Landscape Architecture as Storytelling Bob Scarfo, 2022-11-30 This book introduces students practitioners and laypeople to a comfortable approach to learning landscape architectural design free of design jargon and derived from their existing knowledge A step by step process has readers consider their knowledge of language as metaphorically related to basic design and landscape design Through information delivery and questioning processes readers build on what they already know their tacit understanding of language as applied to problem solving and storytelling Everyone is a storyteller Taken one step at a time through a three tiered analogy of language basic design and landscape design readers learn the makeup and role of such design features as points lines planes volumes and sequential volumetric spaces that make up their worlds With that in a sense new world view and numerous questions and examples readers begin to see that they in fact daily read the environments in which they live work play raise families and grow old Once they realize how they read their surroundings they are helped to recognize that they can build narratives into their surroundings At that point the existence of authored landscape narratives finds readers understanding a design process that relies on the designer as author landscape as text and participant user as reader That process has the reader write a first or second person narrative visually interpret the written narrative into a storyboard and turn the storyboard into a final design the physical makeup of which is read by those who participate in it

Regenerative-Adaptive Design for Sustainable Development Phillip B. Roös, 2020-09-15 In this book the author tests a regenerative adaptive pattern language theory towards investigating the possibilities of a holistic integrated design and planning method for sustainable development that incorporates the principles of regenerative design as well as an adaptive pattern language that re-establishes our wholeness with nature and considers the vulnerabilities of a changing landscape The book examines an integral approach to contemporary theories of planning and design that explores the human nature relationship patterns in social and spatial interconnections between people and their natural environments The interconnectedness of human and natural systems is used to scaffold possible solutions to address key environmental and sustainability issues that specifically address the need for patterns of behaviour that acknowledge the duality of man and nature In 12 chapters the book presents a holistic regenerative adaptive pattern language that encapsulates how communities can better appreciate landscape change under future climate effects and acknowledges the importance to adapt to patterns of change of place and the environment and therefore inform the communities responses for sustainable development The application of the regenerative adaptive pattern language was tested along the Great Ocean Road region of the Victorian coast in Australia The concluding chapters argues that for human settlements and cities to be resilient and sustainable we must understand the interconnected patterns of human built environments and natural systems and how we function in a social spatial dimension with these The book is intended for practitioners and academic scholars with interest in sustainable development regenerative design pattern languages biophilia settlement planning and climate change adaptation

The Urban Forest in the Age of Urbanisation Samaneh Sadat Nickain, 2022-09-01 The Urban Forest in the Age of Urbanization seeks to reflect on the connotation of urban forestry in line with related emergent holistic theories Today much of the planet is urbanised and planners debate Planetary Urbanization economists discuss The Global City ecologists describe the planet's biodiversity hotspots and climate scientists warn of a global crisis We might think therefore that focusing on forestation approaches at the Urban and peri urban edge might be reductionist However if the city is everywhere and everything is a city if the urbanised world now is a chain of metropolitan areas connected by places and corridors of communication then what is not urban And above all which forests are not urban forests Starting from the dualism between city and forest and its evolution towards holism the book seeks to create a framework of dialectical approaches The case studies included analyse a wide range of urbanisation processes to review the practical approaches of urban forestry in line with the global crisis of the era of globalisation when climate change population growth implosions and explosions of urbanisation lack of arable land and food are unavoidable

Routledge Handbook of Landscape and Food Joshua Zeunert, Tim Waterman, 2018-02-02 Since the turn of the millennium there has been a burgeoning interest in and literature of both landscape studies and food studies Landscape describes places as relationships and processes Landscapes create people's identities and guide their actions and their preferences while at the same time are shaped by the actions and forces of people Food as currency medium and sustenance is a fundamental part of those landscape relationships This volume brings together over fifty contributors from around the world in forty profoundly interdisciplinary chapters Chapter authors represent an astonishing range of disciplines from agronomy anthropology archaeology conservation countryside management cultural studies ecology ethics geography heritage studies landscape architecture landscape management and planning literature urban design and architecture Both food studies and landscape studies defy comprehension from the perspective of a single discipline and thus such a range is both necessary and enriching The Routledge Handbook of Landscape and Food is intended as a first port of call for scholars and researchers seeking to undertake new work at the many intersections of landscape and food Each chapter provides an authoritative overview a broad range of pertinent readings and references and seeks to identify areas where new research is needed though these may also be identified in the many fertile areas in which subjects and chapters overlap within the book

Landscape and the Ideology of Nature in Exurbia K. Valentine

Cadieux, Laura Taylor, 2013-05-07 This book explores the role of the ideology of nature in producing urban and exurban sprawl It examines the ironies of residential development on the metropolitan fringe where the search for nature brings residents deeper into the world from which they are imagining their escape of Federal Express technologically mediated communications global supply chains and the anonymity of the global marketplace and where many of the central features of exurbia very low density residential land use monster homes and conversion of forested or rural land for housing contribute to the very problems that the social and environmental aesthetic of exurbia attempts to avoid The volume shows how this contradiction to live in the green landscape and to protect the green landscape from urbanization gets caught up and represented in the ideology of nature and how this ideology in turn constitutes and is constituted by the landscapes being urbanized

Youth Politics in Urban Asia Yi'En Cheng, Sonia Lam-Knott, 2021-07-12 Youth Politics in Urban Asia examines how young people's political actions in Asia are the product of their urban realities and at the same time appreciates that young people are striving to remake these urban spaces in a myriad of tangible and intangible ways The book explores the ways in which urban development and urban governance in Asia enable or constrain young people's citizenship aspirations and responses to a variety of socioeconomic and political issues in the region Informed by qualitative and ethnographic approaches featuring locales ranging from Pune to Shanghai the chapters broadly address three themes the variegated ways in which youth politics is constituted and has manifested in Asian cities the role of cities in shaping and mediating youth politics in Asia and whether it is possible to conceive of youth politics across urban Asia as diverse and specific but also structurally entangled In examining how young people's political performances and social actions are shaped by and conversely shape Asian urban spaces this collection advances a deeper understanding of the interplay of youth politics and urban environments It will be an essential text for scholars and students interested in young people s politics urban studies and social change in Asia The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Space and Polity
