Fragments of Trauma and the Social Production of Suffering, Marilyn Charles, Michael O'Loughlin, 2014-11-05 Fragments of Trauma and the Social Production of Suffering Trauma History and Memory offers a kaleidoscope of perspectives that highlight the problem of traumatic memory

Because trauma fragments memory storytelling is impeded by what is unknowable and what is unspeakable Each of the contributors tackles the problem of narrativizing memory that is constructed from fragments that have been passed along the generations When trauma is cultural as well as personal it becomes even more invisible as each generation s attempts at coping push the pain further below the surface Consequently that pain becomes increasingly ineffable haunting succeeding generations In each story the contributors offer there emerges the theme of difference a difference that turns back on itself and makes an accusation Themes of knowing and unknowing show the terrible toll that trauma takes when there is no one with whom the trauma can be acknowledged and worked through In the face of utter lack of recognition what might be known together becomes hidden Our failure to speak to these unaspirated truths becomes a betrayal of self and also of others In the case of intergenerational and cultural trauma we betray not only our ancestors but also the future generations to come In the face of unacknowledged trauma this book reveals that we are confronted with the perennial choice of speaking or becoming complicit in our silence

The Rape of Childhood Salman Akhtar, 2018-10-15 The Rape of Childhood Development Clinical and Sociocultural Aspects of Childhood Sexual Abuse details the dark realm of childhood sexual abuse While lived experience memory subjectivity and affect cannot be classified into neat categories this collection is divided into four core sections epidemiology emotional sequelae psychoanalytic insight and ameliorative strategies to provide a thorough description of childhood abuse The contributors examine the variables that increase a child s vulnerability to maltreatment including age gender ethnicity and socioeconomic factors and outline the various emotional and behavioral consequences of childhood sexual abuse This collection is essential reading for therapists working to help formerly abused children to learn how to love be loved and care about themselves

Play and Playfulness Monisha Akhtar, 2011-01-17 While the psychodynamic understanding of play and play s therapeutic potential was long restricted to the realm of children Winnicott s work demonstrated the profound significance of the capacity to play for healthy mental functioning during adult life Scattered writings of Erikson Glenn and Shopper notwithstanding the early spark of understanding remained largely ill developed In Play and Playfulness the reader is offered an exciting and highly informative set of essays about the psychic area that lies between reality and unreality and between veracity and imagination It is the area of paradox and creativity It sustains the self allows for ego replenishing regressions and adds to the joy of the vital and lived experience This book provides an easy and readable passage to the valley of the transitional experience in which creative synthesis of reality and unreality leads to a world of vigor enthusiasm and liveliness The cultural variations and the clinical implications of such an experience are thoroughly elucidated The result is a volume replete with technical virtuosity clinical relevance and the basic and nearly self evident humane music of the day to day experience of life

I Am Large, I Contain Multitudes Katie Heffelfinger, 2011-02-15 Drawing on the insights of lyric poetic theory this book offers a fresh reading of Second Isaiah This approach advances an argument that the tensive and conflicted divine voice is primary unifying factor in the sequence of poems     Betrayal Salman Akhtar, 2018-05-01 Betrayal underlies all psychic trauma whether sexual abuse or profound neglect violence or treachery extramarital affair or embezzlement When we betray others we violate their confidence in us When others betray us they pierce the veil of our innocent reliance Betraying and feeling betrayed are ubiquitous to the scenarios of trauma and yet surprisingly neglected as a topic of specific attention by psychoanalysis This book fills this gap The first part deals with developmental aspects and notes that while the experience of betrayal might be ubiquitous in childhood its lack of recognition by the parents is what leads to fixation upon it Attention is also given to Oedipally indulged and seduced children who feel betrayed later in the course of their development Feelings of betrayal during early adolescence are also discussed This section of the book closes with an account of situations where our bodies betray us The realms of body image betrayal body self betrayal and the body's ultimate betrayal via physical death are addressed     The New Motherhoods Salman Akhtar, 2015-12-30 The New Motherhoods Patterns of Early Child Care in Contemporary Culture offers innovative perspectives in psychotherapy that accommodate emerging pathways to parenthood changing roles of mothers and evolving patterns of family structure Moms come in all shapes and sizes and psychoanalytic developmental theory could be modified to better embrace modern mothers and today's childcare practices In this volume distinguished clinical psychologists and psychoanalysts offer divergent conceptual perspectives on what shapes contemporary mothering including the increasing number of single mothers in our society the additional challenges faced by immigrating mothers how technology affects the parent child relationship and gender identity in families today Incorporating the most current research along with engaging clinical vignettes The New Motherhoods provides mental health professionals with an invaluable collection of insights into modern motherhood and its essential role in the care and healthy development of children

Before and After Violence Salman Akhtar, 2017-12-18 From childhood onwards humans use their environment's responses to construct models or schemata to link feelings and impulses with actions and effects If the environment during those formative years is unreliable frustrating or violating the construction of those internal models can be disrupted and create a disjointed perception of the world where violence is the only way to feel strong or good about oneself Before and After Violence explores the complex network of experiences and relationships that contribute to both the origins and consequences of violence starting in the early stages of life and compounding over time The contributors to this collection examine the different settings in which violence takes place look at the variables that propel its occurrence in local and global instances and depict how each can be traced back to profound feelings of betrayal helplessness and anger that manifest in the physical discharges of aggression towards a single person or a whole group Through a psychoanalytic lens the contributors analyze and explain violence in its many forms delve into its myriad of causes as well as offer a variety of solutions that can be applied to various instances of violence whether it be physical or mental self directed or other directed the Right to Forgiveness Court D. Lewis, 2018-09-15 Repentance and the Right to Forgiveness adds the voice of rights theory to contemporary discussions on forgiveness Rights have been excluded for two related reasons first forgiveness is often framed as a gift to wrongdoers and second rights suggest that victims are obligated in certain cases to forgive their wrongdoers Such an obligation is often considered repugnant for it unjustifiably wrongs i e victimizes victims while benefiting wrongdoers Repentance and the Right to Forgiveness overcomes this repugnancy by utilizing the moral theory of eirenism to craft a rights based theory of justice grounded in the inherent worth and intimate moral relationships between victims wrongdoers and their social community in order to show that the particular needs of victims make the obligation to forgive self beneficial while also promoting a peaceful state of just flourishing

The Janus-Face of Language: Where Are the Emotions in Words and the Words in Emotions? Cornelia Herbert, Thomas Ethofer, Andreas J. Fallgatter, Peter Walla, Georg Northoff, 2018-09-28 Language has long been considered independent from emotions In the last few years however research has accumulated empirical evidence against this theoretical belief of a purely cognitive based foundation of language In particular through research on emotional word processing it has been shown that processing of emotional words activates emotional brain structures elicits emotional facial expressions and modulates action tendencies of approach and avoidance probably in a similar manner as processing of non verbal emotional stimuli does In addition it has been shown that emotional content is already processed in the visual cortex in a facilitated manner which suggests that processing of emotional language content is able to circumvent in depth semantic analysis Yet this is only one side of the coin Very recent research putting words into context suggests that language may also construe emotions and that by studying word processing one can provide a window to one's own feelings All in all the empirical observations support the thesis of a close relationship between language and emotions at the level of word meaning as a specific evolutionary achievement of the human species As such this relationship seems to be different from the one between emotions and speech where emotional meaning is conveyed by nonverbal features of the voice But what does this relationship between written words and emotions theoretically imply for the processing of emotional information The present Research Topic and its related articles aim to provide answers to this question This book comprises several experimental studies investigating the brain structures and the time course of emotional word processing Included are studies examining the affective core dimensions underlying affective word processing and studies that show how these basic affective dimensions influence word processing in general as well as the interaction between words feelings and expressive behavior In addition new impetus comes from studies that on the one hand investigate how task sublexical and intrapersonal factors influence emotional word processing and on the other hand extend emotional word processing to the domains of social context and self related processing Finally future perspectives are outlined including research on emotion and language acquisition culture and multilingualism In summary this textbook offers scientists from different disciplines insight into the neurophysiological behavioral and subjective mechanisms underlying emotion and language interactions It gives new impulses to existing theories on the embodiment of language and emotion and provides new ways of looking at emotion cognition interactions      Developmental Psychopathology, Theory and Methods Dante Cicchetti, Donald J. Cohen, 1995-05 The first of two complementary volumes on developmental psychopathology a new perspective on mental illness that ties mental disorder to normal development Developmental psychopathology is sufficiently different from older views of mental dysfunction as to be growing as a separate subdiscipline of psychology psychiatry This volume covers the history theory and methods of this new approach including the contributions of several standard theoretical viewpoints psychoanalytic system theory organizational information processing cross cultural etc examines the relationship between developmental psychopathology and genetics neuropsychology epidemiology and ethology and looks at the implications for psychometric theory
