Hunting A Portrait:

Hunting Anne Holland, 2003 HUNTING A PORTRAIT is a deliberately non contentious look at this highly controversial sport Instead of delving into the ethics of this deeply ingrained part of rural life in Great Britain and Ireland Anne Holland portrays some of the hunting world s wonderful canine equine and human characters British settlement throughout the world has led to the sport s introduction to such nations as the United States Australia and New Zealand where it continues to thrive today In addition some of the most famous packs Beaufort Belvoir etc are linked with some of Britain s historic families and stately homes but equally famous are the likes of the Banwen Miners hunt in Wales Hunting has managed to cross all barriers of geography class and culture to the extent that hunting prints can be found hanging on the walls of homes everywhere Hunting is shown to be not only or primarily the preserve of the British aristocracy but an aspect of countryside that enfold people from all walks of life Hunting - a Portrait Hb Special Anne Holland, 2003-10 Hunting Troubles

Laura Beck, Maurice Saß, 2025-02-28 This volume examines the cultural history of European and North American hunting from the Middle Ages to the present day from the perspective of gender as well as animal studies It demonstrates that the hunting and killing of animals was and still is a highly codified activity that creates reinforces and sometimes undermines a variety of differences This construction and deconstruction of difference applies not only to the relationship between humanity and animality but also to the relationships between human agents with respect to their gender By applying a comprehensive and interdisciplinary approach this collection dissects the many ways in which hunting often classified as a typically male activity participates on the one hand in the naturalization of gender differences and related binary asymmetries but on the other can sometimes open up a space in which gender boundaries become unsettled and blurred More than any other activity the practice of hunting which is controversial at least in terms of animal ethics seems to lend itself to the negotiation of both what is perceived as human and what as animal and what is seen as masculine and what as feminine Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature Anna Lorraine Guthrie, 1905 An author subject index to selected general interest periodicals of reference value in libraries

Depicting the Dead Stine Birk, 2013-02-04 The present monograph takes its place in a now well established tradition of seeing sarcophagi as visual statements of deceased individuals that used allegories to plot lives and personal memories against mythological and other idealised narratives It focuses on Roman sarcophagi often referred to as stadtrömisch which reflects the fact that the field has traditionally been dominated by German scholars The aim of the book is twofold Firstly it is an exploration of how to read Roman sarcophagi which starts from those with portraits but which can contribute more broadly to the study of sarcophagi in general Secondly this book investigates gender values as represented through images and how to locate the individual in standardised iconography Picturing Dogs, Seeing Ourselves Ann-Janine Morey, 2014-08-29 Dogs are as ubiquitous in American culture as white picket fences and apple pie embracing all the meanings of wholesome domestic life family fidelity comfort protection nurturance and love as well as symbolizing some of the less palatable connotations of home and family including domination subservience and violence In Picturing Dogs Seeing Ourselves Ann Janine Morey presents a collection of antique photographs of dogs and their owners in order to investigate the meanings associated with the canine body Included are reproductions of 115 postcards cabinet cards and cartes de visite that feature dogs in family and childhood snapshots images of hunting posed studio portraits and many other settings between 1860 and 1950 These photographs offer poignant testimony to the American romance with dogs and show how the dog has become part of cultural expressions of race class and gender Animal studies scholars have long argued that our representation of animals in print and in the visual arts has a profound connection to our lived cultural identity Other books have documented the depiction of dogs in art and photography but few have reached beyond the subject's obvious appeal Picturing Dogs Seeing Ourselves draws on animal visual and literary studies to present an original and richly contextualized visual history of the relationship between Americans and their dogs Though the personal stories behind these everyday photographs may be lost to us their cultural significance is not

Portraiture and Politics in Revolutionary France Amy Freund, 2015-06-13 Portraiture and Politics in Revolutionary France challenges widely held assumptions about both the genre of portraiture and the political and cultural role of images in France at the beginning of the nineteenth century After 1789 portraiture came to dominate French visual culture because it addressed the central challenge of the Revolution how to turn subjects into citizens Revolutionary portraits allowed sitters and artists to appropriate the means of representation both aesthetic and political and articulate new forms of selfhood and citizenship often in astonishingly creative ways The triumph of revolutionary portraiture also marks a turning point in the history of art when seriousness of purpose and aesthetic ambition passed from the formulation of historical narratives to the depiction of contemporary individuals This shift had major consequences for the course of modern art production and its engagement with the political and the contingent

Materializing Gender in Eighteenth-Century Europe Heidi A. Strobel, 2017-07-05 Art history has enriched the study of material culture as a scholarly field This interdisciplinary volume enhances this literature through the contributors engagement with gender as the conceptual locus of analysis in terms of femininity masculinity and the spaces in between Collectively these essays by art historians and museum professionals argue for a more complex understanding of the relationship between objects and subjects in gendered terms The objects under consideration range from the quotidian to the exotic including beds guns fans needle paintings prints drawings mantillas almanacs reticules silver punch bowls and collage These material goods may have been intended to enforce and affirm gendered norms however as the essays demonstrate their use by subjects frequently put normative formations of gender into question revealing the impossibility of permanently fixing gender in relation to material goods concepts or bodies This book will appeal to art historians museum professionals women s and gender studies specialists students and all those interested in the history of objects in everyday life
