

INTERCULTURAL LEADERSHIP: CONTEMPORARY BUSINESS MANAGEMENT

Dostanić Lea¹

Abstract: Contemporary intercultural leadership has emerged as a critical area of study in the context of globalization and multiculturalism within organizations. The literature review synthesizes existing research on intercultural leadership, focusing on main aspects such as cultural competence, adaptability, effective communication, and cross-cultural collaboration. Results indicate that successful intercultural leaders demonstrate a combination of these skills to help them navigate cultural diversity and inclusivity within diverse teams. The paper aims to shed light on how a contemporary company, alongside its key characteristics, integrates diverse cultures and intercultural leadership, in relation to that research provides theoretical insight into the characteristics of contemporary leaders, with the aim of showing the essential qualities and skills required for a person to be recognized as an effective intercultural leader. Drawing on prior research, we aimed to demonstrate that within the realm of international business, leaders who actively embrace diversity are instrumental in fostering an environment conducive to the exchange of diverse perspectives and ideas. This, in turn, serves to cultivate innovation and creativity within their respective teams. Moreover, studies highlight the importance of continuous learning and development in enhancing intercultural leadership

Language Of Leadership In Contemporary France:

The Language of Leadership in Contemporary France Helen Drake, John Gaffney, 1996 Through a study of the discourse of selected French political leaders this book underlines the nature and scope of political leadership in contemporary France and the role of discourse in the leadership function

Political Leadership and the European Commission Presidency Henriette Müller, 2020 The EU's pluralistic nonhierarchical system of multilevel governance lacks clear structures of both government and opposition According to the EU treaties the presidency of the European Commission is thus not explicitly expected to exercise political leadership However the position cannot effectively be exercised without any demonstration of such leadership due to its many leadership functions Examining this curious mix of strong political demands weak institutional powers and need for political leadership this book systematically analyses the political leadership performance of the presidents of the European Commission throughout the process of European integration The basic argument is that Commission presidents matter not only in the process of European integration but that their impact varies according to how the different incumbents deal with the institutional structure and the situational circumstances and thus their available strategic choices The primary research question is thus What makes political leadership in European governance successful and to what extent and why do Commission presidents differ in their leadership performance In addressing this question this book departs from existing research on EU leadership which has to date often analysed either the EU's institutional structure and its potential for leadership or mainly focused on only the most recent incumbents in case study analyses Focusing on the multiterm European Commission presidents Walter Hallstein Jacques Delors and Jos Manuel Barroso this book conceptualizes their political leadership as a performance and thus systematically analyzes their agenda setting mediative institutional and public outreach performance over the entire course of their presidential terms

The Language of Political Leadership in Contemporary Britain John Gaffney, 1991-06-18 Analyses of leadership speeches by David Owen David Steel Neil Kinnock and Margaret Thatcher The author examines how the leader's conference speech reveals both the constraints upon and the possibilities for the national presentation of personalized political leadership in Britain

The Phraseology of Administrative French Wendy J. Anderson, 2016-08-01 The French administrative language of the European Union is an emerging discourse it is only fifty years old and has its origins in the French administrative register of the middle of the twentieth century but it is also a unique contact situation in which translation has always played a pivotal role Using the methodology of corpus linguistics and a specially compiled corpus of texts covering a range of genres this book describes the current discourse of EU French from the perspective of phraseology and collocational patterning and in particular in comparison with its French national counterpart Corpus methodology and an inclusive notion of phraseology embracing typical formulae locutions and patterning around keywords reveal subtleties and patterns which otherwise remain hidden and point to a discourse of EU French whose novel context of production has led it to be phraseologically conservative compared with the administrative French of France Jacques Delors Helen Drake,2002-09-11 Drawing on exclusive interviews with Jacques Delors himself this comprehensive accessibly written study of his life and Commission presidency is an invaluable resource for all those interested in European and French Politics Debunking populist images and myths about him this book presents a balanced examination of a widely misinterpreted political figure This book also raises important issues such as the role of individual leaders in contemporary politics the legitimacy of the European Union as a political system Studying Political Leadership Robert Elgie,2016-02-05 Why are some political leaders stronger than others How do we make sense of the interaction between the leader s personality and the context that the leader faces This book provides a unique way of approaching these questions identifying the very different philosophical foundations that underpin the contemporary study of political leadership Fascism, Populism and the French Fifth Republic Catherine Fieschi,2004-09-04 How can a nation associated with the Declaration of the Rights of Man serve as the context for a successful populist party of the far right This book explains how since the late 1950s French institutions have provided the Front National with ways in which to permeate national politics French Presidentialism and the Election of 1995 Lorna Milne,John Gaffney,2018-12-21 First published in 1997 this volume examines the presidential elections one of the central events of the democratic process in France and arguably the main organising principle of French politics since 1962 provide an opportunity to assess the development of the regime More significantly they allow us to asses modifications to the office of president and to French Presidentialism which are both reflected in an affected by the electoral campaign and the elections themselves This book provides such an assessment with specific reference to the candidates issues and events of the 1995 Presidential elections Legitimacy and the European Union Thomas Banchoff,Mitchell Smith,2005-08-12 Since the Maastricht ratification debate of the early 1990s the legitimacy of the European Union has become a subject of controversy With unprecedented force Europeans have begun to question the need for deeper integration Some fear threats to established national identities while others perceive the emergence of a distant but powerful Brussels beyond the reach of democratic control Legitimacy and the European Union breaks with established approaches to the problem of the legitimacy of the European Union by focusing on the recent trend towards reconceptualization of the EU not as a superstate or an organization of states but as a multi level contested polity without precedent The book examines the implications of this reconceptualization for the problem of legitimacy Individual chapters focus on policy areas institutions and identity politics Taken together they reach two main conclusions While Europeans do not strongly identify with the EU they increasingly recognize it as a framework for politics alongside existing national and subnational structures And while the EU lacks central democratic institutions the integration process has spawned significant informal and pluralist forms of representation Rethinking recognition and representation outside the context of the nation state points to important if little understood actual and potential sources of EU legitimacy France and European Integration Michel R. Gueldry,2001-05-30

Gueldry analyzes the substantive transformations brought upon the French state by European integration through an incremental and cumulative process generally described as Europeanization. This restructuring is characterized by the erosion of traditional political and economic parameters, the emergence of new means and models of public action, and a general paradigmatic redefinition including a search for renewed political legitimacy by French elite. Covering the period from 1957 to the present, Gueldry examines how regional integration affects French governmental structures, public policies, political processes, and culture. He emphasizes the post Single European Act (February 1986) period because of the accelerating momentum of the integration process after this milestone treaty. Students, scholars, and policy makers involved with EU history, institutions, and policies will be particularly interested in the work. Women, Europe and the New Languages of Politics Hilary Footitt, 2016-10-06. This book contributes to the debates around the presence and activity of women in politics as well as the part which language plays in shaping and developing political activity. Footitt argues that in a world of shifting roots and multiple identities, the stories we tell, the ways in which we understand the relationships between us and the communities we imagine ourselves belonging to, are of ever increasing political importance. At the centre of the study are the women from 12 European Union countries who participate in the transnational political site of the European Parliament. Using interviews with female Members of the European Parliament from the late 90s and early 00s and a close textual study of speeches in the European Parliament, Hilary Footitt argues that women have created a language of politics that transcends nationalities and political parties and contributes to engendering democracy, defining citizenship, and imagining the community of Europe. Politics, she argues, is multilingual, and an understanding of the varieties of vocabularies and grammars that are potentially available to us may help us to create a more inclusive and dynamic political process.

The Language of Leadership Narratives Jonathan Clifton, Stephanie Schnurr, Dorien Van De Mierop, 2019-11-22. Fascination with leadership and its relation to world events seems to be ever growing, and leadership narratives are a key element through which leader identities are constructed. Contemporary research into leadership tends to recycle the same old myths of the heroic white male leader. By looking at stories told by leaders in Australasia, Asia, North America, the Middle East, and Africa, this book explores different aspects of leadership narratives. The Language of Leadership Narratives brings linguistics and leadership research together, showcasing different analytical and methodological approaches and enabling a more critical approach. Each chapter focuses on a specific area of leadership research, from dark leadership to gendered leadership. This book introduces the advantages of analysing leadership narratives as social practice and discusses some of the main themes in contemporary leadership research. This volume is key reading for scholars and students of linguistics, communication studies, and business studies, and for those working in business and intercultural communication in the workplace. Language, Literature, and Identity Kizitus Mpoche, Tenu Mbuh, 2006. Neo-nationalism in Europe and Beyond André Gingrich, Marcus Banks, 2006. Prompted by the near simultaneous rise to political influence of more than a dozen apparently similar parties across Western Europe this collection offers a range of European case studies with selected global examples such as the Front National the late Pim Fortuyn and India and the BJP

Political Parties and the European Union John Gaffney, 2002-09-11 Political Parties and the European Union offers a panoramic survey of the political parties of contemporary Europe It covers party politics from Scandinavia to Greece focusing on how parties in the individual member states have responded to the processes of European integration Despite a trend towards political convergence national traditions continue to shape politics across Europe In order to reflect and do justice to the diversity of political cultures the book combines case studies comparative approaches and supranational perspectives It examines the history of the main national parties offers new comparative perspectives on communist green and extreme right parties and analyses party politics at the European level

Structures of Power in Modern France G. Raymond, 1999-10-11 Traditionally France has been viewed as host to a unique set of tensions between the centre and the periphery dating back to the Revolution and beyond which has shaped its structures of power and marked its evolution as a modern society This survey provides a fresh overview of those tensions between a centralising state and the constituencies challenging it and asks whether that model can remain viable or whether it is not in fact undergoing a process of profound change

French Today Carol Sanders, 1993-04-08 French Today is a profile of the French language in its social context British and French linguists examine trends in French throughout the French speaking world and address issues around prescriptivism gender and language and regional languages and dialects The collection includes overviews of work done in particular areas and deeper analyses of sociolinguistic questions One theme is how to represent and interpret data relating to language varieties that have been marginalised Another concerns the ways in which French is adapting to the future whether as a language of new technology or as a vehicular language on the continent All chapters of this book are in English with examples and quotations in French and a mixture of references given in both languages At the end of each chapter there are also texts in French serving as illustration and as pointers to further reading
