Many of the foremost authors of the period were profoundly influenced by this rapid rise of Buddhism among them some of the best known names in the German Jewish canon. Sebastian Musch excavates this neglected dimension of German Jewish identity drawing on philosophical treatises novels essays diaries and letters to trace the history of Jewish Buddhist encounters up to the start of the Second World War. Franz Rosenzweig Martin Buber Leo Baeck Theodor Lessing Jakob Wassermann Walter Hasenclever and Lion Feuchtwanger are featured alongside other lesser known figures like Paul Cohen Portheim and Walter Tausk. As Musch shows when these thinkers wrote about Buddhism they were also negotiating their own Jewishness      Dao Companion to the Philosophy of the Zhuangzi Kim-chong Chong,2022-09-21 This comprehensive collection brings out the rich and deep philosophical resources of the Zhuangzi. It covers textual linguistic hermeneutical ethical social political and philosophical issues with the latter including epistemological metaphysical phenomenological and cross cultural Chinese and Western aspects. The volume starts out with the textual history of the Zhuangzi and then examines how language is used in the text. It explores this unique characteristic of the Zhuangzi in terms of its metaphorical forms its use of humour in deriding and parodying the Confucians and paradoxically making Confucius the spokesman for Zhuangzi's own point of view. The volume discusses questions such as Why does Zhuangzi use language in this way and how does it work Why does he not use straightforward propositional language Why is language said to be inadequate to capture the dao and what is the nature of this dao. The volume puts Zhuangzi in the philosophical context of his times and discusses how he relates to other philosophers such as Laozi Xunzi and the Logicians      A Year with Martin Buber Dennis S. Nelson, 2017-08-24 Presenting a comprehensive portrayal of the reading of Chinese and Buddhist philosophy in early twentieth century German thought Chinese and Buddhist Philosophy in Early Twentieth Century German Thought examines the implications of these readings for contemporary issues in comparative and intercultural philosophy Through a series of case studies from the late 19th century and early 20th century Eric Nelson focuses on the reception and uses of Confucianism Daoism and Buddhism in German philosophy covering figures as diverse as Buber Heidegger and Misch He argues that the growing intertextuality between traditions cannot be appropriately interpreted through notions of exclusive identities closed horizons or unitary traditions Providing an account of the context motivations and hermeneutical strategies of early twentieth century European thinkers interpretation of Asian philosophy Nelson also throws new light on the question of the relation between Heidegger and Asian philosophy Reflecting the growing interest in the possibility of intercultural and global philosophy Chinese and Buddhist Philosophy in Early Twentieth Century German Thought opens up the possibility of a more inclusive intercultural conception of philosophy

Cultivating Perfection Louis Komjathy, 2007-09-30 This important work focuses on early Quanzhen Complete Perfection Daoism a twelfth century Daoist religious movement and subsequent monastic order Emphasis in this first study to approach Quanzhen from a comparative religious studies perspective is placed on the complex interplay among views of self specific training regimens and the types of experiences that were expected to follow from dedicated praxis On the basis of historical contextualization and textual analysis it is demonstrated that in its formative and incipient organized phases Quanzhen was a Daoist religious community consisting of a few renunciants dedicated to religious praxis The study proper is followed by a complete annotated translation of a text attributed to the founder which represents one of only two early Quanzhen texts translated to date Subsequent appendices address issues of dating and contents of the early textual corpus as well as technical Quanzhen religious terminology

Search for Meaning David Birnbaum, Martin S. Cohen, The Book of Deuteronomy depicts Moses addressing Israel before his own death as he imagines that some day in the future children will ask their parents to explain the meaning of the testimonies, statutes and judgments Deuteronomy 6:20 that are the foundation of the covenant that binds Israel to its God. He thus frames in specifically Jewish terms the same set of haunting intimations that all thoughtful people bring to the contemplation of their own lives and indeed to life itself: the sense that being alive can or should mean more than merely not being dead; that the contemplation of even the most banal features of daily life can yield rich insight about the nature of existence and the feeling that life itself can be understood as a kind of scrim that might allow us to see through it to the secrets and mysteries that lie beyond. That set of hopeful suppositions inspires moderns just as strongly and enticingly as it did the ancients. Yet the specific question of what it actually means for this or that part of life to mean anything at all other than what it overtly is or at least appears to be does not seem to have exerted anywhere near as siren a call on our ancient forebears as it does on us moderns. Still as we seek meaning in the world and in our lives it behooves us to ponder the meaning of meaning as well. These twin notions that life has meaning beyond what the casual observer can see easily and that the effort to uncover and decipher that meaning can be profound enough to be spiritually transformational have animated the contributors to this volume as their work demonstrates just how meaningful the search for meaning can be. Some have approached this from a spiritual point of view grounding themselves in traditional biblical, talmudic or mystical sources. Others have framed their efforts in political terms or in deeply personal ones. And still others have attempted to consider the issue through the lens of modern philosophical inquiry. But regardless of the specific perspective of any individual author, all have in common the deep seated conviction that life bears meaning and that that meaning can best be discovered not by spending a lifetime hoping for momentary satori but rather by standing on the shoulders of fellow travelers from earlier eras and from that slightly elevated vantage point seeing just a bit further than they could or did. For almost all of our authors then the search for meaning is best understood as an ongoing intergenerational effort that links the seekers of all ages to each other through the contemplation of earlier efforts to mine profundity and significance from the quarry of human life itself. It is at best a slow march forward. As readers will see from the Table of Contents, the ancient Book of Kohelet has served several of our authors as the framework for their interpretive work. Kohelet is the Hebrew name of the biblical book also known as Ecclesiastes, which name is derived from the Greek translation of the work. Others have chosen to grapple with the question Moses imagined future Jewish children eventually putting to their parents as they wondered what the commandments actually mean in terms of the larger picture of Israelite culture and Jewish life in our own day. Still others have addressed the search for meaning in life today by taking into account the question of human suffering, considering the issue both generally as a philosophical challenge and more specifically with reference to the Shoah. Taken all together, the contributors to this volume have put forth the notion that life is ennobled, not trivialized, by the contemplative effort to seek meaning in the ebb and flow of life's experiences and particularly in those life experiences related to the service of God. And yet for all they are united in that conviction our authors in this volume of the Mesorah Matrix series are nonetheless a diverse group older and younger women and men North Americans and Israelis living at home and abroad seasoned scholars and newly minted rabbis and teachers They are teachers and researchers trained in different schools of thought and affiliated with different movements and institutions within the mosaic of Jewish life that characterizes the House of Israel as it enters by its own reckoning the final quarter of the twenty-first century They are a varied lot our authors But in many ways they are all of them cut from the same cloth Our authors work with the original sources and generally present them in their own translations Citations of NJPS refer to the complete translation of Scripture first published under the title Tanakh The Holy Scriptures by the Jewish Publication Society in Philadelphia in 1985 In this volume as in all books in the Mesorah Matrix series the four letter name of God is generally represented by the Eternal or Eternal God Authors who are specifically discussing the actual four letter name on the other hand may occasionally depart from this usage in order to more clearly make the point of their argument I would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge the other senior editors of the Mesorah Matrix series David Birnbaum and Rabbi Benjamin Blech as well as Rabbi Saul J Berman our associate editor They and our able staff have all supported me as I've labored to bring this volume to fruition and I am grateful to them all As always I must also express my gratitude to the men and women and particularly to the lay leadership of the synagogue I serve as rabbi the Shelter Rock Jewish Center in Roslyn New York Possessed of the unwavering conviction that their rabbi's book projects are part and parcel of his service to them and through them to the larger community of those interested in learning about Judaism through the medium of the well written word they are remarkably supportive of my literary efforts as author and editor I am in their debt and I am therefore very pleased to acknowledge that debt formally here and wherever I publish my own work or the work of others

The Problem of the Idea of Culture in John Paul II John Corrigan, 2019-11-13 In The Problem of the Idea of Culture in John Paul II Exposing the Disruptive Agency of the Philosophy of Karol Wojtyla John Corrigan provides a new lens with which to view and understand the philosophy of Karol Wojtyla John Paul II He exposes Wojtyla as a major player in contemporary philosophical debates The work reformulates the problem of experience in light of the questions surrounding our idea of culture Corrigan argues that for Wojtyla the drama of the problem of experience manifests in the apparently divergent accounts of the meaning of human experience as presented by the philosophies of being and of consciousness Solving this conundrum results in an idea of the person capable of explaining human experience in relation to human culture unfolding the experiences of self knowledge conscience and the ontic causal relationship of the person to human culture The first part of the book concerns formal considerations regarding the constitutive aspects of Wojtyla's approach while the second part deals with pragmatic considerations drawn from his comments on culture Christianity and Confucianism Christopher Hancock, 2020-12-10 Christianity and Confucianism Culture Faith and Politics sets comparative textual analysis against the backdrop of 2000 years of cultural political and religious interaction between China and the West As the world
