Exploring the cultural "accents" of nonverbal communication

Language And Space

G. Liebscher,J. Dailey-O'Cain

Language And Space:

    Language and Space Peter Auer,Jürgen Erich Schmidt,2010 The dimensions of time and space fundamentally cause and shape the variability of all human language To reduce investigation of this insight to manageable proportions researchers have traditionally concentrated on the deepest dialects But it is increasingly apparent that although most people still speak with a distinct regional coloring the new mobility of speakers in recently industrialized and postindustrial societies and the efflorescence of communication technologies cannot be ignored This has given rise to a reconsideration of the relationship between geographical place and cultural space and the fundamental link between language and a spatially bounded territory Language and Space An International Handbook of Linguistic Variation seeks to take full account of these developments in a comprehensive theoretically rich way The introductory volume examines the concept of space and linguistic approaches to it the structure and dynamics of language spaces and relevant research methods A second volume offers the first thorough exploration of the interplay between linguistic investigation and cartography and subsequent volumes uniformly document the state of research into the spatial dimension of particular language groupings Key features comprehensive coverage of the field in terms of theory and methods the unique volume stands alone since it neither is a handbook of dialectology or of areal linguistics nor a handbook on language variation alone gathers together a great number of distinguished scholars and experts in the field   Pragmatics of Space Andreas H. Jucker,Heiko Hausendorf,2022-09-20 This handbook provides a comprehensive overview of spatial configurations of language use and of language use in space It consists of four parts The first part covers the various practices of describing space through language including spatial references in spoken interaction or in written texts the description of motion events as well as the creation of imaginative spaces in storytelling The second part surveys aspects of the spatial organization of face to face communication including not only spatial arrangements of small groups in interaction but also the spatial dimension of sign language and gestures The third part is devoted to the communicative resources of constructed spaces and the ways in which these facilitate and shape communication Part four finally is devoted to pragmatics across space and cultures i e the ways in which language use differs across language varieties languages and cultures   Space and Time in Languages and Cultures Luna Filipovi?,Kasia M. Jaszczolt,2012-07-24 This is an interdisciplinary volume that focuses on the central topic of the representation of events namely cross cultural differences in representing time and space as well as various aspects of the conceptualisation of space and time It brings together research on space and time from a variety of angles both theoretical and methodological Crossing boundaries between and among disciplines such as linguistics psychology philosophy or anthropology forms a creative platform in a bold attempt to reveal the complex interaction of language culture and cognition in the context of human communication and interaction The authors address the nature of spatial and temporal constructs from a number of perspectives such as cultural specificity in determining time intervals in an Amazonian culture distinct temporalities in a specific Mongolian hunter community Russian specific conceptualisation of temporal relations Seri and Yucatec frames of spatial reference memory of events in space and time and metaphorical meaning stemming from perception and spatial artefacts to name but a few themes The topic of space and time in language and culture is also represented from a different albeit related point of view in the sister volume Space and Time in Languages and Cultures Linguistic diversity HCP 36 which focuses on the language specific vis vis universal aspects of linguistic representation of spatial and temporal reference

Language, Space, and Social Relationships Giovanni Bennardo,2009-05-14 Discusses the relationship between language and the mental organisation of knowledge based on research carried out in Polynesia   The Spatial Foundations of Language and Cognition Kelly S. Mix,Linda B. Smith,Michael Gasser,2009-12-24 This book presents recent research on the role of space as a mechanism in language use and learning It proceeds from the notion that cognition in real time developmental time and over evolutionary time occurs in space and that the physical properties of space may provide insights into basic cognitive processes including memory attention action and perception It looks at how physical space and landmarks are used in cognitive representations and serve as the basis of human cognition in a range of core mechanisms to index memories and ground meanings that are not themselves explicitly about space The editors have brought together experimental psychologists computer scientists robotocists linguists and researchers in child language in order to consider the nature and applications of this research and in particular its implications for understanding the processes involved in language acquisition   Language, Space and Power Samina Hadi-Tabassum,2006-01-01 Language Space and Power describes the sociolinguistic and sociocultural life of a Spanish English dual language classroom in which attention is given to not only the language learning processes at hand but also to how race ethnicity and gender dynamics interact within the language acquisition process   Language, Space and Identity in Migration G. Liebscher,J. Dailey-O'Cain,2013-11-08 This book explores both theoretical and practical issues of language use in a migration context using data from a German urban immigrant community in Canada Through this transcontinental perspective the book makes a new contribution to the literature on both language and identity and language and globalization   Language, Space and Mind Paul Chilton,2014-07-10 A new approach to linguistic meaning and grammatical constructions based on simple geometric principles   An Adventure in English Language Space George Takahashi,2016-07-19 George Takahashis An Adventure in English Language Space A Key to the Mysteries of Prepositions goes beyond the basic dos and donts of English grammar into contextual space He defines dimensional relationships of words to their meanings and proper usage to help native and non native speakers of English grasp the layers of possibilities beneath the often ambiguous sound and sense method of approach to the English language He finds discrepancies between other authoritative dictionaries and puts as many myths to rest in tangible explanations of how the structure of language in and around prepositions can be straightforward and comprehensible Takahashis An Adventure in English Language Space is for everyone from scholars to anyone who is curious about the sense and meaning of English prepositions   Language, Space and Cultural Play Lionel Wee,Robbie B. H. Goh,2020 A multimodal approach to linguistic landscapes that analyses the affective regimes of different landscape categories   The Language of Space Edward T. (Edward Twitchell) Hall,1961   Functional Features in Language and Space Laura Carlson,Emile van der Zee,2004-12-16 The language and space area is a relatively new research area in cognitive science Studying how language and spatial representation are linked in the human brain mainly draws on research in existing disciplines focusing on language perception categorization and development Representative researchers from these sub disciplines of cognitive science discuss new insights in their own field of expertise and show what role their definition of function feature or functional feature plays in their research New research centred around these concepts is on the forefront of developments in these sub disciplines and in the area of Language and Space   Space, Time, and the Use of Language Thora Tenbrink,2007 Does temporal language depend on spatial language Many parallels between spatial and temporal expressions and many examples of metaphorical processes seem to prove this But how are expressions such as before and after in front and behind actually used in natural discourse does their application reflect a conceptual dependency relation The book addresses this question from an innovative perspective drawing together earlier findings from various directions and supplementing them by empirical investigations Gradually a new picture emerges The concepts of space and time are represented in language usage in various systematic ways reflecting how we understand the world and at the same time reflecting how our concepts of space and time differ fundamentally   Language and Space: Theories and methods Peter Auer,Jürgen Erich Schmidt,2010   Space as Language Will Hill,2023-08-24 This Element examines the function and significance of typographic space It considers in turn the space within letters the space between letters the space between lines and the margin space surrounding the text block to develop the hypothesis that viewed collectively these constitute a metalanguage complementary to the text Drawing upon critical perspectives from printing typeface design typography avant garde artistic practice and design history the Element examines the connotative values and philosophies embodied in the form and disposition of space These include the values attributed to symmetry and asymmetry the role of active space in the development of modernist typography the debated relationship between type and writing the divergent ideologies of the printing industry and the letter arts and the impact of successive technologies upon both the organisation and the perception of typographic space   CONFLUENCE OF LANGUAGE AND SPACE. ,2003   a U I, the language of space Wolfgang John Weilgart,1974   A Crosslinguistic Study of the Language of Space Engin Arik,2010 This book examines spatial language in sign languages Turkish Sign Language Croatian Sign Language American Sign Language and Austrian Sign Language and spoken languages Turkish English and Croatian The book presents a novel model the Crossmodal Spatial Language to account for similarities and differences in these languages The model which consists of Spatial Representations Reference Frames Temporal Representations Conceptual Structure and Linguistic Representations shows that the features from spatial input are not necessarily mapped on the spatial descriptions regardless of modality and language The book reports several studies to examine the descriptions of static and dynamic spatial scenes which involve among others spatial relationals such as left right front back besides in on to toward pass by away and cause to move The findings suggest that language users construct a spatial relation between the objects in a given time employ a reference frame which may not be encoded in the message and use the same conceptual structure consisted of BE AT for static spatial situations and GO BE AT for static dynamic situations   Space and Time in Languages and Cultures Luna Filipovi?,Kasia M. Jaszczolt,2012-07-24 This volume offers novel insights into linguistic diversity in the domains of spatial and temporal reference searching for uniformity amongst diversity A number of authors discuss expression of dynamic spatial relations cross linguistically in a vast range of typologically different languages such as Bezhta French Hinuq Italian Japanese Polish Serbian and Spanish among others The contributions on linguistic expression of time all shed new light on pertinent questions regarding this cognitive domain such as the hotly debated relationship between cross linguistic differences in talking about time and universal principles of utterance interpretation modelling temporal inference through aspectual interactions as well as the complexity of the acquisition of tense aspect relations in a second language The topic of space and time in language and culture is also represented from a different point of view in the sister volume Space and Time in Languages and Cultures Language culture and cognition HCP 37 which discusses spatial and temporal constructs in human language cognition and culture in order to come closer to a better understanding of the interaction between shared and individual characteristics of language and culture that shape the way people interact with each other and exchange information about the spatio temporal constructs that underlie their cognitive social and linguistic foundations   Language and Space Peter Auer,Jürgen Erich Schmidt,Alfred Lameli,2010 The dimensions of time and space fundamentally cause and shape the variability of all human language To reduce investigation of this insight to manageable proportions researchers have traditionally concentrated on the deepest dialects But it is increasingly apparent that although most people still speak with a distinct regional coloring the new mobility of speakers in recently industrialized and postindustrial societies and the efflorescence of communication technologies cannot be ignored This has given rise to a reconsideration of the relationship between geographical place and cultural space and the fundamental link between language and a spatially bounded territory Language and Space An International Handbook of Linguistic Variation seeks to take full account of these developments in a comprehensive theoretically rich way The introductory volume examines the concept of space and linguistic approaches to it the structure and dynamics of language spaces and relevant research methods A second volume offers the first thorough exploration of the interplay between linguistic investigation and cartography and subsequent volumes uniformly document the state of research into the spatial dimension of particular language groupings
