variable social standing using conversation Discourse is seen to be not only what people say but how they say it how speakers take the floor bring new topic to the floor interrupt each other and become a resource person in a conversation The study revolves around the idea that power while intricately tied to social standing and institutional status is more than the sum of one s institutional standing age education race and gender Though these factors convey rank conversants nonetheless use discourse to jockey for position and contest their relational role vis a vis their discourse partners While institutional standing may be more or less fixed power of relational roles fluctuates greatly because as the study shows power is accorded through a process of ratifying the positive self image of a speaker Thus one s standing in a group is a community negotiation By investigating power in community at a micro level of analysis this study adds a new dimension to existing understandings of power
