The Fens Francis Pryor, 2019-07-11 A BBC Radio 4 Book of the Week Francis Pryor brings the magic of the Fens to life in a deeply personal and utterly enthralling way TONY ROBINSON Pryor feels the land rather than simply knowing it GUARDIAN Inland from the Wash on England's eastern coast crisscrossed by substantial rivers and punctuated by soaring church spires are the low lying marshy and mysterious Fens Formed by marine and freshwater flooding and historically wealthy owing to the fertility of their soils the Fens of Lincolnshire and Cambridgeshire are one of the most distinctive neglected and extraordinary regions of England Francis Pryor has the most intimate of connections with this landscape For some forty years he has dug its soils as a working archaeologist making ground breaking discoveries about the nature of prehistoric settlement in the area and raising sheep in the flower growing country between Spalding and Wisbech In The Fens he counterpoints the history of the Fenland landscape and its transformation from Bronze age field systems to Iron Age hillforts from the rise of prosperous towns such as King's Lynn Ely and Cambridge to the ambitious drainage projects that created the Old and New Bedford Rivers with the story of his own discovery of it as an archaeologist Affectionate richly informative and deftly executed The Fens weaves together strands of archaeology history and personal experience into a satisfying narrative portrait of a complex and threatened landscape

Derelict Stone Buildings of the Black Mountains Massif Christopher George Leslie Hodges, 2015-07-31 This study provides evidence of a widespread settlement pattern that existed in an upland area of the Eastern Massif of the Black Mountains in South East Wales now sparsely populated and that they can be dated from the late medieval and early post medieval periods respectively

A Fenland Garden Francis Pryor, 2023-07-06 The story of how Francis Pryor created a haven for people plants and wildlife in a remote corner of the fens A Fenland Garden is the story of the creation of a garden in a complex and fragile English landscape the Fens of southern Lincolnshire by a writer who has a very particular relationship with landscape and the soil thanks to his distinguished career as an archaeologist and discoverer of some of England's earliest field systems It describes the imagining planning and building of a garden in an unfamiliar and sometimes hostile place and the challenges setbacks and joys these processes entail This is a narrative of the making of a garden but it is also about reclaiming a patch of ground for nature and wildlife of repairing the damage done to a small slice of Fenland landscape by decades of intensive farming A Fenland Garden is informed by the empirical wisdom of a practising gardener and archaeologist and by his deep understanding of the soil landscape and weather of the region Francis's account of the development of the garden is counterpointed by fascinating nuggets of Fenland lore and history as well as by vignettes of the plantsman's trials and tribulations as he works an exceptionally demanding plot of land Above all this is the story of bringing something beautiful into being of embedding a garden in the local landscape and thereby of deepening and broadening the idea of home

Parks in Medieval England S.A. Miles, 2009-07-16 Parks were prominent and indeed controversial features of the medieval countryside but they have been unevenly studied and remain only partly understood Stephen Miles provides the first full length study of the subject examining parks across the country and throughout the Middle Ages in their full social economic jurisdictional and landscape context The first half of the book investigates the purpose of these royal and aristocratic reserves which have been variously claimed as hunting grounds economic assets landscape settings for residences and status symbols An emphasis on the aristocratic passion for the chase as the key motivation for park making provides an important challenge to more recent views and allows for a deeper appreciation of the connection between park making and the expression of power and lordship The second part of the book examines the impact of park creation on wider society from the king and aristocracy to peasants and townsmen Instead of the traditional emphasis on the importance of royal regulation greater attention is paid to the effects of lordly park making on other members of the landed elite and ordinary people These widespread enclosures interfered with customary uses of woodland and waste hunting practices roads and farming not surprisingly they could become a focus for aristocratic feud popular protest and furtive resistance Combining historical archaeological and landscape evidence this ground breaking study provides fresh insight into contemporary values and how they helped to shape the medieval landscape

Experiencing Dodona Diego Chapinal-Heras, 2021-03-08 A monograph concerning the sanctuary of Dodona and its role in the political context of Epirus might be a remarkable input Located in a region that has received more interest in the last years this book attempts to analyze the way the shrine evolved in connection with the political developments of its surrounding region The study employs a diachronic perspective and emphasizes throughout that religion was a dynamic not a static phenomenon The chronology of this research extends from the Archaic to Hellenistic periods Its key novelty is that it offers an entirely new holistic approach to an ancient religious site by considering its polyfunctionality At the same time that it presents a state of the art analysis of the shrine of Dodona and contributes with a new theory concerning the function of some structures located in the sacred area it also highlights the close connection between a settlement and its region For this reason the aim is to become a reference work that allows continuing the current trend of studies focused on Epirus a territory traditionally considered as secondary
