Hunting Apes By Stanford:

The Hunting Apes Craig B. Stanford, 2001-02-25 Stanford examines great ape behavior and hunter gatherer societies to support his hypothesis that the hunting eating and sharing of meat drove human evolution The Hunting Apes Craig Britton Stanford, Stanford, Craig Britton Stanford, 1999 Argues that the desire for meat and the eating hunting and sharing of meat spurred the expansion of human brain size that led to the success of the human species and describes the continuing social impact of the sharing of meat Early Hominin Paleoecology Matt Sponheimer, Julia A. Lee-Thorp, Kaye E. Reed, Peter Ungar, 2013-05-15 An introduction to the multidisciplinary field of hominin paleoecology for advanced undergraduate students and beginning graduate students Early Hominin Paleoecology offers an up to date review of the relevant literature exploring new research and synthesizing old and new ideas Recent advances in the field and the laboratory are not only improving our understanding of human evolution but are also transforming it Given the increasing specialization of the individual fields of study in hominin paleontology communicating research results and data is difficult especially to a broad audience of graduate students advanced undergraduates and the interested public Early Hominin Paleoecology provides a good working knowledge of the subject while also presenting a solid grounding in the sundry ways this knowledge has been constructed The book is divided into three sections climate and environment with a particular focus on the latter adaptation and behavior and modern analogs and models and features contributors from various fields of study including archaeology primatology paleoclimatology sedimentology and geochemistry Early Hominin Paleoecology is an accessible introduction into this fascinating and ever evolving field and will be essential to any student interested in pursuing research in human paleoecology Additional Contributors David Braun Beth Christensen David J Daegling Crag Feibel Fred E Grine Clifford Jolly Naomi E Levin Mark A Maslin John Mitani Jay Quade Amy L Rector Jeanne Sept Lillian M Spencer Mark Teaford Carol V Ward Katy E Wilson The Return of Science Philip Pomper, David Gary Shaw, 2002 In this collection of essays historians discuss the applications of evolutionary theory to cultural social economic and political phenomena William H McNeill presents a magisterial statement about the convergence of the sciences toward an evolutionary worldview Several contributors offer support for this thesis Anthropologist Donald Brown and archaeologist Albert Naccache bring together the realms of biology and culture in examinations of evolved human features and modes of evolution Demographer Noel Bonneuil and neuroscientist Alonso Pena apply mathematics to historical evolutionary processes such as the decision making of human agents and cultural diffusion Eating Apes Dale Peterson, 2003 Annotation As Jane Goodall never fails to mention bush meat is the greatest conservation crisis in my lifetime This book documents in text and photographs how wild animals in the Congo Basin particularly the Great Apes but also chimpanzees bonobos and gorillas are slaughtered and used for human consumption All Apes Great and Small Biruté M.F. Galdikas, Nancy Erickson Briggs, Lori K. Sheeran, Gary L. Shapiro, Jane Goodall, 2006-04-11 Many of the papers in this volume were first presented at the Third International Great

Apes of the World Conference held July 3-6 1998 in Kuching Sarawak Malaysia The editors of this volume the first in a two volume series are world renowned having dedicated most of their lives to the study of great apes The world's premiere primatologists ethologists and anthropologists present the most recent research on both captive and free ranging African great apes These scientists through deep personal commitment and sacrifice have expanded their knowledge of chimpanzees bonobos and gorillas With forests disappearing many of these studies will never be duplicated This volume and all in the Developments in Primatology book series aim to broaden and deepen the understanding of this valuable cause

How War Began Keith F. Otterbein, 2004 Have humans always fought and killed each other or did they peacefully coexist until organized states developed Is war an expression of human nature or an artifact of civilization Questions about the origins and inherent motivations of warfare have long engaged philosophers ethicists and anthropologists as they speculate on the nature of human existence In How War Began author Keith F. Otterbein draws on primate behavior research archaeological research and data gathered from the Human Relations Area Files to argue for two separate origins He identifies two types of military organization one that developed two million years ago at the dawn of humankind wherever groups of hunters met and a second that developed some five thousand years ago in four identifiable regions when the first states arose and proceeded to embark upon military conquests In careful detail Otterbein marshals evidence for his case that warfare was possible and likely among early Homo sapiens He argues from comparison with other primates from Paleolithic rock art depicting wounded humans and from rare skeletal remains embedded with weapon points to conclude that warfare existed and reached a peak in big game hunting societies As the big game disappeared so did warfare only to reemerge once agricultural societies achieved a degree of political complexity that allowed the development of professional military organizations Otterbein concludes his survey with an analysis of how despotism in both ancient and modern states spawns warfare A definitive resource for anthropologists social scientists and historians How War Began is written for all who are interested in warfare whether they be military buffs or those seeking to understand the past and the present of humankind Publisher Evolutionary Communication James Lull, 2019-11-28 Evolutionary Communication presents the first comprehensive evolutionary approach to the study of human communication Presuming no specialized knowledge of evolutionary theory this reader friendly textbook explains why and how communication became the determining factor in human development Drawing from the latest scientific research Evolutionary Communication represents a truly groundbreaking contribution to Communication Studies as a field of study Opening up an inspiring new approach for teaching communication the book can be used as a core volume or supplemental text for courses ranging from Introduction to Communication and Communication Theory to special topics and graduate seminars Origins of Language Sverker Johansson, 2005-01-01 Sverker Johansson has written an unusual book on language origins with its emphasis on empirical evidence rather than theory building This is a book for the student or researcher who prefers solid data and well supported conclusions over speculative scenarios Much that has been written on the origins of language is characterized by hypothesizing largely unconstrained by evidence But empirical data do exist and the purpose of this book is to integrate and review the available evidence from all relevant disciplines not only linguistics but also e g neurology primatology paleoanthropology and evolutionary biology The evidence is then used to constrain the multitude of scenarios for language origins demonstrating that many popular hypotheses are untenable Among the issues covered 1 Human evolutionary history 2 Anatomical prerequisites for language 3 Animal communication and ape language 4 Mind and language 5 The role of gesture 6 Innateness 7 Selective advantage of language 8 Proto language

Topographic Psychology Charles Raymond Snow, 2023-01-22 Contemporary psychology believes that there exists an entity called the mind whose task is to deliberately control the body This entity is said to inhabit a dimension that is separate from the physical reality that is occupied by the brain Were this to be true then it might be possible for the mind to survive the death of its owner and be imported into another biological or mechanical body or be elevated into some metaphysical plane Topographic psychology dispenses with the concept of the mind Instead it asserts that the brain is a biological machine that uses an internal world model to transform sensation into movement This idea renders superfluous the concept of mindedness and enables human and animal behavior to be calibrated against evolution A world model largely consists of topographic maps Among these are a map of the proprietary territory of the brain's owner and a map of the owner's bones and muscles Although the territory exists in the outside world while the organs exist in the internal world of the body to the brain both maps represent pieces of the same reality Inhabiting the model's central axis is a neural artifact called the self object which serves within the owner's thinking as a proxy for the owner A transition from sensing to moving is called a decision Decisions that are made in the brain are facilitated by neural artifacts which are derived from sensory input that reside within the world model There are two fundamental kinds of artifacts objects and connections from which larger neural structures are assembled These include effectors which represent unitary actions by one party transactions which represent reciprocal actions between two parties polygon stacks which represent analogies inferences and stories a special polygon stack that represents the owner's autobiography pyramids which represent referents in the outside world and a special pyramid that represents the self object In order to promote its owner's survival a world model reacts to events in the external world by cycling the body between three physiological states There are three such states violence sex and work each of which reconfigures the body so that it can optimally respond to a threat or opportunity

The Humans Who Went Extinct Clive Finlayson, 2010-11-11 Originally published in hardcover Oxford New York Oxford University Press 2009

What It Means to Be 98% Chimpanzee Jonathan Marks, 2003-11-01 Marks presents the field of molecular anthropology a synthesis of the holistic approach of anthropology with the reductive approach of molecular genetics as a way of improving our understanding of the science of human evolution This iconoclastic witty and extremely readable book illuminates the deep background of our place in nature and asks us to think critically about what science is and what passes for it in modern society      Maps of Time David Christian, 2011-09 Introducing a novel perspective on the study of history David Christian views the interaction of the natural world with the more recent arrivals in flora fauna including human beings      The Animals of Spain Abel Alves, 2011-07-14 An overlooked area in the burgeoning field of animal studies is explored the way nonhuman animals in the early modern Spanish empire were valued companions as well as economic resources Montaigne was not alone in his appreciation of animal life      Titans of the Forests Gregory V. Short, 2020-10-06 Instead of dwelling on the biological physiological or even the genetic aspects of our evolution Titans of the Forests takes a completely different approach which could be referred to as the uncharted and neglected field of macroevolution Uniquely captivating controversial and very readable it is the author's contention that we as a species were continuously forced to change our way of obtaining nourishment or rather our various economies in order to adapt to the ever changing world And as a result of this economic adaptation our species would then and only then begin to slowly change into the modern humans of today For much too long the world's scientific community has directed the discussion of our incredible evolution As a matter of fact our species biological physiological psychological and cultural evolution has been instigated propelled and shaped by our economic adaptation to a fluctuating environment In a very real sense the scientists are so far into the trees that they have actually ignored the forest Consequently we teach human evolution as a hodgepodge of different theories within the realm of microevolution thus failing to understand or even to recognize the economic thread that binds them altogether By integrating the timeline of our prehistoric past with that of our earliest known economies food gathering scavenging and nomadism the author was able to synthesize a sequence of events that illustrates the economic basis of our remarkable ascension and the beginnings of our present day institutions He not only reveals the genesis behind the cultural forces that exist within every human society but for the first time he has created a systematic and holistic approach in explaining the how and the why we have economically physiologically and then culturally evolved For unlike the rest of the animal kingdom we have possessed the extraordinary ability to change our economy which has made us an extremely adaptable species      Lost Kingdom: Animal Death in the Anthropocene Wendy A. Wiseman, Burak Kesgin, 2024-03-12 The authors in Lost Kingdom grapple with both the catastrophe of mass animal extinction in which the panoply of earthly life is in the accelerating process of disappearing and with the mass death of industrial animal agriculture Both forms of anthropogenic violence against animals cast the Anthropocene as an era of criminality and loss driven by boundless human exceptionalism forcing a reckoning with and an urgent reimagining of human animal relations Without the sleights of hand that would lump humanity into a singular Anthropos of the Anthropocene the authors recognize the differential nature of human impacts on animal life and the biosphere as a whole while affirming the complexity of animal worlds and their profound imbrications in human cultures societies and industries Confronting the reality of the Sixth Mass Extinction and mass animal death requires forms of narrativity that draw on traditional genres and disciplines while signaling a radical break with modern temporalities and norms Chapters in this volume reflect this challenge while embodying the interdisciplinary nature of inquiry into non human animality at the edge of the abyss historiography cultural anthropology post colonial studies literary criticism critical animal studies ethics religious studies Anthropocene studies and extinction studies entwine to illuminate what is arguably the greatest crisis for all creatures in the past 65 million years The Biology of Human Longevity Caleb E. Finch,2010-07-28 Written by Caleb Finch one of the leading scientists of our time The Biology of Human Longevity Inflammation Nutrition and Aging in the Evolution of Lifespans synthesizes several decades of top research on the topic of human aging and longevity particularly on the recent theories of inflammation and its effects on human health The book expands a number of existing major theories including the Barker theory of fetal origins of adult disease to consider the role of inflammation and Harmon s free radical theory of aging to include inflammatory damage Future increases in lifespan are challenged by the obesity epidemic and spreading global infections which may reverse the gains made in lowering inflammatory exposure This timely and topical book will be of interest to anyone studying aging from any scientific angle Author Caleb Finch is a highly influential and respected scientist ranked in the top half of the 1% most cited scientists Provides a novel synthesis of existing ideas about the biology of longevity and aging Incorporates important research findings from several disciplines including Gerontology Genomics Neuroscience Immunology Nutrition Interpreting and Explaining Transcendence Robert A. Yelle,Jenny Ponzio,2021-09-07

In this volume an interdisciplinary group of scholars uses history sociology anthropology and semiotics to approach Transcendence as a human phenomenon and shows the unavoidability of thinking with and through the Beyond Religious experience has often been defined as an encounter with a transcendent God Yet humans arguably have always tried to get outside or beyond themselves and society The drive to exceed some limit or condition of finitude is an eduring aspect of culture even in a disenchanted society that may have cut off most paths of access to the Beyond The contributors to this volume demonstrate the humanity of Transcendence in various ways as an effort to get beyond our crass physical materiality as spiritual entrepreneurship as the ecstasy of rituals of possession and as a literary aesthetic and semiotic event These efforts build from a shared conviction that Transcendence is thoroughly human and accordingly avoid purely confessional and parochial approaches while taking seriously the various claims and behavioral expressions of traditions in which Transcendence has been understood in theological terms

Brain and Longevity Caleb E. Finch,Jean-Marie Robine,2013-12-21 In this third volume on longevity Fondation Ipsen has again collected the most recent results in research on genes and diet in the evolution of human longevity educational level and longevity cognitive impairment and survival at older age and other contributions The preponderance of relatively short compared to long lived organisms suggests that morphogenesis is easier to accomplish than is maintenace of soma whereas the broad range of longevities of organisms demonstrates that maintaining soma for extended periods of time is possible The underlying assumption of disposable soma theory of aging is that the expense of maintaining somatic cells depends on their contribution to the welfare of the germ cells

The Routledge Companion to Animal-Human History Hilda Kean, Philip Howell, 2018-09-03 The Routledge Companion to Animal Human History provides an up to date guide for the historian working within the growing field of animal human history Giving a sense of the diversity and interdisciplinary nature of the field cutting edge contributions explore the practices of and challenges posed by historical studies of animals and animal human relationships Divided into three parts the Companion takes both a theoretical and practical approach to a field that is emerging as a prominent area of study Animals and the Practice of History considers established practices of history such as political history public history and cultural memory and how animal human history can contribute to them Problems and Paradigms identifies key historiographical issues to the field with contributors considering the challenges posed by topics such as agency literature art and emotional attachment The final section Themes and Provocations looks at larger themes within the history of animal human relationships in more depth with contributions covering topics that include breeding war hunting and eating As it is increasingly recognised that nonhuman actors have contributed to the making of history The Routledge Companion to Animal Human History provides a timely and important contribution to the scholarship on animal human history and surrounding debates
