essential part of our internal ecology Recovering the ancient wisdom regarding our interaction with the environment preserves a fundamental part of our human heritage     Folklore Bibliography for 1973 Merle Edwin Simmons,1975     A Poetics Handbook Daniel Mario Abondolo,2001 Most books in English on poetics deal with abstract and theoretical issues with a few mostly English examples whereas this book focuses on the formal aiming to provide a concise systematic overview of the linguistic context of European poetics It is richly documented with concrete examples particularly from Hungarian and other languages and traditions of Europe     Semantics John Lyons,1977 This book which can be read independently deals with more specifically linguistic problems in semantics and contains substantial original material     Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),1993 First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70
